Some of the government's many suits for the dissolution of wicked trusts have developed the employment of very questionable methods of money-making. None of these concerns, however, ever took meager advantage of men and women than an English comedian is recently reported to have taken of a party of friends. The party numbered very few persons who had not passed the prime of life. The actor suggested that each one present lay a certain sum of money on the table and that the whole amount go to the person who possessed the most of the articles the comedian would call for. Those present consented and within a few minutes between $12 and $15 had been laid on the table. "Now," said the comedian, "which lady or gentleman present has the greatest number of false teeth?" As no one else was willing to make a confession, the comedian took the money.

Over five tons of advertising matter about Oregon were shipped by the passenger department of the Harriman lines from Portland last week. Bound for every point in the United States and many of the principal cities of Europe. In the shipment were 57 cases weighing 200 pounds each, making the shipment amount to 11,400 pounds of Oregon advertising matter.

The booklets and advertising pamphlets are sent out at this time largely because of the travel next summer. The winter months are conceded to be the best time to distribute booklets on the Pacific Coast because the trips made by most travelers are conceived and planned for between Christmas and the spring months. The advertising work being done for Oregon at present is on the largest scale in the history of advertising anywhere in the world and has far outstripped the famous work done for California.

—THE—

KLAMATH IRRIGATION PROJECT.
By W. H. Belleman,
U. S. Reclamation Service.

The Klamath Project has sufficiently progressed in the building of its irrigation system to invite settlement in a large way. The lands of this project were largely in private ownership before the time the Reclamation Service began its comprehensive scheme of irrigation development. Previous to the entrance of the government into this field, two small private irrigation districts existed on the project and the nucleus for farm settlement and town building was already established. Upon the advent of the Reclamation Service, adjustment was made of existing water rights in the district, and land in private ownership was subscribed to the project, in accordance with the terms of the Reclamation Act. At the present time there is but little land in the project open to homestead entry, and establishing a home generally entails the purchase of land from the present owner. The purchase of land in private ownership under a government project may be considered by many settlers as having material advantage over homestead entries on public land, as, for instance, the more rapid requirement of title, though the water right obligations are the same in both cases. A person purchasing land from a private owner at once establishes sufficient title to obtain some credit at the local stores. Such a condition is not possible in homesteading.

Klamath Falls is at present the principal town in the basin, and is the county seat of Klamath County. It is a town of 2500 inhabitants, has a number of substantial homes, and is well located, having on one side the Link River with its water-power possibilities, and a lake frontage on both Ewauna and Upper Klamath lakes. Numerous additions have been platted to the older portion of the town. Several hot springs issue in or near the town limits, and an adequate water supply for municipal and domestic use is derived from pure cold springs located within the city limits.

AT SETH'S SERENADE.

When Seth got married we had a bee, And went up to his house for a shivaree. Some took drums, and some took pans, And some took whistles, and some tin cans With strings in the bottom and rosam to rub, And they yowled like wildcats at every scrub. And the dullest noise that ever was made Was the whoopedew at Seth's serenade.

But we carried something beside the noise To that little home, we girls and boys. And after the bang, and fun, and din, Seth gave us an invite and we went in, And under each arm was a bundle hid— We loaded them down, that's what we did! Pounds of this and pounds of that— Bundles were big and bags were fat. And then the aquire a speech he made For the rest of the crowd at Seth's serenade.

"We're here to wish ye long life," said he, "And a way that is smooth and as straight as can be. Start every day as ye're startin' a row With a smile on your face and a care-free brow. So I bring ye to-night— friends Seth and May— A can of the cheer that starts my day. Then he crowned the hoop— he's a knowin' man— With a Chase & Sanborn coffee can. And before we left we had coffee made— 'Twas the best of the treat at Seth's serenade."
