

HARRIMAN IS COMING

BE HERE SOMETIME IN SEPTEMBER

DIRECT FIGHT IN PERSON

Apparently For His Health, He Really to Force the Fight Into Central Oregon.

Two weeks ago The Herald published a statement to the effect that Harriman was coming to Klamath Falls this fall. An immediate denial came from what was considered an authoritative source.

The first statement was correct. Harriman will be here this fall on a tour of indefinite duration. The announcement will be to the effect that he comes for the purpose of settling his health. This is perfectly true, but the real reason—the one that caused him to decide to come here in the first place—is his desire to be close to a battlefield that will be the eyes of all eyes in America. The Deschutes fight was the opening gun, and the struggle is going to continue and spread until it will mark the route between the Coast and San Francisco. Harriman knows this, and he wants to be where he can give orders that will meet with absolute execution.

The history of the hold that Harriman has had on the States of Oregon and California is too well known to need repetition. The first serious attack was on his stronghold when Santa Fe bought the San Antonio & Pacific. That leak ended and peace reigned until Clark butted in with the Colorado and Salt Lake line. This was not easily disposed of, and it was seen that if he were not to be driven into history. Following this, Harriman and the crowd gathered to their cohorts for the purpose of squeezing the life out of the state. There are those who still remember the foundation of the great years ago. It produced the necessary results, and Gould's wings have been clipped—at least so far as surface indications are concerned.

Shortly after the laying away of Gould's ambitions there were rushed into the unoccupied field of California and Central Oregon an army of surveyors. No one really knew the meaning of this move, and it was not until recently that the real purpose of this work has come to light. When Gould was handed his medicine he suffered keenly from his defeat, and immediately made preparations for reprisal. He joined hands with Hill, who was fighting mad because of Harriman's invasion of the Puget Sound. Through his underground sources of information came the news to Harriman of what was going to happen, and he gave orders to locate every strategic point between San Francisco and the Columbia river. This has been done, and the road that starts south will meet the same obstacles that knocked out Clark in Nevada—the finding of the Southern Pacific building a road ahead of them.

Harriman knows Hill's fighting qualities, his resources, his ability as a builder, and his implacable hatred; and he realizes that it is no ordinary fight that he has on his hands. Hill is coming south through Oregon, and will form a junction with the Western Pacific, over the tracks of which system he will enter San Francisco. It is to prevent this, if possible, that Harriman is coming to Pelican bay to direct the fight in person. If it cannot be prevented, then it will be made just as expensive to the invaders as Harriman can make it. He piled on three millions of additional expense onto the North Back road for Hill and he will pile on many more millions onto the Trunk Line before it reaches San Francisco.

STUDENT MARRIES NURSE

University of Oregon Romance Has Happy Culmination.

EUGENE, Ore., August 16.—Edwin Ray Fountain, better known as "Ike" Fountain, one of the best cheer leaders of the University of Oregon, was quietly married last evening at the home of President P. L. Campbell to Miss Ruby Holstrom, head nurse in the Eugene General Hospital. The marriage is the result of a pretty romance which began two years ago, when Fountain was suffering with an attack of typhoid fever and was confined to the hospital for two months. Miss Holstrom was his nurse at that time, and a warm attachment sprang up between them.

Mr. and Mrs. Fountain have left for Siuslaw bay, where they will spend a month or six weeks. Fountain was graduated from the University in 1907, and has since been a student in Rush Medical College, Chicago. During his university course he was cheer leader for two years, and was an exceptionally popular man with his fellow students. He will complete his medical education in Oregonian.

Mr. Fountain is the son of P. L. Fountain of this city, and the news of his marriage will come as a surprise to his many friends here.

F. H. NEWELL MUST GET OUT

BALLINGER HAS APPARENTLY DECIDED ON PROGRAM

IT MEANS A BITTER FIGHT

Will Involve Friends of Pinchot and Newell and Bring Into the Fray Many Organizations.

If the reports contained in the newspapers are true, then it is certain that the Reclamation Service will see a new head for that department before the year is out. Secretary Ballinger seems determined to reorganize this branch of his household and is going to start at the top and not stop until he has reached the bottom. This is a matter in which the people of the Klamath project are deeply involved and every move in the controversy will be watched with interest. There are many here who are prone to believe that all of the troubles of the project are to be laid at the door of Mr. Newell. Be that as it may, his rejection or retention will have considerable of an effect on the future policy of the service.

The Washington Times of the 10th inst prints a dispatch sent from Beverly, Mass., the summer capital, by a correspondent known to be close in the confidence of President Taft that is regarded in administration circles as certain that Director Newell of the Reclamation Service must go soon. The correspondent says: "The cessation of Newell's work for the government is regarded as settled. Ballinger, on his western tour, has become more determined in his reorganization of his department he will begin with the Reclamation Service."

The same article conveys the hint that a similar fate awaits Forester Gifford Pinchot, as it suggests Ballinger is hostile to the methods hitherto employed in the reclamation and forestry services. It dwells on alleged practices going beyond legal authority, by both Newell and Pinchot, and interprets Taft's telegram to the national irrigation congress at Spokane as meaning that he will uphold Ballinger in these contentions. Friends of Newell and Pinchot here believe plans have been formed to force both men from the government service. The entire strength of the conservation of natural resources movement has been enlisted to resist the ousting of these officials. Conservationists claim that fifty great national organizations and state commissions, which have been appointed in every State but seven, will be back of Newell and Pinchot, and that in the coming winter the intensest fight yet witnessed will take place in defense of both these officials.

Conservationists are asserting that Ballinger's policy with reference to water power sites works in with the desires of those who are organizing a power trust to control future transportation and industrial operations. Ballinger's friends vigorously deny such allegations, saying that he proceeds legally and only opposes illegal methods. Pinchot's answer is that the law is being interpreted by technicalities in a manner to aid the power trust.

JUST OLD PELTS

The case of D. Moses vs. B. Mendel, involving a shipment of hides worth $19.34, is being tried out in the justice's court today. Judge Miller reports the case as strenuous to say the least. Moses claims to have purchased the hides in 1907 and put them in storage with J. L. Bateman, who operated a livery here at that time. Bateman, it is claimed, sold the hides to B. Mendel, representing Bislinger & Co. of San Francisco, without authority from Moses. Consequently, he brought suit to recover the foregoing amount from Mendel. Mendel, on his part, disclaims any knowledge of the ownership on the part of Moses at the time he bought them, and claims to be an innocent purchaser.

The case was argued this afternoon by the attorneys.

WINNERS GO TO SEATTLE

MISS WHITLATCH AND APPLIGATE TO VISIT FAIR

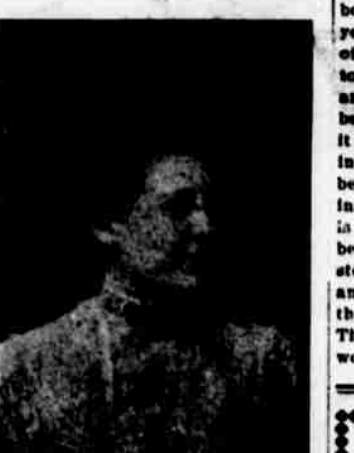

SENT BY MERRILL RECORD

Miss Whitlatch Won in the Contest Recently Conducted By That Enterprising Paper.

Miss Iva Whitlatch of Merrill, the young lady who captured the Merrill "Record" contest trip to the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition at Seattle, left here this morning, accompanied by Miss Rachel E. Applegate, whom she selected as her companion under the rules of the contest. Miss Whit-latch fairly won the honor in competition with a number of handsome and accomplished rivals, as the most popular young lady in the county. She also deserves credit for her good judgment in selecting as her companion a native daughter of the county, one so accomplished as Miss Applegate, late winner of the annual scholarship granted by the alumni association of the State University of Oregon, based on her admirable high school record.

The young ladies will spend at least ten days at Seattle and will boom Klamath county. They have made a careful study of the Klamath Project and of the great natural resources and can ably exploit the advantages and scenic beauties of the Klamath country.

NOW FOR A STREET FAIR

BUSINESS MEN WANT THE CHAMBER TO TAKE CHARGE

BRING IN THE HOMEBUILDERS

It Will Mean the Opening of an Immense Trade Territory That Will Produce Cash Business.

Once more the business men of the city are turning toward the Chamber of Commerce for the assistance they need in making the Bargain Week the unqualified success that it ought to be. One of the things most needed is an attraction that will confine the visitors to the main business portion of the city, and it has been suggested that a street fair would be the best thing to be secured. Those business men who have been seen expressing themselves as anxious for the Chamber of Commerce to take this part of the program in hand and make it the success that crowned the work on Railroad Day. They realize that it is placing a burden on the shoulders of the Chamber that really should be carried by the business men themselves. However, it is better that the Chamber handles such matters instead of having a separate organization. The business men could organize into an association of their own, but in doing so they would be pulling away from the Chamber strength that it needs.

The question of holding a fair is left to the Fair Association. The street fair is to be held in conjunction with the county fair and Bargain Week as the prominent feature of both. The fair association has not yet decided on a date for the holding of the fair, but the sentiment seems to favor the first week in October, and it is more than likely that it will be held during that time. Whether it will be held on the fair grounds or in the city is a matter that has not been decided. The question of holding it on the fair grounds is one that is hard to meet. Arrangements have been completed for the moving of the steamer Klamath to the Upper lake, and it will probably be on the way there at the time the fair is held. The craft left on Lake Ewauna would hardly be able to handle the

FIRST CAR OF GASOLINE

REMARKABLE INCREASE MADE DURING FOUR YEARS

DUE TO TOURIST TRAVEL

Is An Indication of What This City May Expect When the Full Flood of Travel is On.

The first straight carload of gasoline that was ever shipped into this city was received by the Baldwin Hardware company to-day. It was only three or four years ago when a ten-case shipment was considered quite an order. This great increase is accounted for by the great number of tourists who are making the rounds of this country in automobiles, and with its natural location, this city is enjoying the benefit of this trade, which is only in its infancy as compared to what it will be when our roads are put in good condition, especially the proposed Crater lake road, which is now being looked over by U. S. Engineer Hoidal. Gasoline is not the only commodity affected, either, for all along the street is heard comments by the merchants of tourists making purchases. It is estimated that so far this year seventy-five automobiles have passed through this city, each with parties of from two to six, on pleasure bent to various points in the county, especially Crater lake. Very nearly all, if not all, have remained in the city over night, the result of which has been very beneficial to this community, for here they replenish their gasoline supply, make necessary repairs and purchase innumerable things needed for their trip. The situation of Klamath Falls brings about this condition, as auto parties generally arrive here in the evening or afternoon, thus giving them a chance to have a night's rest and, by leaving at a reasonable hour in the morning, the run to Crater lake can be made very comfortably.

AT THE OPERA HOUSE

At the opera house tonight the intensely interesting series showing Wilbur Wright and his aeroplane at close range and in some of his most recent and most successful flights. By seeing this series you will gain an almost intimate knowledge of a subject which is taking a larger and more important place in the world's affairs day by day.

Then for the little folk there is a beautiful series of transformation scenes entitled "Playing Patience," and a good hearty laugh in the skit "A Tax on Bachelors," in which the Old Maids' Club plays an important part. There is a treat, too, for all lovers of good drama in the sketch "A Marriage of Convenience—a marriage for money forced by his uncle upon a young artist, already in love with his pretty model.
