Death Valley.
Death valley is a desert valley in Inyo county, Cal., lying between the Panamint range on the west and the Funeral, Amargosa, and Grapevine ranges on the east. Much of the valley is below sea level, and there are only a few places where ordinary drinkable water can be obtained. The valley was formerly the bed of a salt lake along the east side.

An Extinguished Flame.
"John, I found a lock of hair among your old letters."
"Well?"
"I never gave it to you."
"Don't worry, I don't remember who did."—Houston Chronicle.

A Chinese Punishment.
In some parts of China the punishment for murder is sleeplessness. The culprit is kept awake until he dies. Under this treatment a person lives also or ten days.

Speaking Tramp.
Alexander the Great is said to have used a speaking trumpet.

To know how to walk in the great secret of success.—De Motiva.

FAVE OF THE WORLD.

Four Ways in Which Our Planet May Come to an End.

The earth and all its inhabitants are doomed inevitably to destruction, according to Professor Percival Lowell, who declared that one of four possible fates awaits this planet and every thing on it. A tramp star might strike the earth, he said, and send it and its people to powder, or tide full into the sun, when the earth's axial creature would be scorched to death. Tidal friction, by its gradually retarding force, might paralyze the earth's motion so that one side of the globe would be eternally laked by the sun and the other side forever fringed. This has already happened to Mercury and Venus.

By the loss of all water and air through depletion or absorption the earth might become a dry, desiccated mass of a planet, wandering listlessly through space. Mercury, again, is an example of this, and so is the moon. The most sure death of all, however, as depicted by Professor Lowell, is the decay and freezing of the sun, which is certain to occur some time. When the last flicker is out of that glowing ball, devoid of all radiance and warmth, and its return of inert, dark tramps, among them the earth, will drift about awaiting collision with some other planetary derelict, which would mean at one destruction and a new birth.—Boston Journal.

VIGOROUS OLD AGE.

Men Who Did Good Work in the Evening of Life.

Bartho Dandolo was not elected doge of Venice until he was eighty-two years old, and he still retained the fire and vigor of his youth. He assaulted and captured the city of Constantinople when he was ninety-two years old, himself displaying the qualities of St. Mark and outlasting his followers to the change. Villars, the French general, in his eighty-fourth year, when crippled with wounds and disease, led a cavalry charge with the same light hearted contempt for danger displayed by him in his youth. The men who won distinction in high command during the mutiny against the English in India in 1857-9 were all of them well advanced in years. Sir Colin Campbell, the commander in chief, was sixty-five; Harleok was sixty-two; Sir Hugh Ross fifty-seven and Sir James Outram fifty-four. They stood the fatigue of field service in a tropical climate, with the thermometer at from 110 degrees to 119 degrees in the shade, as well as younger men.—English Magazine.

"Fourteenth" Louis.
It is a singular fact that if you want to recollect the prominent events of the life of Louis XIV. all you have to do is to recollect the dates at which they took place into the figure 14. Thus Louis XIV. became king in 1643 under a regency when five years old; add 1-6-4-3-14. Again, he was born on the fourteenth day of September; count the words "day of September," and you will find them to be fourteen. Again, he became of age at fourteen, the legal age for kings of France. Again, he began his personal government at the death of Mazarin in 1651; add 1-6-5-1-14. Again, he reigned seventy-two years; multiply 7 by 2-14. Again, he died at seventy-seven—add 7-1-4. Again, his father, Louis XIII., died May 14, 1643; add 1-4-3-14. His grandfather, Henry IV., died May 14, 1610; add 1-4-3-14. Louis XIV. died in 1715 and so kept the 14 up even to his death, for add 1-7-1-5-14.

Pretty Good Fishing.
A sportsman was once on the beach at the outlet of a creek in New York state looking for silver birds when he saw a colored boy, who was fishing for perch, lay down his pole at the call of his mother to do some errand. The sportsman put his gun aside and took the cane pole and asked, adding a dove perch to the boy's string and thus speaking of, presently a second sportsman, happening that way, asked the boy the usual question and received this answer:
"Yes, dey's good fishin' beach. Wen I stop to run to de sto' fo' to get some catwax fo' my gun, de perch dey come outen de creek an' jes' strings dey give me my string. I don' on' stin' it, but dey's jes' as good fo' breakfas' 's if dey was cotched awn a hook."

A Debtor's Wee.
"The worst thing about owing people, signed: the woman, is that it comes to give them the right to ask me such questions and impatient questions about things that really should be gone of their business. I never owe of my time man, for example, that he says, 'I got my eye in the eye, but I can't see it, and I can't see my eye.'—New York Times.

Shut Out the Old Kid.
Faint-hearted child (with unwholesome papers)—I shall ask you attention city's attention, sir. Are you a friend of the dumb-bell?—Sherry McGinnis—You bet I am! That's why I hate dumb-bells and children.—Chicago Tribune.

The Financial Mingivets.
"Was you a bull or a bear in Wall street?"
"Neither," answered the cautious man. "I had, having funds to invest, I was a griffin. I just rubbernecked."—Washington Post.

Helping the Town . . .
By banking your money in a bank in your own community you increase the community's power to do business. If substantial farmers want to borrow money there is more to loan them. If you bank your money away from home it is loaned to other farmers, merchants and manufacturers. Help your home people. Money hidden at home helps no one. Placed in a bank it is put to work in ways that help all.

The First National Bank of Klamath Falls is a good bank to put your money in—safe and reliable.

A Savings Account . . .
In a rainy day fund, a life insurance policy, a club benefit, a funeral benefit, and an old age pension. There is no business class in the pastbook, and it is under the owner's control at all times. It will take him over his children; it will care for the family when he must go; it will see him through old age, and bury him when he dies. It is a simple business proposition. Begin early, and keep it up, and, like manna in the desert, it will supply him as he journeys.
