Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Gates leave in the morning for Hillsboro, Ore., for a two or three weeks' visit with relatives and friends.

The reports of big catches of fish that are coming in from the Upper Lake has caused a fever to go up there to spread throughout the city.

Arthur Langell came down from Bonanza today. Mr. Langell is moving his family to this city and will be a permanent resident of the county seat.

A. T. and W. F. Arant returned from Crater Lake last evening and report the snow is rapidly melting. One auto has made the trip almost to the rim of the lake.

The big dredger is making short work of the channel it is digging in order to reach solid ground, and if nothing happens it ought to reach its destination by Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. George Chastain returned last evening from San Francisco. Mr. Chastain while in the Bay City purchased a full stock of general merchandise for the new establishment of Chastain, Langell & Company.

RUNS THE WHOLE TOWN.

W. J. Pilkington, a newspaper man, has taken charge of all the business affairs of the town of Dexter, Iowa, with a population of 800, and will run the newspaper and every business enterprise in the village for seven months, according to the Pendleton Tribune. Guy Fogel, an experienced general line business man, has been taken into the management of each of the stores by Editor Pilkington. At the end of seven months he declares that the profits will be doubled. His newspaper is bulging over with advertising matter paid for at living rates, and as several of the business men are members of the City Council, he has taken charge of the city affairs, cleaned the streets and passed many needed ordinances. His first month's showing has been highly gratifying. Pilkington believes in advertising and not keeping out of a single issue of the paper. The paper impresses one that there is business in Dexter, and his efforts are attracting attention all over the Middle West. All classes of merchants advertise in Dexter, the hardware men and grocers, the dry goods men, the clothiers and all classes of business.

A series of experiments has been made by T. Koerner in Germany in order to find out what proportion of alcohol can be obtained from wood, using the well-known process of converting the wood into sugar by hydrolysis and then using the sugar to form alcohol by fermentation. He made tests with sawdust, wood pulp and like materials. The matter was treated with dilute sulphuric acid and heated in a digester in which the pressure could reach ten atmospheres. It is to be noted that all the sugars are not fermentable, so that the percentage of alcohol must be obtained directly after the fermentation and is not to be estimated from the amount of sugar. The addition of sulphurous gas, which is sometimes recommended, is found to be a drawback for the production of alcohol. He finds that the yield of alcohol is low at best. For wood paste it is not more than 12.8 per cent, and for dry wood 6 per cent. From the present tests, he concludes that it is not commercially practicable to obtain alcohol from wood in the above way.

In one of a series of articles on English railways in the Railroad Age Gazette, the writer, W. W. Turley, states that the most important things we can learn from freight service in England are prompt dispatching and delivery. Small lots of freight are collected by the railroad company's own wagons, taken to the station, forwarded and delivered during the forenoon of the following day to the consignees by the railway company's wagons. A wholesale merchant in London can have a case of dry goods taken from his warehouse in the afternoon and count on its being delivered to his retail customer in Manchester, 183 1/2 miles distant, the following morning at rates from 72 cents for 112 pounds to $1.50 for 336 pounds, and for amounts above 336 pounds at the rate of 43 cents per 100 pounds.

Both Canada and Australia have followed the lead of New Zealand in the decision to contribute to the naval defense of the empire. The federal government of Australia has voted to build one "Dreadnought" for the British navy. The Canadian government will build and man a navy of its own, to act as an auxiliary force to the fleet of Great Britain. The plans call for the construction of eight first-class cruisers of the "Cornwall" type, of 10,000 tons displacement, ten torpedo-boat destroyers and ten torpedo boats. The fleet will be built in Great Britain and the time and cost of construction are to cover the next five years.

The cost of foundations for new buildings in New York runs at times into very high figures. The contract for the foundation work of the new 25-story Municipal building to be erected at the Brooklyn Bridge entrance has just been let to the Foundation Company for $1,443,147. The caissons must be carried down below the subway station to rock, which lies in places eighty feet below street level.
