

PETITION.

In the County Court of the State of Oregon, for Klamath County. In the Matter of the Application to Adopt Baby Eaton, a minor child, to the Honorable J. B. Griffith, Judge of said Court.

Your petitioners, W. P. Rhoads and Mattie E. Rhoads, respectfully represent:

1. That your petitioners are husband and wife, reside in the State of Oregon, and reside at Merrill, in said Klamath County.

2. That they have in their possession a female child of the age of eight months, and that said child is the illegitimate offspring of Iva Eaton; that the said mother is a non-resident of the State of Oregon, and that said child is wholly without parental care and protection.

3. That your petitioners are competent, able and willing to support, educate, train and properly care for and bring up said child.

WHEREFORE your petitioners pray a decree of the Honorable Court

1. That said child be, to all legal intents and purposes, the child of the petitioners.

2. That the name of said child be changed to Iva Willis Rhoads, and that a certificate of such change be granted.

W. P. RHOADS, MATTIE E. RHOADS, Petitioners.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 1st day of May, 1929.

E. E. FITCH, Notary Public for Oregon.

ORDER.

In the County Court of the State of Oregon, for Klamath County. In the Matter of the Petition of W. P. Rhoads et al. to Adopt Baby Eaton, a minor.

Upon reading the petition, filed hereto, of W. P. Rhoads and Mattie E. Rhoads, his wife, praying for a decree of this Court that the above named Baby Eaton, a minor child, be the child of the petitioners, and it also appearing that Iva Eaton is the mother of said child, and it further appearing from the affidavit of W. P. Rhoads, one of the petitioners, that the said Iva Eaton is a non-resident of this State and that personal service on her of said petition and this order cannot be had.

It is considered and ordered that Monday, July 8, 1929, at 10 o'clock a. m., at the Court House of said County, is fixed as the time and place of hearing said petition, and that the said Iva Eaton appear at such time and place to show cause, if any she have, why said petition should not be granted.

It is also ordered that said petition and this order be published once a week for three successive weeks in the Evening Herald, a newspaper printed and published at Klamath Falls, in said County, the first publication to be made on the 4th day of May, 1929.

It is further ordered that a copy of said petition, and this order be forthwith mailed to the said Iva Eaton at Carson City, Nevada, her place of residence.

Dated at Klamath Falls, Oregon, this 2nd day of May, 1929.

J. B. GRIFFITH, Judge.

PERFECT FLIERS.

Eagles, Vulturines and Similar Birds Are in This Class.

It is a fact that these ingenious and daring birds that devote themselves to the solution of the problem of aviation have given on small part of their preliminary study to considering the matter of flight of birds.

A strange result of this investigation is the conclusion, now generally conceded, that as a whole, the bird world is not to be regarded as perfect in its attainment of flight. For instance, it is admitted by the best authorities that all birds do not fly continuously. Many birds, such as the sparrow, finches, thrushes, etc., are still in an imperfect stage of advancement.

In the next class, as being a degree advanced, are put such birds as pigeons, swallows, etc., which are able to drift ahead for a space after they have passed a good start by the vigor of their winging.

In the third class the birds that may be said to be perfect fliers are the eagles, vulturines and storks. The first two birds possessing the ability to rise and fall and away and soar in the air, and without a perceptible movement of their wings. It is, of course, known to every person of an observant turn that these birds, from the side to soar into the air gradually until at last they disappear from the eye of the watcher, it being almost impossible to detect any movement beyond a slight occasional motion of the tail.

A QUICK CHANGE.

From the Desire For Comfort to the Crave For Speed.

Mr. Newcar (about to start on his first trip in his recently purchased motor car, to his chauffeurs—Now, William, I want it thoroughly understood I will not have fast driving. Always keep all under the legal limit—no close to it as you can. Ten miles an hour is fast enough for me. What I want is comfort, not excitement. Do you understand?)

Three days later—"Er—yes—William, I must be back to the house by 7 o'clock. This road seems very straight and wide. Don't you think you might go just a little faster without danger?"

Two days later—"William, this dust is very unpleasant. If you could pass that car ahead—it seems to be going rather slowly."

Next day—"Put on a little more speed, William. There's no use in being a crank. This road is too good to lose the chance."

A week later—"Open her up, William! There are no police within five miles. I'll bet, and if there are who cares? I'm out for fun! Let her zip! Let her zip! This is no steam roller! Let's have some speed!"—Life.

Monkey and Goat.
Monkeys are more renowned for mischief than for kindness, but even monkeys can be benevolent. M. Mouton records the doings of one in Gando, a town that surely seemed to merit that reputation. This monkey had a friend in a goat that went daily to the pasture. Every night the monkey would peek out the bars and thorns, sometimes to the number of 2,000 or 3,000, from the goat's shoes. In order that the animal might be down in peace on coming in from the pasture the goat regularly went in search of his light-headed friend and submitted himself to the operation. Strange to say, the tricky instincts of the monkey resorted themselves after the peeks were removed. He would tease the poor goat unmercifully, plucking his beard, poking him in the eyes and pulling out his hairs. The goat bore it all with patience, perhaps regarding it as only a fair price to be paid for the removal of the thorns.—London Standard.

The Ruling Passion.
His clothes said he was a tramp, but his brow was high and his manner grand. "Madam, may I request the favor of a pair of your husband's cast-off trousers? These are somewhat passé." This, with a sweep of a tattered hat, brought results in the shape of a pair of hubby's oldest, which were just about two degrees better than those the tramp was wearing. After a critical survey of his acquisition, instead of the polite words of thanks the good woman was waiting for, the tramp volunteered, with a deep, long drawn sigh of regret, "Madam, I see your husband discards from weakness."—Puck.

Mission of Pain.
Although looked upon as an evil, pain is kind. It tells that the laws of nature have been violated and warns us to correct the cause. If it were not for pain we would go on doing things that would destroy us. Pain is a warning that something is wrong, and instead of trying to hush the pain with some drug we should seek to remove the cause.
