KLAMATH FALLS, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 1909.

The winning team in the All-Alaska Sweepstakes, the $10,000 dog team race to be held in Nome, next April, will be brought to Seattle and exhibited at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition.

Prof. James Atlas, of Bridgeport, Conn., once heavyweight champion wrestler, has offered President Roosevelt $300,000 a year to head a rough rider show in opposition to Buffalo Bill. In addition, Atlas offers to furnish two private cars and stenographers for the exclusive use of the President.

The National Association of Retail Milliners has decided that the merry widow hat is to be relegated to the attic. It is no longer the correct mode. The newest styles in spring hats look like inverted flower pots. They are of rough highly-polished straw. A jaunty military medallion or braid from which two tassels droop below the edge is the sole ornament. The new hats demand slick, elegant coiffures.

Cock fighting, an ancient institution preserved in San Antonio, Tex., for over two centuries through the Mexican element, is doomed and will soon be a thing of the past. The district attorney has rendered an opinion to the effect that cock fighting is a species of gambling and action will be taken by the sheriff and constable to abolish the sport. Only a few cock pits survived the wave of reform that swept over that city four or five years ago. A day or two since one of the most famous of these pits on Laredo street was raided by the police and the famous old cock fighter who conducts it was arrested and fined. Three years ago the sport of roping cattle for prizes was abolished by an act of the legislature. That too was a typical Texas institution, but was held to be cruel and accordingly abolished. The Texas of today is nothing, if not law-abiding.

The American Journal of American science last week published the first time details of the discovery by Dr. Randle C. Rosenberger of Philadelphia of blood and test methods in the cure of consumption. It is said that the discovery enables physicians to detect the presence of the disease germs in the blood long before they attack the lungs and before the disease reaches what is called the "incurable" stage. It is expected that the number of tuberculosis victims that can be saved from the grave is incalculable. The test consists of drawing two spoonfuls of the patient's blood. A salt solution containing a small per cent of citrate of soda is introduced into the test tube and the mixture placed on ice for 24 hours. The sediment is spread on glass slides, which are dried over a flame. These are immersed in distilled water and the red corpuscles are removed. The slide is dried and is "stained" first red, in carbol fuchsin, and then blue in what is known as "Pappenheim's solution." The disease germs remain red and its presence is thus discovered. Where there is one germ, there are hundreds of thousands, hence early precautions can be taken and in many cases a cure effected.

MUST FILE FOR WATER RIGHT.

Some of the settlers and homesteaders on the Belle Poudre irrigation project in South Dakota are in trouble with the Department of the Interior through failure, after making their homestead entries, in a legal way, to file water right applications in accordance with the official instructions given to them when making entry. Secretary Garfield has therefore felt himself constrained to issue the following notice:

"All persons who have made homestead entries of any of such lands subject to the reclamation act and who have not filed water right applications therefor are hereby notified that such lands are subject to the charges announced in the public notice, whether or not water right application is made therefor or water is used thereon, and that no water will be furnished unless applications has been duly filed and the portions of the instalments on account of operation and maintenance have been paid in accordance with the public notice and orders issued.

"All entries made after the date hereof for the lands shown on said plats must be accompanied by water right applications, and payment must be made, at the time of entry, of the first instalment on account of the charges for building, operation and maintenance, $3.40 per acre of irrigable land. The second instalment shall become due on December 1 of the year following that in which entry was made, and subsequent instalments on December 1 of each year thereafter."

One disadvantage of courting a girl who lives in a climate of perpetual sunshine is that there is no relief from the hieveryman's bills.

The Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition monument will be gilded with pure gold at a cost of $7000.
