that we would have an attraction here that would be as great as the Mammoth Cave.

"In one of the caves where we went was an immense room floored with ice as smooth as glass. From overhead hung beautiful icicles and the walls were covered with scintillating ice crystals. It made a picture that was the most inspiring I have ever seen. This was only one of the many caves that are to be found in this vicinity, and it is my belief that if a systematic investigation were made that many great discoveries would be made. It is my intention to bring the matter to the attention of the Chamber of Commerce and endeavor to have that body ask the government to take this region in hand and create another national park of the Lava Beds. After this is done it would be possible to get a government geologist to come here and make a survey of the underground passages and mark them in such a manner as to make them available for tourists.

"The matter of improving these roads to the Lava Beds ought not to be overlooked. While it is true that the county has on its hands about all it can manage at this time, plans should be laid at once to include in the scope of highway improvements a splendid road to and through the Lava Beds. The time is not far distant when this locality will be one of the principal objects of interest to tourists, and the sooner something is done to bring it prominently before the public the better it will be for the interests of the county."

time to make purchases before it is too late or until they have to pay exorbitant prices for what they can to-day get for a nominal cost.

The certainty of the construction of the Crater Lake highway has played a prominent part in inducing people to make investments in Upper Lake property, and as soon as work is begun on this highway and its location definitely decided upon there will be a rush that is sure to send prices of property skyward. A number of the land owners have discussed the advisability of selling only in small tracts and with the stipulation that the purchaser erect on the property a substantial summer home. Something of this character ought to be done in order to prevent the holding of the property at exorbitant figures and thus retarding the development of the resort.

WIDE PUBLICITY IS SECURED FOR OREGON.

PORTLAND, Ore., June 29.—"Oregon is the place for you" has been the slogan brought to the attention of 5,000,000 people of the country through a big advertisement in the Saturday Evening Post, placed by the Portland Commercial Club, and the same message has been sent to 1,000,000 more through other publications. Reasons why Oregon is the State of opportunity have been presented. The ninety-two commercial bodies of the State having membership in the Oregon Development League have been given an opportunity without cost to them to answer immediately thousands of new inquiries about Oregon. Never before has Oregon been so well known and interest in the State so generally aroused. All that is needed to get the best results is for the commercial bodies to take advantage of the opportunity and make these home-seekers familiar with their sections by sending them literature and answering inquiries.

Salem is making preparations for the fourth annual cherry fair to be held in the Capital City July 8th and 9th. The people of Salem make a big event every year of the cherry show, and the fete this season will eclipse anything of the kind ever held there, according to those in charge of the program. The fair will be held at the time of the midsummer meeting of the State Horticultural Society at Salem. There will be addresses by prominent orchardists and specialists and a trip through the orchards about Salem on Friday, June 9th, will be a feature of the gathering. Fruit growers of the State are making plans to attend.

Oregon was well represented at the Tri-State Bankers' Convention at Seattle last week. Many prominent in the financial affairs of the State were in attendance. The sessions were of unusual interest, and because of the bankers of Oregon, Washington and Idaho meeting together a closer relation was established between the financial interests of the Pacific Northwest.

That Oregon has immense trade possibilities with China which offers a great market for the manufactures as well as the raw products of this country, is the opinion of Quan Kai, a wealthy Chinese merchant of Hongkong, who has been a Portland visitor for the past few days. He believes an era of closer commercial relations with the United States is about to dawn for his country, and he welcomes a larger commerce with the Pacific Coast. Quan Kai says his country is entering upon a period of expansion and must have railway materials, machinery of all kinds and manufactured products in addition to the lumber, wheat and flour—the chief commodities secured from this Coast—saying that his people prefer to trade with this country in preference to the English and German exporters who have the bulk of this trade at present.

California business men on the recent trade excursion north got a lesson from modern, enterprising Medford. A city of 6,000 people took the party of one hundred visitors out in autos, and had enough cars left over for as many more. Could any California agricultural city of the same size, not a center for tired-out and back-number millionaires, have turned a like trick?

AVAILABILITY.

A nobleman was once showing a friend a rare collection of precious stones which he had gathered at a great expense and enormous amount of labor. "And yet," he said, "they yield me no income."

His friend replied, "Come with me, and I will show you two stones which cost me but five pounds each, yet they yield me a considerable income." He took the owner of the gems to his grist-mill and pointed to gray millstones, which were always busy grinding out grist.
