

EVER SELLS A PART OF BAND OF HORSES

Rose Jr., Rosabond and Others Bring Fair Price

The Portland Journal in a story of the annual stock sale has the following: All the choicest horse flesh in the northwest is winning a glad-welcome to one another at the Country Club grounds, for the opening of the annual combination auction sale of horses, the eighth event of the season, will be held in Portland. The auction opened with Colonel L. Harlan of Kansas, who had far and near, and William Bottom of San Francisco, the best of the best. The contest of C. T. Oliver of Klamath Falls, composed of Montrose, Oscar, Nellie W. H. Rose and Holly, Prince, Roman, Knight and Joe H., was the best put on sale.

Rose Jr., a combination black with five gaits, which brought the most spirited bid for $230. Montrose, bred in Missouri and has a beautiful body. Other notable offerings by Mr. Oliver were Knight, a gelding by Montrose, and Joe H., a gelding by Rose Jr.

ARANT ARRESTED.

Arant was arrested today on a charge of assault and battery. The outcome of the fight occurred Tuesday evening before the Arant boys and Kelley, the latter had his face cut. The preliminary hearing will not probably come up tomorrow.

ALL BUILDINGS AT CRATER LAKE ARE CAVED IN BY SNOW

Heavy Timbered Structures Fail to Withstand Tremendous Weight of Twenty Five Feet of Snow During Winter

Superintendent Arant of Crater Lake National Park has received word from Fort Klamath that Mr. Scott of that place, who recently returned through the park, reports that practically all of the buildings have been broken down by the heavy snow last winter. There is now about ten feet of snow at the Arant camp, which is five miles below the lake. Mr. Wheeler, who was trapped on the head of the Umpqua last winter, states that the snow was the heaviest in that section that it has been for many years. He is of the opinion that there was fully 25 feet of snow at the Arant camp. There were a residence, barn, shop and tool shed and a number of smaller buildings at the Arant camp, and near there Mr. Steel had a log cook building. It is said that every one of these are down with the exception of the tool house. The barn was rebuilt last year by Mr. McMillan of this city and was constructed with the heaviest of timbers and was built to stand the heaviest of storms. Mr. McMillan refuses to believe that the barn is down, as he says it was built as solid as rock. Mr. Arant will leave next week for the camp to investigate the conditions and will probably take men from the fort to assist in removing the bedding and furniture which was left in the house. He states that if the buildings have been damaged as reported, he feels satisfied that it will be impossible to construct buildings at the lake which will stand the snow during the winter.

Sacramento Keeps Talking Klamath

The Sacramento Bee is still keeping up its publicity campaign in regard to the Klamath trade. In Tuesday's issue it says: "The stories in the Bee with regard to the trade conditions in the Klamath Falls district, which the enterprising merchants of Portland are trying to wrest from the jobbers of Sacramento, have awakened a widespread interest, particularly in commercial circles. The result will no doubt be greater activity for the trade of the district among the Sacramento merchants." "The following local merchants interviewed by a Bee reporter this morning for the purpose of getting their views upon the matter: Opens Big Field. "M. N. Kimball of the Kimball-Uspon Company, sporting goods.—We are alive to the fact that the Klamath Falls country opens up a big field for business, particularly in our line. We have two very good customers there now, and as soon as the roads get good enough to send an automobile into the district, we will have one of our salesmen make regular trips there every month or six weeks. We intend to send our man to Lakeview and, in fact, to take in all that part of the country.

Portland Making Hard Fight.

"George Walsh, of Walsh-Richardson Company, leather goods—I first made a trip into the Klamath district in 1890. Then such a thing as a salesman from Portland was unknown in those parts. All the trade came to Sacramento. But now conditions have changed. Portland is making a hard effort to get the trade. Sacramento merchants have a state prejudice to overcome. Personal acquaintance with the merchants, I believe, is the best way to combat."

MAKES OVER $2 PROFIT ON EACH HEN

Results of One Years Experience With Fifteen Hens

There is one man in Klamath Falls who is convinced that keeping hens is a paying proposition, at least when handled on a small scale. About a year ago F. W. Riggs purchased 15 hens, they were just the ordinary common mixed breed, and since then these hens have produced a total of 1766 eggs, or over 147 dozen. At 30 cents a dozen, a very low average, they would bring $44.15. During that time he has paid out for feed less than $15. This would leave him a profit of $2 a hen, and he still has fifteen hens left. From the offspring he was able to furnish his table occasionally with chicken, in addition to the profits on the eggs. The hens originally cost him $7.50, and in one year he made a profit of 100 per cent, which he considers a very good investment.

YONNA ITEMS.

Mr. Manning of Bly stopped at Mr. Vierra's on his way to the Falls. He has been buying horses and will take them to the Coast. Miss Nellie Bliss and Hazel Fitch have again returned to school. W. P. Sedge of Dairy spent Sunday with C. C. Pearson. John Anderson went to Dairy on business.

On Monday Chas. Horton went to the Reservation.

J. G. Wight returned from the Falls last Monday. Joe Welch, C. C. Pearson and W. L. Simpson were in Dairy last Sunday.

Mr. Godfrey Beck, who has been visiting at the home of Emile Egert's in North Yonna, returned to her home Thursday.

Joe Koessel, a former resident of Yonna, and now living in California, is visiting his friends here this week. He will soon return to California.

Jeff Kirkpatrick and family will leave Saturday morning for Fort Klamath, where their household furniture is. They will then go to Bly, where they will work for Ed. Bloomingcamp.

August and Dan Liskey of Swan Lake were in Yonna on business this week.

Godfrey Beck has sold some of his household goods, but still has a quantity left.

A birthday dinner was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey Beck Sunday. Those present, besides the family, were: Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Sterl and son, Joseph, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bliss and daughter, Nellie, Wm. Flackus, Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Colburn and daughter, Lita, and Ernest Nail.

Eddie Sedge of Dairy, who has been ill for some time, left Thursday for California, where he will undergo an operation for appendicitis.

Emil Egert was on the sick list last Tuesday. His wife and Freddie Beck were visiting him at the Laughlin place.

Sam Walker, the deputy sheriff, was in Yonna Valley Wednesday to get jurors for the Arant calf stealing case.

88 DISCONTENTED INDIANS ASK FOR WILSON'S REMOVAL

Son of the Late Jesse Kirk, the Indian Preacher, Takes Leading Part In Attack on Superintendent

Garfield Jack, Sargent Brown and C. M. Kirk, three of the Klamath Indians, are in the city today from the Reservation with a petition which they are going to send to the Secretary of the Interior. The petition is said to be signed by 88 of the Indians and asks the Department for the removal of Superintendent H. G. Wilson. The complaint against the superintendent covers several pages, in which it is charged that he allows white men to hunt on the Reservation, and that the Indian policemen are allowed to loaf around when they should be compelled to work. Their greatest objection is against leasing lands to the sheep men for grazing purposes. It is alleged that the surplus lands of the Indians are leased to sheep men, and the petitioners claim that this destroys the range for cattle. There are over 300 heads of families on the Reservation, and as the petition is signed by less than 25 per cent of that number, it is not considered of very great importance. There are always a number of dissatisfied Indians who are ready to embrace the opportunity for finding fault with conditions. Clayton M. Kirk is one of the principal movers in the petition, and evidently he is trying to follow in the footsteps of his father, the late Rev. Jesse Kirk, who aspired to be a leader. It is easy to stir up discontent among the Indians, and such men as these, who are provided with a good education, very often secure quite a following.

What About That "Clean Up" Day?

The ladies of Medford have inaugurated a "clean up" movement. They have waited patiently for the men to do something, and finally decided to take the matter in their own hands. Women have a reputation for talking, but when it comes to matters of this kind, the men have them skinned to death. The start and finish of all their efforts along this line is simply talk. They usually are willing to talk it to death and nothing is done.

FIVE ARRESTED ON SERIOUS CHARGE

Three Escape From Officers and One Furnishes Bail

Tom Lovelady was brought from Merrill last evening and placed in the county jail. Lovelady was arrested with four other young men of Merrill charged with assault on a 26-year-old girl by the name of Ward. The other four who are said to be implicated are Clay Kahn, Jess Copeland, Elmer Hoyt and Mansfield. Copeland and Mansfield slipped out before the preliminary hearing, and Kahn and Lovelady were bound over to the Grand Jury in the sum of $500 each. Hoyt claimed to have been with the other men, but did not take any part in the assault. As there was no evidence against him, he was discharged and will stand as a witness. Kahn gave bonds.

Lovelady was brought to this city and this morning was given permission to seek bondsmen. He must have gone to some other part of the county to secure bail, as immediately he was free he secured one of Frank Adams' saddle horses out of the stable and left the city. He has two brothers at Keno, but he did not go there. Three deputies are out after him and there is very little chance of his escape. It is also said that Copeland, who skipped from Merrill, also helped himself to one of Adams' horses. It is sometimes a disadvantage to have a reputation of keeping good horses.

Horse Drowns in the Canal

One of C. T. Oliver's teams ran away yesterday afternoon on the west side of the river and fell over the embankment of the government ditch and one of the horses was drowned. The team was driven by Oscar Wright, who was taking some colts to the pasture. He got out to open the gate above the four mill and the colts started to run through the gate and scared the team, which ran off the bank and the wagon, horses and all rolled into the ditch. Wright succeeded in getting the harness and straps loose on both the horses except one line. One of the horses, a six-year-old gray mare, broke loose and swam to the corner of the canal. The line must have remained attached to the wagon, as the horse's head was pulled under the water and it sank and was soon drowned. The boy swam out and got the line loose, but it was too late. The mare was probably worth $100.
