President Taft Will Address the Farmers at the Seattle Fair.

President Taft has consented to address the farmers of the Northwest at the livestock show of the A.-Y.-P. exposition on the morning of October 1st.

The exposition management, knowing that the president is a livestock fancier and a farmer himself, when he is not directing the destinies of the nation, extended to him an invitation to deliver a second address at the fair to the farmers. A telegram was received yesterday from the secretary of the president accepting the offer and stating that Mr. Taft would be pleased to speak at the stadium, where the show will be held.

As a feature of the morning there will be held a parade of all of the horses and cattle in the show before the president. This will be one of the most unique processions ever held, as there are more than a thousand animals entered in the horse and cattle classes, all thoroughbreds, and coming from nearly every state in the union and province of Canada.

The work on the barns of the livestock show, which opens September 27th, and continues until October 1st, is being rushed. It was recently found that it would be necessary to double the size of the buildings constructed for the show, owing to the great number of entries. The work will be completed in time for the opening of the show.

The first consignments of livestock will begin to arrive next week, according to the management of the donkey.

exhibit. As fast as they arrive they will be taken to the exposition and cared for in the stables which are already completed.

THE INDIANS PAID.

What the White Men Charged Them
For Killing One Donkey.

In "Reminiscences of Old Times in Truensee" a story is told of the good faith and honor of a party of Chickasaw Indians. While hunting one fall they shot a donkey, mistaking the creature for a wild animal. They sold the hide, and it finally came to the hands of John Barnes in Lipton.

When the Chickasaws returned to the region of Lipton for their annual hunt the next fall Barnes invited them to a shooting match, the prize to be the skin of a very rare animal.

Thirty braves appeared at the contest, and one of them won the prize. When he saw the skin he turned it over and said: "Ha, ha! Me kill him! Me shoot him! See!" And he pointed to the fatal bullet hole.

Then Barnes told them that they had killed a donkey, a very useful animal, but he was sure that they had done it by mistake, believing it to be a wild animal.

The Indians listened attentively to the white man's words and then consulted together a few minutes. Finally they separated, each brave going to his pony, unhitching him and leading him to the spot where a gang of white men stood. Barnes in the midst of them. Then one of the Indians spoke:

"We sorry we kill donkey. We think he belong to the woods. We find him in cane. We think him wild. We sorry. Now we pay. We take no white man's horse, pony, nothing of white man. We honest. We have ponies; that's all. Take pay." And he motioned to the long line of ponies, held by their owners.

"How many?" asked Barnes.

"White man say," returned the Indian; "take plenty."

The honor of the red men was not equaled by the white men, for, he it recorded to their shame, they took from the Chickasaws thirty-five ponies to pay for the accidental killing of one donkey.

AN AFRICAN RAILWAY.

The Way It Was Described by an Educated Native.

C. J. Phillips, business agent in Uganda of the Church Missionary society, throws light upon the workings of the native mind by quoting a remarkable letter in which a native member of the katikro's (prime minister's) party gives a description of the Uganda railway.

"My friend, I can tell you the Europeans have done a marvelous thing to make the railway and the trains. They fasten ten or fifteen houses together and attach them to a fireplace which is as big as an elephant, and the road it goes on is as smooth as the stem of a plantain. It goes as fast as a swallow flying, and everything you see outside this past you like a spark from a fire. If it were to drop off one of the bridges not one in it would be saved, for it goes dreadfully quick. The hills it passes are as high as those of Kohl, and they have bridged over great valleys which are as deep as that you see when you look from the top of Nambumba, so deep that you cannot see the bottom when you are going over them."

Later there follows a description of a ship: "It is as deep as our two storied house and as wide as the king's road in Menzo, and it is as long as from the katikro's fence to the gate of the king's enclosure. It has three tall poles in it and a big throat, out of which smoke comes, which is as wide as the new drum in the church at Nambumba. The rooms in it go down three stories, and the boards of these I cannot describe to you, for such have not been seen before. There is a lot of metal work about them, too, but these also I cannot describe, for it is so fine. There are children on board and a flock of sheep and places to wash in attached to every place where a chief sleeps, such as even our king has never possessed."—London Strand Magazine.

What would you say if some man living in Klamath Falls made it his business to drive out to your place, no matter what part of the county you are living in, and spent several hours telling you all the news? And what else would you think if he said he would be glad to come out the following week and do the same thing again, and promised to come every week in the year? Wouldn't you inquire as to his mental condition? Well, I guess you would want to know what business he was engaged in that he had so much spare time for disseminating news, or had some ultimate object in cultivating your acquaintance.

We'll Bring the News.

Well, here's the point: The editor of the Weekly Republican has a better proposition to make you; than the man who peddles news from house to house. It is not worth your while to ask what our business is; it's to peddle news, and peddle it in the best manner and shape possible. It is an impossibility to propose to make a personal visit to do this news-telling act; we simply concentrate our time and save buggy wear and horse feed (your horse feed) by staying right in Klamath Falls and gathering every bit of news that's going and printing it in The Republican. We are not a nephew of Uncle Sam, and consequently we have to pay the postage to send the paper to you, but even then that's easier than to get out to your place and hand you the paper personally.

Oh, yes; you may as well know, too, that we have an axe to grind by coming out to see you every week in the year. Mother says father came to see her twice a week for four years before she found out what he was coming for, but The Republican will make you understand in less time than that. You will get to know all the news of the county, and lots of things besides—things that go to make you as snappy and up-to-date as any other man in the township, or county, either; you won't get wise to things that occurred three months ago—you'll know them the week they happen. If you don't it's your own fault. Tie a string on your little finger when you start to the Falls next time and subscribe for The Weekly Republican to come and tell you the news every week in the year. Watch the Ads, Too.

Read the ads—all of them. Look them over each week as carefully as you do the news matter. It costs the merchants good hard-earned money to put those ads in the paper, and they mean them to be read. If you miss getting the full worth of your subscription money it's because you fail to read The Republican ads. You know where to trade when you come to the city; or at least you can't blame it all onto your wife if you make bad bargains.

Helping the Town . . .

By banking your money in a bank in your own community you increase the community's power to do business. If substantial farmers want to borrow money there is more to loan them. If you bank your money away from home it is loaned to other farmers, merchants and manufacturers. Help your home people. Money hidden at home helps no one. Placed in a bank it is put to work in ways that help all.
