SIRE AND SONS.

Sir Isher: Hildfield, the inventor of manganese steel, is a member of the senate of Sheffield University.

For more than 175 years the farm now owned by Joseph White of West Bath, Me., has been in possession of the White family.

W. T. Hornaday, the naturalist and now director of the New York zoo, tried to be a real estate man in Buffalo once, but could not resist the call of the (caged) wild.

Lieutenant General Soukhomlinoff, chief of the general staff, succeeds General Rudiger as Russian minister of war. General Soukhomlinoff formerly was governor general of Kiev and has a high reputation as a military man.

President Diaz of Mexico was recently honored with a "re-electionist convention," held in the City of Mexico and attended by 700 delegates from all over the republic, who met to demand that he stand for re-election when the time comes around. All the states were represented.

Professor Prince of Ottawa, Canada, is a great authority on fishes, finding the same interest in the funny tribes that Dr. David Starr Jordan does. The Canadian professor was a scientist at the age of fourteen, when in the town of Leeds, England, where he was born, he won a prize for original work.

John F. Sutton, the pioneer "press agent" of America, is still living and has a home near Baltimore. He was the most efficient aid of the famous showman, P. T. Barnum, and personally directed the advertising and newspaper articles for Jenny Lind, Artemus Ward and other professional notables of that time.

Sporting Notes.

T. A. D. Jones, the former Yale football star and for three years the All American choice for quarterback, is head coach of Syracuse university this year.

The Canadian A. A. U. refused to re-instate William Sherring, winner of the Athens Marathon in 1906 and holder of the record for the distance, so the latter has turned professional.

Hugley Jennings made a wise move when he obtained Moriarty of the New Yorks. He has been hitting hard and fielding brilliantly. Twice this year he has made clean steals of home.

The Halifax rowing clubs, heretofore members of the Maritime Province A. A. U., are organizing a rowing association for the maritime provinces and will apply to the Canadian Association For Amateur Oarsmen for affiliation.

The Royal Box.

Princess Albert of Belgium is said to be the happiest wife in the courts of Europe.

A compilation of the moneys paid to members of the royal families of Spain, including the king, shows that his majesty receives a salary of $1,311,658.

The Archduke Franz Ferdinand of Austria-Hungary is the eldest son of the Archduke Charles Louis by his wife, the Infanta Maria Theresa of Portugal. He was born in 1893 and is the nephew and heir of the Emperor Franz Joseph.

Frederick William, the crown prince of Germany, is now twenty-seven years old and has already displayed a marked individuality and strength of will. He rows and sails well, is a daring and clever horseman, goes to football matches and never misses a regatta or athletic exhibition.

College and School.

In Japan about 98 per cent of the males of school age attend the educational establishments and 98 per cent of the females.

The study of the English language is included in the general program of education in Mexico, but the program is not strictly adhered to.

In the original deed for the regulation and endowment of Harrow school, dated 1500, it is directed, "You shall allow your child at all times bows, shafts, bowstrings and bracer."

The majority of the public schools in Ecuador are held in houses not constructed for school purposes, and beyond a few rough benches or chairs there is no school furniture. School desks are practically unknown.

Things Theatrical.

Anna Held will spend her summer vacation in Europe.

Viola Allen has closed her season in "The White Sister."

A new play is called "The Congressman From Nevada."

Vesta Tilley has decided to extend her American engagement.

Louis Mann may appear in a play called "A Gentleman of the Stage."

Edward Peple, author of "The Prince Chap," has written a playlet called "The Little Rebel."

Law Points.

A covenant in a deed that the grantor has a good and perfect title, if untrue, is held in Webb versus Wheeler (Neb.), 114 N. W., 998; 17 L. R. A. (N. S.), 1178, to be broken when made and a right of action to accrue thereon at once.

Where land is conveyed to a trustee for the maintenance of a family it is held in Talley versus Ferguson (W. Va.), 62 S. E., 498; 17 L. R. A. (N. S.), 1216, that none of the beneficiaries has any distinct or separable interest therein during the existence of the trust which he can charge or alien.

British Savings Clubs.

The working people of England are great patrons of savings clubs, all sorts of agencies being created to enable them to save money that they may have it to spend during the festive season of the year. There are clubs of all kinds, ranging from the shop club, to which the workmen contribute, to the little clubs run for the purpose of letting school children have a shilling's worth of sweets for a Christmas treat. There is hardly a workshop of any importance in London without its workmen's saving club, besides which there are many dividing clubs carried on at public houses, and the deposits amount in the aggregate to a very large sum. The withdrawals begin in the early days of December, and it is not uncommon for the banks to pay out £300 ($1,400) to £500 ($2,433) to a single club, and the problem of storing the money is one of some difficulty. As the amounts have to be divided among many people they are wanted in cash, and in some cases the proportion of gold, silver and copper is specified.

Easter Island.

Easter Island is a lonely Pacific islet, forty-seven square miles in area, entirely volcanic and containing several extinct craters, some of which are more than a hundred feet high. Discovered by Roggeveen on Easter Sunday, 1722. Little is known concerning the curious remains which have made the island famous. They consist of more than 500 rudely carved stone statues and busts, varying in height from three to seventy feet and said to be portraits of famous men, not idols. There are also hundreds of stone houses on the island, with painted interiors and incised tablets which, strange to say, have never been deciphered. Between 1800 and 1862 the population, by reason of polyandry and emigration, dwindled to 150 souls, and in 1863 most of these were carried off by the Peruvians to work guano. The few inhabitants left are fair haired Polynesians. Since 1888 the island has been a Chilean convict station.—New York Telegram.

Then and Now.

Act I.
Wilkins—How is business, Wilkins?
Wilkins—Can't make it go. At this rate I shall be bankrupt in another month. I don't seem to have any head for business.
Wilkins—No; you haven't. But you have a good start, and if you'll promise to let me run things I'll go in with you as partner.
Wilkins—Done. A friend in need is a friend indeed.

Act II.—Ten Years Later.

Guest—What a magnificent place you have—everything that wealth could buy or heart long for! You have been wonderfully prosperous, Mr. Wilkins.
Mr. Wilkins (sadly)—True, but, after all, I get only half the profits of my great establishment. I tell you, my friend, the mistake of my life was taking a partner.—London Scrap.

Fear of Premature Burial.

The fear of premature burial, which prompted the late Lord Burton to direct by his will that his heart should be removed from his body, has caused many well known men and women to order a surgical operation to be performed upon their bodies. Harriet Martineau left her doctor £10 to amputate her head, and Lady Burton directed that her heart should be pierced with a needle. The late Edmund Yates left instructions that his jugular vein should be severed, with a provision that a fee of 20 guineas should be paid for the purpose. Literary persons appear to have been particularly afraid of premature burial. Bishop Berkeley, Lord Lytton, Hans Andersen and Wilkie Collins all took measures to protect themselves from it.—Westminster Gazette.

Locations of Promotion.

Elsens, aged four, revealed in kindergarten lore and each day imparted to her young mother the many interesting things that the sweet faced teacher had told them. Among the vicissitudes of school life to be encountered was that of vaccination, which was new to the little one. After much explaining and reassuring this difficulty was safely passed. A few weeks later she returned one day from kindergarten in a whirl of excitement, exclaiming: "Mother, mother, I'm going to be promoted! Mother, will I be promoted on my arm or my leg?"—New York Times.

German Way of Serving Asparagus.

When living in Germany we noticed that the asparagus served there was unusually tender and of a much more delicate flavor than that which we got in America. We learned that the Germans do not consider asparagus fit to eat unless the outside skin is scraped from each stalk before cooking. This sounds like slow work, but if a sharp knife is used it can be done quite rapidly and is well worth the trouble.—Good Housekeeping.

Told You So.

"It's the unexpected that always happens."
 "Oh, I don't know. Somebody always claims to have predicted it."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Poor Doctor.
 Hawkins—So you sent for a doctor? Does he think you will be out soon?
 Robbins—I imagine so. He said he wished I had sent for him sooner.—Pack.

Silence is too much praised. Nine men out of ten will shun you if you can't or won't talk.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.
