Hatchard's, in London, perhaps the most famous book store in the world, is to be pulled down and rebuilt. In 1797 John Hatchard started business with a capital of $24 and a beautiful trust in Providence, opened his modest shop in Piccadilly and soon made it a rendezvous for many of the greatest book-lovers in the land. Canning and Crabbe, Byron and Hannah More were among his early friends and patrons, and the Duke of Wellington spent many an hour chatting with the bookseller, to whom he once paid $450 for a pamphlet which cost Hatchard $24. It was in Hatchard's that Macaulay, as a boy, spent his cents on books recommended by Hannah More, and Charles Kingsley and Mr. Gladstone often met there and exchanged views on literature and politics.

MILLS ADDITION LOTS
 are Advancing in Value

When blocks in Mills Addition were offered at bargain prices a number of shrewd investors bought; since that time values have increased materially.

These Lots are Bargain Buys at present prices, and there is every reason to anticipate an advance in prices. Remember these lots are FIFTY feet in width and ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY FEET deep—more than double the area of most town lots offered to investors.
