

COMES THIS MONTH

ACCOMPANIED BY A PARTY OF CAPITALISTS

GOING TO LAKEVIEW

One of the Incorporators of the Proposed Line North From Alturas, Cal.

The center of interest in the light that started in the canyon is working its way to the end of this month and by the end of this month will be attracting attention of the State. This will be due to the presence in that of C. S. Fee, general traffic manager of the Southern Pacific, and one of the Incorporators of the line proposed to build north from Alturas.

A party of about twenty-five capitalists will arrive here in this month or the first week of September, and will proceed to Lakeview in automobiles. The purpose of their trip has not been announced, but it is believed to have to do with the new railroad that the Harriman interests are going to build to Lakeview. Harriman agents have been busy engaged in buying up the rights between Alturas and Lakeview, by way of Pitt River canyon. One of the most feasible routes is now in the possession of the Oregon Valley Land company. This company has had several offers to sell out, but they have declined. It is presumed that they are representatives of Hill and Harriman.

Agreement

Disputed with the coming of Mr. Hill and his party comes the report that a basis of agreement has been reached between the contending factions, and that Mr. Hill is to withdraw from the field. It was for the purpose of forcing certain concessions from Harriman that Hill started this, and now that he has secured what he wanted after he is ready to pull out. The concession demanded was a summer trade arrangement from Alturas to San Francisco. Little is known, however, is given to this, although if it proves to be true it will be greatly surprised, for Mr. Hill nor Mr. Hill is in the business for the fun they are in. Hill wants something from Harriman, and if he gets it he will be glad to get it, then he will

Investments Might Be Made

Mr. Stevens went on to say that he had neither for the interests he represented nor himself made any investments in Oregon properties, nor did he know of any about to be made. In the northern states, he said, and in Washington, investments had already been made. What he will do about Oregon investments will be determined absolutely by advices from the east which he has yet to receive. It was reported several weeks ago that John F. Stevens, famous engineer, whose services are continuously engaged by James J. Hill and always in the midst of construction schemes as mysterious as they were big, had been living in Coos Bay in Oregon, and meant to go on to San Francisco.

WORTHINGTON IS HERE.

D. B. Worthington, founder of the Klamath Falls Express, arrived in the city last evening. It is four years since Mr. Worthington was in Klamath Falls, and while he expected many changes, he was not prepared for the great transformation that has taken place in that time. Eighteen years ago the publishing of a newspaper was not attended with luxury. It was a case of scratch gravel, and scratch hard. This Mr. Worthington did until he tired of the task, and bidding adieu to his friends he fled himself east, where there was a greater field for the pent-up energy and ability of a man of his caliber. In his farewell address to his subscribers he predicted Klamath Falls' future. No more notable forecast has ever appeared in type, for within the period designated has come to pass the great development he fore-saw.

Mr. Worthington is editor and publisher of the Beloit Daily News, one of the leading newspapers of Wisconsin. He is postmaster of the city and one of the leaders in the movement that is making Beloit a great municipality. He will remain here for a week or ten days. His old friends are glad to see him, and he has already become popular with those who have taken up their residence since he left. His name is not unfamiliar to nearly everyone in the city, for he has left behind him a reputation as being the best newspaper man that ever lived in Klamath Falls, and the best proof of the correctness of the statement is the success that has followed his efforts in a larger field.

STEVENS WAS NOT WITH HILL

SAYS HE ONLY REPRESENTED EASTERN CAPITALISTS NOT CONNECTED WITH ROAD

Believes, However, That Central Oregon Will Be Opened Up and Will Furnish Ample Traffic.

"I have no connection with Hill, Porter Bros., or any railroad construction scheme whatsoever. I represent eastern capitalists who contemplate investment in Oregon farming and timber lands. Two-thirds of all the money I have in the world is tied up similar investments. My trip through Central Oregon was in this connection, and no other."

When John F. Stevens, engineer of national reputation, from Chicago, had with these few brief sentences thus finally cleared away the mystery surrounding his name, he leaned back in his chair in the lobby of the Hotel Portland and resignedly, though courteously, prepared to give answer to various questions an interviewer from The Journal had in mind to ask him.

But with this lucid presentation of Mr. Stevens' life and plans, queries seemed rather futile. But he continued suddenly and in a confidential tone: "Do you know, I have no information about the work being done in Deschutes other than I have read in the newspapers. But I'll tell you, I'm just as interested in railroad construction into the central part of the State as any other investor would be. Does any one think that I, or the interests I represent, would be justified in going down there and buying 5,000 acres of sage brush land and 5,000 acres of timber land without the assurance of transportation facilities?"

Inspected Interior Oregon

"I did go on an investigating tour of interior Oregon, but I did so because I had never been there before. I wanted to see what it was like." "Well, what did you think of it from an investor's standpoint?" the question was promptly put.

"Some of it," responded Mr. Stevens. "Is very, very good, and some is as bad."

"But does the country justify development enterprise and the faith we have in the returns that will be made when railroads bring the people and the money?"

"Indeed it does," the engineer answered emphatically. "I put my judgment on it that there is land which will pay splendidly in return for development. Of course there are other parts which make no promise at all and look hopeless. Such places are to be found almost anywhere."

A BARN OWL

Relative to the notice which appeared in the Evening Herald of August 13th in regard to the Alaska owl which is on exhibition in this city, it is only doing justice to the public to say that the owl is not of the Alaska species, but is a common barn owl frequently found in this section. Alaska owls are never found in this section. Donart & Son, taxidermists, have made a specialty of bird life, and report that owls of the species of the one on exhibition are found in many sections of the Pacific coast. The bird is much smaller than the Alaska owl.

W. B. Grubb of Thrall, Cal.

has been spending several weeks visiting with relatives in the vicinity of Ashland and recuperating from a recent severe illness. Mr. Grubb is one of the early pioneers of this section of the Rogue River valley and later was one of the early settlers of Klamath county, being for many years prominently identified with stage and freight team transportation to that region which has now itself been invaded by the iron horse. Mr. Grubb's present home is a farm at the junction of Fall creek with the Klamath river twelve miles above Thrall where the Skakyou Electric company has its power plant.—Ashland Tidings.

FIFTY THOUSAND IN TWENTY YEARS

Optimistic Prediction of Judge Dooling Regarding Klamath Falls.

M. T. Dooling, superior Judge of San Benito county, Cal., who returned yesterday from a trip to Crystal creek, is more than ever impressed with the possibilities of this section, and especially with this city. In an interview this afternoon he stated:

"This country is blessed with ideal conditions, namely land and water, and it is my belief that your city in the next eight years should have a population anywhere from 10,000 to 15,000, and within twenty years a snug little city of 50,000 people should be resting here among the foothills. Of course, this statement is not based on what you have now, but upon what could and should be accomplished. For instance, the Upper marsh should be reclaimed, and cut up into small holdings. Immense saw mill plants will doubtless be erected, all of which will be arteries leading to this city and building it up, and the last, but not least, will be the great tourist travel which this section is bound to get the benefit of. Southern California has been built up by tourists on account of the ideal winter climate there, and something should be done whereby this tourist travel would find its way to this perfect summer climate. The fulfillment of the foregoing possibilities is the basis for my prediction, and also the fact that this town has within the last few years increased from a straggling village of 400 to a population now of 3,000, most of which came here on a prospect before the assurance of a railroad main line entering this country or the completion of the government work here. This section is now assured of both, hence the foregoing prediction."

Marcus A. Hall, treasurer of the Wm. R. Statts Co., Pasadena, Cal., heavy dealers in real estate, stocks and bonds, who accompanied Mr. Dooling on his trip, in speaking of this section, said: "I am greatly surprised in the magnificent area of multivalent land that lies at your door here. It was my idea before visiting your section that this country consisted of nothing but a series of mountain ranges, and instead of that I found good land and homes for countless numbers."

"Klamath Falls has a good future before it, but this city is lacking in one very important feature, and that is 'civic pride.' This city should get to work at once and have Main street paved and made presentable, along with the other improvements you are contemplating, as the future prospects of this city warrant it."

STILL AFTER PRESIDENT

WANT HIM TO COME TO CRATER LAKE ARE RELYING ON BOURNE

Hallinger Will Also Be Pressed into Service, and the Combination May Land the Prize.

The efforts to have a definite date set for the coming of President Taft are still being put forth, but no word has as yet been received from the chief executive of the nation. The Commercial Club of Medford are pushing the fight with all the vigor of that virile organization, and every member feels confident of success. Great reliance is being placed on the influence of Senator Bourne, who has become a close buddy of the President.

Reliance Placed on Hallinger

Secretary Ballinger is being relied upon to urge on the President the practicability and wisdom of visiting the lake. It would only change his schedule the matter of a few hours, and it is the belief of the Medford boosters that when this fact is properly presented to Mr. Taft that he will direct that the change be made. Another factor that will probably play an important part in influencing the President will be Mr. Harriman. He will be here this fall, and during the time that Mr. Taft will be making his western trip.

May Be Harriman's Guest

If Harriman would appeal to the President to come this way it would have a mighty influence, and steps should be taken to get Mr. Harriman to make the request. It has been announced that the program has already been arranged, and that the President and Mr. Harriman will spend a short time together at Pelluc bay. Whether this is true or not remains to be seen, as it is a matter that will not be made public until the meeting takes place.

CITY BRIEFS

Mrs. H. Hudson and daughter of Montague are paying this section a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Gates returned last evening from Hillsboro, Seattle, Portland and Newport, where they have been visiting for the past several weeks.

A. J. Swift, Henry Offenbacher and Dan Johnson left this morning on a pleasure and hunting trip combined. The party will visit Crater lake and then go after bear in the mountains beyond.

Miss Annie Applegate, eldest daughter of O. C. Applegate, returned home last evening after visiting the Chautauqua at Ashland. Miss Applegate will take the examination here today for a state certificate.

Geo. McDonald, Bert Witherow and wife, Fred Houston and wife and C. M. Ramsby and wife returned this afternoon from their fishing and hunting trip. They killed six deer and one bear. The fishing was splendid, and the party had a time that was the most enjoyable of their lives.

The Oregon Harness company, on account of their growing business, has found it necessary to add another room to their establishment on West Main street, and with the arrival of the goods now ordered this enterprising company will carry one of the largest stocks in Southern Oregon. Hiram Murdoch, who is connected with this company, states that it is the intention of his company to carry only the best goods that can be purchased, and by paying spot cash for his stock customers patronizing this company will be able to get the best for the least money.

AT THE OPERA HOUSE

"A Marriage of Convenience," forced against his will upon a young artist, and the consequent wreckage of three happy lives; then, "A Tax on Bachelors"—you should see the comical attempts of the old maids to corral the bachelors when an act is passed forcing them to either accept the first offer of marriage or pay a heavy fine.

An interesting departure from the conventional is to be found in "Plain Mame," where the heroine is, to say the least, not beautiful, but where she shows a young dude, who has discarded her for a chorus girl, that she is perfectly capable of living without him.

You all know Billikin! Come and see him bring joy to the Grouch family by merely smiling serenely through all in a cleverly acted skit entitled "Grin and Win." Songs and pictures changed every night.

To-morrow night "The Baby's Shoes," a clerical heart story; and also, by special request, Wilbur Wright's aeroplane exhibition will be given extra.

A LIE, SAYS BALLINGER

HE DENIES CHARGE THAT HE FAVORED TRUST

DECLINES TO SEE REPORTER

Secretary of the Interior Has to Be Caught for an Interview Over the Telephone.

SPOKANE, Wash., August 12.—Before he left to join the senate committee on irrigation which is touring the Northwest, Secretary Ballinger last night refused to grant an audience to a reporter sent to interview him regarding the attitude of the department of the interior toward the water power trust in Montana.

Efforts were made throughout the day to see him, but the secretary refused to treat with his would-be interrogator except through the medium of a private secretary. Finally Ballinger came to a telephone and the following conversation occurred:

Says "Dope" is All Wrong

"That dope you put out is all wrong and false," said Ballinger.

"I have the records of the Bessman land office and maps and certain statements of Collins, which I would like to submit to you," said the reporter.

"I'll have no conference with you," replied the secretary; "you have mistaken the case."

"I can prove to you by the records that the power trust grabbed Montana lands," was the reply.

"Then you have misconstrued what has happened," retorted Ballinger.

"I will not see you until it is straightened out."

"You're the only one who can straighten it out, Mr. Secretary."

Ballinger's reply was to hang up his receiver and terminate the long-distance interview.

Hallinger Explains in Type

Secretary Ballinger last night gave to the Spokesman-Review a statement of his side of the case. He said:

"I have information from Washington that the public records show that no power sites or dam sites were taken up during the time that 1,000,000 acres of land were opened for entry in April. Even if the land available for power sites was entered it could not proceed to patent, because of a provision in the order throwing it open to entry."

"The department of the interior is making as substantial progress as it did under Secretary Garfield, only it is not advertising itself."
