An amended sign.

Many a householder at the corner the painter will find a head of some city with the students of Stanford university in the incident taken from the San Francisco Chronicle. The scores of fraternity houses on the campus were in the process of being cleaned up in preparation for the regattas and luncheons to be given to students on the day of the big football game. A man got the contract to paint one of the houses white with the understanding that the job must be done and dry by a certain day. After making a rush start the painter asked permission to hang out his sign. His request was granted, and he put up a conspicuous announcement over the front porch. "These Premises Being Painted by Blank Blank."

Then the work dragged. He would come one day and stay away two. So the impatient colleagues added to the sign until the announcement read:

"These Premises Being Painted by Blank Blank, Now and Then"

A Calm Witness.

A lawyer was cross examining a witness with a view to getting him muddled in his testimony. The following questions and answers occurred:

"Did you see the plaintiff faint a short time ago?"

"Yes, sir."

"People turn pale when they faint, don't they?"

"No, sir; not always."

"What! Do you mean to tell me that a person can faint and not turn pale?"

"Did you ever hear of such a case?"

"Yes, sir."

"When?"

"About a year ago, sir."

"Who was it?"

"'Twas a negro, sir."

The lawyer excused the witness. Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.
