An easy spender is very rarely a fallacious earner.

It is said that money talks. Perhaps that is the reason that it makes some people keep their mouths shut.

And then, again, the yellow peril is sometimes nothing but a well developed case of dyspepsia.

When you hear a man making a noise like a mule don't get into an argument with him.

All the good in the world can't keep a man from destruction if it is all outside of him.

When you execute an evil deed don't place the matter by paying a dollar to have it recorded.

OPINION OF A NEW YORK MAN
Says Crater Lake Surpasses Yosemite, Yellowstone park, Niagara Falls or Mammoth Caves of Kentucky

(Medford Tribune.)

"While my opinion may not be that of an artist, still I should say that for grandeur, for true scenic beauty, Crater lake surpasses the wonderful Yosemite valley of California. Never before was I so entranced as that moment when the waters of Crater lake spread before my view, and I say this after visiting Yosemite, Yellowstone park, Niagara Falls, the Mammoth caves in Kentucky and other pieces of scenic wonders in America. It is the wonderful color of the water, I think, that took away my breath, as so the majestic cliffs, the wonderful strength of the mountains, when I recall my first view of the lake."

Such was the tribute paid to southern Oregon's natural wonder, beautiful Crater lake, by Howard S. Rosside, president of the American Security & Trust company of New York, upon his return Sunday evening from his trip to the lake.

Mr. Rosside was unfortunate in his endeavor to see a bear and to bring back a look or two, but nevertheless he is satisfied with his trip.

"I intend," continued Mr. Rosside, "to return to southern Oregon next summer and bring with me a number of my New York friends, including the lift to his breakfast, which he will eat to the accompaniment of a summary of the morning's news read out for the benefit of the family or whispered into his ears by a talking machine."

PATRICK HENRY.

A Saint in Religious Matters, but Different in Politics.

The Virginia Magazine of History and Biography has a number of letters by Roger Atkinson, a Virginia planter, who came from Cumberland, England, about 1750 and settled near Petersburg. To his brother-in-law, Samuel Plesant of Philadelphia, he writes in October, 1771, concerning Virginia's recently appointed seven delegates to the first Philadelphia congress. The spirit of the man is shrewd, but obviously not reverential.

"Ye old gentleman, Colo Washington, was bred a soldier a warrior, a distinguished himself in early life before & at ye death of ye unfortunate but intrepid Braddock. He is a modest man, but sensible & speaks little—in action cool like a Bishop at his prayer."

The 4th, a real half Quaker, Patrick Henry, your Brother's man—moderate & mild & in religious matter a Saint but ye very Devil in Politics—a son of Thunder—Bour-Forges—the Patriotic Farmer will explain this. I know it is above your Thumbs. He will shake ye Senate & Some years ago had like to have talked Treason in ye House, in these times a very useful man, a notable American, very stern & steady in his country's cause & at ye same time such a fool that I verily believe it w'd puzzle even a king to buy him off—he's a second Shilpin—oh, that he had the handling of some of our Courtiers—for instance, was it North or South Scotch English or Welsh ye poor Irish have enough of it in their own country; our Patrick w'd certainly be very unwell—he is no Macaroni."

FLOATING IN THE AIR.

The Impression on Ascending in a Free Balloon.

One of the first questions which I am usually asked by persons seeking information about balloons is, "What is the sensation of going up in a balloon?" writes Captain C. DeF. Chandler, U. S. A. I will anticipate this same inquiry of the readers of this article and state for their information that in a free balloon I have not noticed any peculiar physical sensation which can be described. It would be like trying to describe standing still as a sensation. The impression on ascending in a free balloon is more an optical illusion. The ascent is so slow and gentle that it cannot be felt, and one has the impression that the balloon is motionless and the earth gradually dropping away. All the noises and shouts of the people become fainter and die out. As the altitude increases hills and valleys are not apparent, and the earth seems flat, like a beautiful colored map, showing cultivated fields, forests, etc.

The greater part of the time a balloon is moving either up or down, but the motion is not apparent, and it requires a statoscope to indicate whether the balloon is ascending or descending. If a considerable change of altitude is made in a short time, the difference in air pressure may be felt on the ear drums. In descending even quite rapidly I have never had any sensation of falling.—Journal of Military Service.

The Bath of the Future.

"The bath of the next century," says T. Baron Russell in his book "A Hundred Years Hence," "will have the body speedily with oxygenated water delivered with a force that will render rubbing unnecessary, and beside it will stand the drying cupboard, lined with some quickly moving arrangement of soft brushes and fed with a highly desiccated air, from which, almost in a moment, the bather will emerge dried and with a skin gently stimulated and perhaps electrified, to clothe himself quickly and pass down

Marital Punishment.

"So you have had it out with your wife? How did you manage it?"

"Took her up in McLemore's cove. There there is the most remarkable echo in the world."

"How did that cure her? What did the echo have to do with her malady?"

"The echo had the last word."—New York Press.

Men Are So Unreasonable.

The young wife cannot understand why, if she only has a vase of fresh flowers on the table at breakfast, her husband should find fault just because the steak is burned.—Somerville Journal.

A Different March.

School Inspector—Now, children, what is it that comes in like a lion and goes out like a lamb? Small Girl—Please, sir, it's father when mother has been giving him a talking to.—London Express.

The world is full of men and women who do nothing. They generally impose on some one who works too much.—Athenian Globe.

Pygmy Camels.

The western part of Persia is inhabited by a species of camels which are the pygmies of their kind. They are snow white and are on that account almost worshipped by the people.

The Simplon Pass.

The road constructed by Napoleon over the Simplon pass has 264 bridges and rises to a height of 6,560 feet.

The Kingbird.

The kingbird owes his name to the fact that he is the one small bird who ventures to attack the marauding crow and that he always comes off victorious. Rising above his foe, he drops upon his back, attacking him with beak and claws until the unlucky intruder makes off in ludicrous consternation.

Iron and Oxygen.

Pure iron in the presence of pure oxygen does not rust.

Densely Populated.

The population of the world could be contained in Delaware if it was as congested as the people in eleven New York city blocks, at the rate of 1,200 per acre.

Austria's Iron Mountain.

The Erzberg, Austria's iron mountain, will furnish ore for 1,000 more years.

Cochin China.

The area of Cochin China is about 21,000 square miles—virtually a great level rice field—one-fifth of which is under cultivation. The draft animals are bullocks and carabaos.

MILLS ADDITION LOTS
are Advancing in Value

When blocks in Mills Addition were offered at bargain prices a number of shrewd investors bought; since that time values have increased materially.

These Lots are Bargain Buys at present prices, and there is every reason to anticipate an advance in prices. Remember these lots are FIFTY feet in width and ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY FEET deep—more than double the area of most town lots offered to investors.
