KLAMATH FALLS, MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 1908.

EUROPE NEEDS AMERICAN IDEAS OF MONEY.

I believe in a republic, says Mrs. Astor in the November Delinquent. I believe in a republic in which money has a great deal to say, as in ours. Money represents with us energy and character. It is acquired by brains and untiring effort; it is kept intact only by the same means. It were well if Europe were imbued more with the American ideas of money power—I do not say ideals—that is another thing. But American ideas about developing the natural resources of the country and their common-sense notions about work would bring about great things in Europe. Best of all, there is the American idea demonstrated about us every day that each man can bring happiness and comfort to himself and to those he loves if he will only set about it, and that education, books, pictures, travel, are all within his reach.

I can speak with authority about our young people. I have always kept in close touch with them. They are of a new age and often have different ideas from my own old, conservative ones. And they are full of health and abundant spirits, embodiments of the new age of athletic development and out-of-door sport. It is perhaps true that they frequently go into excess in amusement, but they are not degenerate and they are not vicious. Our young men enter seriously upon the business of taking care of their large financial interests, and they often take up an individual business or profession in addition, going in for healthy sports only as a well-earned diversion.

Our young women are easily trained in domestic matters and taught to appreciate their responsibility toward the poor. There are no such barriers between the very rich and the very poor as some newspapers would have the world believe. All of my friends do a great deal for the poor, and their daughters are brought up from infancy to look upon their charity work as an important part of their lives. When our girls marry, they take up the management of establishments in town and country, they rear large families of children and personally supervise their education at home during the critical early years. They are in love with their husbands and devoted to their interests.

Yes, I have heard that our young women smoke and drink and do other terrible things. I know a great many of them and know them very well; I have known them since they were born, and I am quite sure there is not one in my circle who is a cigarette fiend or who drinks to excess.

Five hundred manufacturers of explosives, pulpwood and similar products, have been asked by the National Conservation Commission for information as to all possible uses of sawdust. From this it will be seen that the commission is going into fine details in its inventory of the natural resources of the country. Seven thousand lumbermen have been asked for their opinion as to the waste of lumber in sawmills, and more than 2000 lumber dealers and cooperage, veneer furniture, box vehicle and implement manufacturers have been asked to point out striking features of waste in their respective lines. Yet all this is only one part of the general scheme of hunting down waste which the Commission is following in making its inventory. It is going after the little wastes here and there, which added together and put into dollars and cents, make an astonishing total.

WOMEN CAN'T UNDERSTAND—
 Why the "nicest" men are so often the ones with such terrible pasts.
 Why it is that a man who is such a dear during the courtship becomes such a bear during the first days of the honeymoon.
 How it is that their friends, who have so much less income than they, manage to keep their heads so high in the social swim.
 How their own husbands managed to come off so gloriously in this wicked world that husbands say has defied so many other men.

Man calls his wife his "better half." But that's a sort of a bluff: He can't deceive himself, for she's the whole thing, sure enough.

Military authorities are discussing the need of increasing the strength of the army by adding aerial navigation to the signal corps. There is a bill awaiting congressional action which seeks to increase the strength of the corps from 1200 officers and men to 2500. A special course of training in aeronautics will be provided for.

The public schools of New York city are opened. The total enrollment is estimated at 640,000, an increase of more than 20,000 over last year's opening attendance. Twenty-four new school buildings were completed through the summer months to accommodate the enlarged classes. The teaching force is increased a thousand instructors.

President A. H. Joline of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroad says a great commercial revival is setting in. The outlook for crops in Texas and Oklahoma is very bright and a heavy traffic is expected. He says that the road has invested $22,881,000 in the past eight years for equipment, additions and betterment, of this amount $11,900,000 being derived from earnings and $10,981,000 from bonds.

Postmaster General Meyer has requested the postmasters of the country to confer with their local school authorities as to the practicability and desirability of delivering to the school children short talks on the organization of the postal service. The design is to inform the pupils of the scope of its operation, the methods of delivering the mail, the classification of mail matter and the registry and money order systems. Incidentally the postmasters are expected to make known plans for betterment of postal savings banks and the extension of the parcels post.

MILLS ADDITION LOTS are Advancing in Value

When blocks in Mills Addition were offered at bargain prices a number of shrewd investors bought; since that time values have increased materially.

These Lots are Bargain Buys at present prices, and there is every reason to anticipate an advance in prices. Remember these lots are FIFTY feet in width and ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY FEET deep—more than double the area of most town lots offered to investors.
