KLAMATH FALLS, TUESDAY, JULY 6, 1909.

WANTS NAME OF MOUNTAIN CHANGED.

Ashland Wants Its Name Given to Siskiyou Peak.

The Ashland Commercial Club will petition Governor Benson's recently appointed State Board of Geographers to change the name of Ashland Butte, the source of Ashland's water supply and one of the chief scenic attractions of this vicinity, from Siskiyou Peak, which is said to have been applied to it by some of the government publications, to Mount Ashland. A resolution to this effect was passed at a recent meeting of the club, which now is occupying itself largely with plans for exploiting Ashland Canyon and Mount Ashland as valuable assets of Ashland as a city. Many visitors who take in the canyon and the snow-capped peak at its head have marveled at its grandeur and beauty, and say it is superior to the famed Grand Canyon of the Colorado.

The Government Forest Service has recently been engaged in building a substantial trail to the summit of the mountain, and now the Commercial Club and citizens of Ashland are making an effort to improve the road through the canyon and establish a tourist trip to and from the mountain and perhaps beyond to the famous Cinnabar Springs, situated south of Mount Ashland in the Siskiyou, and now all but inaccessible.

were blessed with a splendid rainfall Sunday night. It was just what was needed to make a crop that will be a record breaker. It will demonstrate the great richness of Youna valley soil and be a forerunner of what may be expected of this section when water can be had.

Merrill:—The rain here did a great deal of good, especially to the potato crop. The yield from this source will be very great. All of the crops are looking well, especially those that escaped some of the mishaps that visited this section this spring.

Fort Klamath—The hands of time were turned back a few months Sunday night and we were plunged into the depths of winter for a few hours. Those who were early risers Monday morning found a couple of inches of snow on the ground. It did not last long after the sun got in its work. The rain and snow did a great deal of good and the results will be the biggest crops in the history of this section.

in county in Nevada City sometime before October 13th, for the check was returned to Redding on October 13th, 1905.

Roberts was highly indignant over his arrest. "I have $1,100 in the Frittvale bank, and I will spend every cent of it if necessary in prosecuting Sheriff Montgomery and everyone else responsible for my arrest and detention. I am going to San Francisco to-night, and I will give to the 'Examiner' $50 or more to get them to print a roast on Sheriff Montgomery," he said.—Redding Searchlight.

NO PATENT TO GATES.

(Concluded From First Page.)
Commissioner of the General Land Office and then to the Secretary of the Interior.

Messrs. Lettinger and Carter were voluminous in their decision, and the vital points are given, as signed up by them, as follows:

January 2, 1907, H. V. Gates, by Edward Sweeney, his attorney in fact, filed mineral application No. 788 S. N. 0216, for the Excelsior placer mine, mineral survey No. 4547, containing 140 acres and situated in unsurveyed section 22, township 36 north, range 1 east, M. D. M.

March 2, 1907, the Northern California Power Company filed its protest against the allowance of the said application, alleging:

1. That the land has no value for building stone, but is more valuable for agriculture and for timber than for any other purpose.
2. That the application is made solely to secure a reservoir site and not for building stone.
3. That the development work has not been done in good faith to discover building stone but to find a proper point for an intake of a tunnel to be used in connection with a power plant.
4. That the granting of a patent to the claimant would seriously interfere with the proposed erection by protestant of a reservoir site for which application was made to the Secretary of the Interior on September 14, 1906.

April 10, 1907, the claimant, through his attorney, filed a denial of the said protest and moved that the same be dismissed.

The decision rendered by the land officers at Redding is as follows:

"After carefully considering the following facts, to-wit: that the stone on the Excelsior placer mine is not accessible to market and, therefore, of no immediate value; that it is similar in character to vast deposits of stone on adjoining land which has no commercial value, and that its only value is prospective and contingent upon the erection of a proposed power plant at the intake of the tunnel right-of-way already secured, we are constrained to the belief that the issuance of patent in this case would be contrary to the expressed policy of the Department, as indicated in its recent rulings and a wise administration of the laws looking to the conservation of our great national resources now embraced in national forests."

HE FAVORS NEWSPAPERS.

ent character than those of hotels. Their size and appearance, it is true, are more or less governed by the amount of capital at the command of the publishers, as is also their influence as a help in creating and concentrating public interest upon certain subjects dependent upon the ability of the men in charge of their editorial and news departments.

However, newspapers are so generally accepted as representing a city that invariably the question is asked, "How many papers has it?" And when the question applies to Klamath Falls and is met with the reply, "Two dailies and two weeklies," the city has a standing in the class of other cities having daily papers. The inquirer is at once impressed that our little city must be doing business rapidly and upon modern lines to be able to support two daily papers. An inspection of these papers, though, is misleading. They are not a fair index to the business done in Klamath Falls, nor do they give an outsider an adequate idea of the great country and opportunities for investment that surrounds it. It is safe to say the publishers are giving their best endeavors, but are heavily handicapped by the business men of the city failing to realize the importance of sending to the outside world newspapers that will do the city credit. It is also safe to say that there are a dozen business houses in the city that are not advertising, and a stranger looking through a Klamath Falls paper would thereby be deceived into thinking no such business houses existed and the city was, therefore, much smaller than it really is. The writer has made inquiries as to the cost of advertising space and was more than surprised to learn that the daily papers ask no higher rates than the ordinary weekly paper charges for space. In spite of this fact there are large business houses carrying small advertisements that an outsider would suppose could only be afforded by a very modest business located in a small shop.

Klamath Falls is all right and her future is all right. We are justly proud of our hotel accommodations, and we almost step on our own toes in our eagerness to tell strangers we have two daily papers, a fine high school, plenty of churches, lodges, a Helping the Town . . .

By banking your money in a bank in your own community you increase the community's power to do business. If substantial farmers want to borrow money there is more to loan them. If you bank your money away from home it is loaned to other farmers, merchants and manufacturers. Help your home people. Money hidden at home helps no one. Placed in a bank it is put to work in ways that help all.

Is a rainy day fund, a life insurance policy, a sick benefit, a funeral benefit, and an old age pension. There is no forfeiture clause in the passbook, and it is under the owner's control at all times. It will tide him over sickness; it will care for his family when he must go; it will see him through old age, and bury him when he dies. It is a simple business proposition.
