

BEAUTIFUL LAKE ODELL

ONE OF THE GRANDEST SIGHTS OF NORTHERN KLAMATH.

ALIVE WITH DOLLIEVARDEN

Will Attract the Attention of the Tourists—Successful Trip of Party From This City.

C. H. Underwood and wife, Dr. Hamilton and wife, Coroner Earl Whitlock and Chef Howard Donley returned yesterday from an extended outing in the Odell Lake country. They report a delightful time, and say that country is certainly a sportsman's paradise. They succeeded in getting eight deer on their trip and brought home with them. Earl Whitlock in speaking of that country said:

The country around Lake Odell is one of the most picturesque I have ever in. The Southern Pacific has certainly located in picturesque route through this section, as from where the train will pass the lake a splendid view of this body of water can be obtained, which is about ten miles long by three and a half wide. The railroad will also pass right close to Salt Creek falls, another beautiful sight, with its water falling straight down for 200 feet or more. As to scenic beauty, the proposed main line through this country will beat the Nickerson route one thousand fold, as it is so much more diversified, and yet they get through there on an easy grade."

It was stated by one of the party that this was the first time for quite a period that Klamath Falls parties had visited this region on an outing. Lake Odell is reported as alive with trout of the dollie varden variety, and it is no trick at all to go out in the morning and come back by noon with sixty of the speckled beauties. Deer also abound in the forest there. At this time of the year still hunting has to be resorted to. On account of the dryness in the timber the cracking of the twigs in walking scares the game away. Lake Odell is about 120 miles northeast of here, and the best route is via Fort Klamath, thence to Beaver Marsh, thence to Crescent (formerly Odell) and from Crescent to the lake it is about 18 miles. There are ideal camping places near the lake, as the timber entirely surrounds it, and tourists going there should also take in Salt Creek falls, which is 7 1/2 miles west of the head of Lake Odell. It is about a three-days' drive from Klamath Falls to this place.

Besides the launch, the captain has twelve rowboats of different sizes which can be secured at reasonable rates by applying at his new boathouse on the Upper lake. The Margarita will be used for the passenger business in the Upper lake and can be chartered at reasonable rates upon application to Captain Rahm.

DANIEL RYAN.

Death, Summons Another Klamath County Pioneer.

Daniel Ryan, a resident of this county for the past thirty years, died at his home in Fort Klamath this morning. Mr. Ryan has for some time been a great sufferer from stomach trouble, and for several weeks death has been expected. At his bedside when death came were his son, Daniel, and his daughter, Mrs. Lathrop of Vancouver, Wash.

Seventy-six years ago Mr. Ryan was born in Ireland, emigrating to this country at an early age. He came west and settled in Klamath county. During his long residence in this county he established for himself a reputation for integrity that was his proudest asset. Among the old-timers he has a host of friends who will learn with sorrow of his death.

The funeral will be held at the home of the deceased, the services being conducted by Rev. Father O'Reilly.

WHAT THE BOATS ARE DOING

The steamer Hooligan last week brought to Long Lake mill 200,000 feet of logs from Crystal and 50,000 from Rattlesnake. We understand she is now making her way from Crystal with 200,000 feet more.

The steamer Mazama lost her port propeller early last week and later broke the starboard wheel, necessitating two new wheels. She is again on her run, in better shape than before, as both wheels are of the latest pattern speed wheels.

During the past week the steamer Winema brought 100,000 feet of lumber from Odessa to the California box factory.

The steamer Hornet in the last two trips has brought about 75 tons of sand from Modoc Point, consigned to builders in town.

The steamer Eagle left Monday for her work on the upper end of the lake. Part of the work will be the moving of about 1,000 cords of wood from Crystal to Modoc and other points.

BUSINESS MEN MEET

USUAL ENTHUSIASM WAS MANIFEST LAST NIGHT

IT IS UP TO THE MERCHANTS

Unless They Take Action Nothing Further Will Be Done Looking to the Holding of a County Fair.

The meeting of the business men of the city called for last night was attended with the usual enthusiasm that has manifested every movement for the up-building of the city and the advancement of the material interests of the merchants of Klamath Falls. Three merchants came voluntarily; two were stopped on the way to the postoffice and reluctantly stayed. The rest were conspicuous by their absence. It is the same old story—stay away and damn some one because there is no celebration.

Those who were present last evening spent an hour discussing the advisability of holding a fair. There was no opposition, but there was a whole lot of ancient history thrashed over. Every failure of the past was luredly pictured; every success was glossed over to make it appear as dull as possible. Oh, it was an enthusiastic meeting—one of those that would make a fellow feel like hiring a good-sized gentleman of color to kick him all the way home for being so foolish as to think that the business men of the city cared a tinker's cuss whether the old town went to the devil or not. The business men evidently do not care whether the trade goes to Medford or Ashland; but they do care to express their opinions of their competitors and cuss every one in general. It is an harmonious business community that is going to wake up some fine morning and discover that it has been asleep.

The question was broached last night that the Chamber of Commerce should take hold of the celebration; that it was its duty. Well, that may be; but if the business men wait for the Chamber of Commerce to butt in without being asked to do so they will have plenty of time to rest. The Chamber of Commerce is perfectly willing to lend its assistance, but the business men will have to express a desire for it to do so. When the Chamber of Commerce took charge of the Railroad Day celebration it had to go around with hat in hand and beg for funds. The treatment that was handed out by many of the business men was sufficient to justify some of the officers of the Chamber to definitely state that when next they took charge of a celebration the business men would come through more graciously. And that is where the matter rests. If the business men want a fair and a celebration during that period they will have to act for themselves. There will be no further effort made to bring them together by those who have been fathering the movement. New leaders will have to step in; others will have to pass around the subscription blanks, for those who have tried it once will never undertake the job a second time. There are too many business men who forget that they may be seen gentlemen and merchants at the same time to make it palatable for those who have had the hardihood to try to raise funds for a celebration once to engage in the same work again.

Mr. Merchant, it is up to you. If you show the proper spirit you can have a fair that will be a credit to you and to the town—one that will bring in the people from the outside—one that will make business for YOU! This is YOUR business individually. You are as much interested in it as your brother merchant and more interested than the Chamber of Commerce as an organization. It is a personal matter with you, and if you cannot take sufficient interest in a matter that has as its foundation the promotion of your business how can you expect some one else to do it for you? Time is short, and if you do not want the matter dropped get busy. Talk with your fellow merchant; confer with your competitor; get together and decide on what you want to do; place it in the hands of the Chamber of Commerce with assurances of hearty financial support, freely given. Then it will be a go. Otherwise it will be dropped, and you can put in the winter trying to keep the dust and cobwebs off the merchandise that should be in use in the homes east of here.

PASTORS TRANSFERRED

The annual change in the rectors of the Catholic churches of this city and Lakeview was made this week, and Fathers Greenwood and Tompkin leave for other charges—the former going to Spokane and the latter to Cincinnati. They will be succeeded by Father O'Malley, who has been assigned to Lakeview, and Father Cunningham, who will have charge of the congregation in this city.

Both Father Greenwood and Father Tompkin, who have been here for the past year, have won the esteem and confidence of the community. The members of the congregation regret exceedingly that the demands of their order require the change. Father Greenwood left this morning for Spokane. Father Tompkin will leave for his destination some time this week, unless he decides on his return from Ashland, where he has gone on business connected with the church there, to accompany Father O'Malley to Lakeview.

Father O'Malley arrived here Saturday, and Father Cunningham is expected to arrive the last of the week.

TONIGHT AT THE OPERA HOUSE

Are You a good guesser? If you think you are go to the opera house tonight and see the black-face act of a young gentleman who has resided in Klamath Falls for some time, who is well known and who yet defies even his best friends to identify him when on the stage. He will appear every night until some one ascertains who he is. And he can amuse the people. Can he? Come and see!

Good motion pictures as usual, among them, "The Little Shepherd of Trumble Run," telling the story of a little boy accused by the owner of stealing one of the lambs in his charge and his valiant bravery as he goes out into the hills at night to search for the lost sheep.

"Lucky Jim" tells in an amusing way the story of that popular song, "Lucky Jim, how I envy him."

"The Twin Brothers" is another amusing film, showing two brothers who go out into the world to seek their fortunes and meet later in a dime museum, one is the African lion, the other a wild gorilla.

Don't forget the baby contest. Bring your photos with you and enter them tonight at the opera house.

AT THE IRIS

The moving pictures at the Iris this week are of an exceptional character, and the colored artists who have been engaged to help amuse the patrons of this popular playhouse are more than satisfactory. Their act is unique and entertaining, and the management certainly has a "card" in them.

Among the films shown are "The Prisoner's Escape," "Crazed by Jealousy," "Was Justice Served?" "The Dummy," and "Hungry Hank's Hallucination."

IN TOUCH WITH WORLD

COMMUNICATION ESTABLISHED AT LAST.

TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH

Crater Lake Visitors No Longer Cut Off Entirely From the World at Large.

By the first of the week Crater lake will be in direct telegraphic communication with the outside world. A line is now working between Camp Arant and Camp Crater and work is progressing on the line to Fort Klamath.

Connection is to be made with the Fort Klamath telephone line at Fort Klamath. Through this system the city will be reached, where direct communication may be had with Ashland and the outside world. The convenience and value of this innovation cannot be estimated, for there has been a crying need for this improvement ever since the tourist travel has become so heavy. When the railroad is built through the country and the Western Union extends its line north an effort will be made to have it run a branch line direct to the lake and open a summer office there. If this is done there would undoubtedly be sufficient business to make it a paying investment for the telegraph company.

With the completion of this line one of the principal objections that might be raised to the visit of President Taft will be removed. He will be removed from connection with the outside world but a short time—on his trip from Medford to the lake.

The Crater Lake company has a force of employees preparing to care for the public next season, and will have water systems established at both camps before the season is over as well as buildings on the rim. They have just finished a barn at Camp Arant competent to care for twenty-four horses, and expect to have similar accommodations on the rim next season. Carpenters are engaged in the construction of a storehouse at Camp Arant, and as soon as it is finished will build a small frame house at both camps as an experiment. If they stand the winter as expected others will be constructed at both camps early next year and used instead of tents.
