KLAMATH FALLS, MONDAY, MARCH 8, 1909.

LOVE INCOMPARABLE.

There is no love so great as the mother-love; no devotion that will willingly make such heroic sacrifices. A recent terrible fire, in which scores of school children lost their lives, brought forth an excellent example of the calm sacrifice of a mother to cheer her daughter at the moment of death.

Calling the name of her little girl who she knew was in the burning building, the mother rushed to the nearest window and, with the flames creeling about her, tried to climb in. She was restrained by force, and then as a sudden gust of wind cleared away the smoke, she saw outlined in the window at which she had sought entrance the figure of her daughter. The window was near the ground, but two hundred frenzied children who pushed from behind made it impossible for the little girl to climb out. She was pinioned by the legs in the crush of bodies that were jammed against the wall. The mother called to her to climb out. The child's lips moved but her words were lost in the roar of the flames. When she saw she could not make herself heard she smiled and shook her head.

The mother pressed her body against the wall and by reaching up was able to lay her hand on the girl's head. She seized her by the hair and pulled, but to no avail. The child's garments were on fire. When she saw that it was useless to try to pull her daughter through the window, and realized that hope was gone, the mother laid her hand on the child's face and stroked it while the fire ate upward through the little tot's garments.

The scorching flames enveloped the child from head to foot, but the mother continued to console her while the fire burned on. When the floor fell in, and took the dead girl with it, the mother withdrew her hand. It was burnt to a crisp to the elbow.

Calmly she walked across the street to the house of a physician, where she refused to be attended until three children, who had preceded her, were cared for.—March Deineator.

CONSERVATION CONGRESS

ON AUGUST 16-17-18.

The first Conservation Congress for all the Northwestern states will take place in Seattle on August 16-17-18. A call for the Congress has just been issued by the Washington Conservation Association, one of the strongest state organizations in the country. Arrangements have been made for the entertainment of 1000 delegates and the meetings will be held in the big auditorium on the grounds of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition.

The governors of all the states will be asked to be in attendance at the Congress. Such men as Andrew Carnegie, Gifford Pinchot, Frederick Weyerhaeuser and others have already been extended invitations to participate in the Congress, and according to C. H. Baily, Secretary of the Conservation Association, the convention will be the biggest thing of its kind ever held in the United States saving that of the Congress of Governors called by the President a year ago.

The Washington Conservation Association has engaged Ashel Curtis to go through the state and take a series of conservation photographs that, it is expected, will be second to none in the world. These will be exhibited in the exposition auditorium during the Congress. The views will include forestry, fisheries, irrigation and other phases of conservation work such as have heretofore never been assembled in the West.

Warts will be cured by wiping them several times daily with castor oil and allowing it to dry in.

WHEN ROOSEVELT GETS TO AFRICA.

Your luggage collected, you go by train from Mombasa to Nairobi, 327 miles up the line. From here the real start into the interior is usually made. You will have previously secured your hunter's license, costing $50, or $250, without which no one is permitted to hunt what is known as Royal Game. The elephant, hippopotamus, buffalo, rhinoceros, eland, giraffe, zebra, impalla, and ostrich come under this head; and even with license only a limited number may be killed.

For the first twenty-five or thirty miles a stern and wary eye must be kept upon the native porters. Inevitably there will be desertions, so that sometimes an expedition is seriously depleted. There are wily ones who make a practice of enlisting with one outfit to obtain the one month's wages that must invariably be paid in advance, and slipping back to the coast at the first opportunity, to repeat their tactics elsewhere. Thirty porters to each white in the party is the usual number employed, and sixty pounds per man is the regulation load, which must not be exceeded; but where forced marches are contemplated for any reason, it is far better to reduce the load to fifty or fifty-five pounds, and take along more men.

But although so large a number of men is required, the cost, after all, is not so staggering as you may think. The pay for porters, under ordinary conditions, ranges from $3.50 to $5.50 a month, with an extra allowance of from $1 to $2 for food. Gun bearers and caravan headmen, of course, draw higher wages, the headman getting from twelve to fifteen dollars a month if he be a Swahili, and nearly double that amount if he be a Somali. Cheapness in this respect is a poor economy; the Somali is the highest type of native in British East Africa; and while the Swahili is competent to do, he by no means approaches the other in courage and efficiency.—C.B. Taylor, in the March Everybody's.

So serious is becoming the question of supplying ties for our railroads, that the Santa Fe system recently sent its manager of the timber and tie department on a tour to the Orient and Europe, to make a study of conditions. It was learned, among other things, that three hundred years ago the Japanese government began to conserve its forests; and that, as a result of its foresight, Japan is now selling ties to railroads in this country and Mexico. There is a duty of twenty per cent on each tie imported into the United States. That we should be paying a twenty per cent duty on ties is one among many constantly accumulating evidences of the thoughtless extravagance with which our magnificent timber supply has been ruthlessly swept away.

MILLS ADDITION LOTS are Advancing in Value

When blocks in Mills Addition were offered at bargain prices a number of shrewd investors bought; since that time values have increased materially.

These Lots are Bargain Buys at present prices, and there is every reason to anticipate an advance in prices. Remember these lots are FIFTY feet in width and ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY FEET deep—more than double the area of most town lots offered to investors.
