TELEGRAPH GLEANINGS.

Secretary of the Interior Ballinger has approved the right-of-way of the Deschutes road. This means that the Harriman can go ahead with the building of the line if he desires.

Plans are being completed for a tennis tournament to be played in Medford on July 5th between the different cities of the valley. Teams will be on hand from Ashland, Grants Pass, Jacksonville and possibly other points. The Medford players are getting into shape to meet the invaders and give them the game of their life.

The sloop Gjos, the staunch craft in which Captain Rold Amundsen succeeded in threading the Northwest Passage, is now the property of the City of San Francisco. The historic vessel was presented to the municipality yesterday by Consul Henry Lund of Norway, in behalf of Captain Amundsen and the Norwegian residents of the Pacific Coast. It will find a last haven in an artificial lake in Golden Gate Park that is being prepared for its reception.

The directors of the First National Bank of Ashland have decided to begin the erection of a new bank building at once. Tenants of the old frame office room now occupying the site recently purchased by them on the corner of Main and Hargadine streets have been ordered to vacate, and all are moving out. The new building will be 30x100 of reinforced concrete, two stories high, and will contain two vaults, one of which will be devoted entirely to safe deposit boxes. Plans and specifications are now ready and call for a strictly first-class modern structure.

DR. KEENE LIKES KLAMATH.

Dr. J. M. Keene has returned from a trip to Klamath Falls, which place he visited in order to be on hand at the monster celebration of Railroad day on last Monday. Dr. Keene has nothing but words of praise for the way in which Klamath Falls entertained the visitors, and what they had to show in the way of undeveloped resources.

"There is a wonderful country back of the city of Klamath Falls," said the doctor, "and the way in which the large crowd was received and treated by the residents of that city was to be marveled at. Over 8,000 guests were on hand and all received the very best treatment and the entertainment given by the residents of the city was worth while in every respect. The water carnival was especially pleasing.

"The opening of the new railroad to that city in an event which should be celebrated. It opens up a great land of promise which some day will be a great and thickly settled community. I was surprised at the development manifest in the city and the spirit of optimism which prevails. They have the right spirit there—the spirit which builds up a country."—Medford Tribune.

FARM FOR SALE.

YANKEE WIT.

Lincoln Said He Always Admired and Coveted It.

Alban Jasper Conant, the artist, in telling of his experience in painting a portrait of Lincoln said:

"Yankee wit was mentioned at one of the sittings, and Lincoln said, 'That is something I always admired and coveted.' Some one said, 'Why, you certainly have the credit of possessing it in large measure.' 'No,' said Lincoln, 'not the genuine. I don't remember that I ever got credit for it but once.' Thus he told how, hurrying once through a courtroom, he was ordered by the judge to defend a prisoner accused of assault and battery. A witness was just testifying that the complainant had been fought all over a field. 'On cross examination,' said Lincoln, 'I asked him, 'How large was that field—twenty acres?' 'No,' he replied. 'Two acres?' 'No.' 'Were there two acres?' I persisted. 'Yes, just about two,' he agreed. 'And you saw him fight this man all over the field?' pointing to the prisoner. 'Yes, sir.' 'Well, sir,' I said, 'did you ever see a fight before that turned out so little to the acre?' The witness admitted, with a grin, that he had not. The judge smiled, and the jury snickered. So, saying that as this crop was so poor it did not seem worth further cultivation, I submitted the case. Some of my friends said it was Yankee wit, but that was the only time I ever got credit for it. I wish I had it.'—McClure's Magazine.

HIS VOCABULARY.

It Was Real Literary, According to the Wily Stenographer.

The beautiful typewriter girl pulled out her golden postcard nervously, says the Philadelphia Bulletin. "My speed'll increase, Mr. Meer—excuse me, Wellington—my speed'll increase 30 to 40 per cent every day."

Broker Wellington frowned. The girl had taken his dictation slowly. And in a stern, skeptical voice he said, "How so?"

"It's your new vocabulary that puts me out," she explained. "I had Mr. Meer's vocabulary very pat—as per contents noted, 'the same'—is only used about 800 words." Her flattering smile warmed the man like a sunbeam. "But you, sir, have a real literary style. Beg to submit, your best attention, 'simps,' 'bullies,' 'hypothetical'—they're all new words to me, and of course I can't rattle them off very fast at first. But just you wait, say, till day after tomorrow. Then you'll see."

"All business men have different vocabularies that their stenographers must get accustomed to, eh?" said the broker.

"Yes, sir; some large, some small." Again her smile flattered him. "Yours is larger than most, I should say it was thirty or forty words larger. Real literary, I call it."

"Miss Hopkins, if there's er—any supplies you need all you've got to do is ask," said the literary broker fatuously.

Early Psychotherapy.

In the Epistle of James we find the early Christian rule of psychotherapy. It was adopted by the early church and for many centuries was a rule of faith and practice in the Christian church in all its branches. It is still a rule of conduct in some of the older churches, and some leaders in churches where the rule has lapsed begin to plead for its revival and for the assumption by the church of what are called its legitimate powers. St. James said: "Is any sick among you, let him call for the elders of the church, and let them pray over him, anointing him with oil in the name of the Lord. And the prayer of faith shall save the sick, and the Lord shall raise him up, and if he have committed sins they shall be forgiven him."—Christian Register.

A Sad Case.

An Atchison man has lain in an unconscious state ever since 10 o'clock last night. Everything has been done to arouse him today, but all efforts are unavailing. His friends are greatly alarmed. They fear he may never regain consciousness. It seemed that yesterday evening right after dinner the man picked up his hat, put on his overcoat and, although his wife was sitting right in the room, she did not say, "Where are you going?" He walked out of the house. At 10 o'clock in the evening the man returned. He walked into the room where his wife sat and took off his hat and overcoat. She smiled at him pleasantly and did not say, "Where have you been?" The man fell unconscious to the floor.—Atchison Globe.

African Elephants.

In portions of Africa the natives believe when a herd of elephants is alarmed and runs away the bulls, if necessary, pick up and carry on their backs the little ones which may not be able to keep up with the herd. These little ones when first born weigh not more than 200 pounds and of course might readily be carried, as stated. We do not know that any white man has ever seen this, but the natives insist that it is done.—Forest and Stream.

The Similarity.

Robbs—Why do you liken Harduppe to the busy bee? He isn't particularly industrious, is he? Robbs—Oh, no; it isn't that, but nearly every one he touches gets stung.—Philadelphia Record.

Bring Her With You!

WOMEN know better than men what is good quality in cloth. They know a pure wool fabric when they see it, and they have good taste too in the selection of fabric, design and color. That is why we like you to Bring Her With You when you want to buy a new suit or overcoat. Ask for the International genuine all wool line, and put the question of worth to her. International quality can stand the severest test—eye—the test even of a bargain-hunting lady. BRING HER WITH YOU.

Helping the Town . . .

By banking your money in a bank in your own community you increase the community's power to do business. If substantial farmers want to borrow money there is more to loan them. If you bank your money away from home it is loaned to other farmers, merchants and manufacturers. Help your home people. Money hidden at home helps no one. Placed in a bank it is put to work in ways that help all.
