AT SETH'S SERENADE.

When Seth got married we had a bee, and went up to his house for a shivaree. Some took drums, and some took pans, and some took whistles, and some tin cans with strings in the bottom and rum to rub, and they yowled like wildcats at every scrub, and the loudest noise that ever was made was the whoopedew at Seth's serenade.

But we carried something beside the noise that little home, we girls and boys, and after the bang, and fun, and din, Seth gave us an invite and we went in, and under each arm was a bundle hid— we loaded them down, that's what we did! pounds of this and pounds of that— bundles were big and bags were fat, and then the squire a speech he made for the rest of the crowd at Seth's serenade.

"We're here to wish ye long life," said he, "and a way that is smooth and as straight as can be."

"Start every day as ye're startin' now with a smile on your face and a care-free brow."

"I bring ye to-night— friends Seth and May— can of the cheer that starts my day."

"Then be crowned the happy—he's a knowin' man—"

"With a Chase & Sanborn coffee can."

"And before we left we had coffee made— was the best of the treat at Seth's serenade."
