KLAMATH FALLS, MONDAY, APRIL 19, 1909.

RESULT OF CONTINUOUS LABOR.

In keeping with the improvement and progress of Klamath Falls, the Evening Herald has again been compelled to enlarge in order to accommodate the increasing demands of its old and new patrons. A little over a year ago the Herald was increased from a four page five column to a six column paper, and today it appears as a seven column paper.

The Herald started small and has been continually growing and enlarging. During its nearly three years of existence it has never taken a step backwards, it has always been going ahead. It will have to be admitted by even its enemies, if the Herald has any, that the paper has been and is a success, even to a greater extent than the size of the town would seem to justify. There is a reason for this. There is a reason why the Herald has more readers in Klamath Falls than all the other papers combined. There is also a reason why the Herald has had to refuse advertising recently on account of lack of space, and why the business men consider it a good investment to pay more for space in the Herald than in any other paper.

The news columns of the Herald has been fair in the presentation of all matters. It has given the news and the facts whether they were in harmony with the personal opinion of the Editor or not. The people of Klamath Falls depend on the Herald for all the local happenings of importance, and their continued patronage proves that they have not been disappointed, but are satisfied. 225 paid subscribers in the city means that from 1200 to 1500 people read the Herald every evening. Is it any wonder that the merchants and citizens use the Herald when they have a message for the people? The Herald has no dead space in its columns. Both the news and the advertising is fresh and attractive. That is why the Herald is a welcome guest in every home in the city, and is why advertising in the paper pays big returns on the investment.

It takes hard work to make a paper grow. It takes continuous hard work. A let-up for even a day would undo weeks of labor. But the people can feel confident that there is to be no let-up in the advancement of the Herald. It intends to continue to forge ahead, to grow and expand. The management does not intend to be content with the showing the paper has made, but with the encouragement of past success, a renewed effort will be put forth to improve the paper each day.

OTHER PEOPLE'S VIEWS

(Lakewood Examiner)

The City Council of Klamath Falls is getting much deserved censure for granting a street car franchise for 50 years, with no provision for municipal regulation, forfeiture, or restriction in anyway.

In this day and age, with the past before them, men who are so short sighted as that have no business to be entrusted with the business affairs of a city. And taxpayers should not let such things stand unchallenged for a minute. Enough has been done in way of municipal ownership in this country, and in other countries, to show that it is utter folly to grant any franchise of a public utility to private hands for their sole use and benefit.

And Editor Smith of Klamath Falls is right in combating any such foolishness, not to call it a harsher name, on the part of the city council.

The latest phase in Klamath Falls street car franchise is that the people and tax payers are aroused and propose to invoke the referendum to revoke the charter.

That is what they should do, and also make use of the recall to replace such unfaithful servants.
