KLAMATH FALLS, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1909.

TAFI DEFENDS COMPROMISE

the corporation tax was in itself the best form of income tax that could be levied, and pointed out that it contained many of the best features of the income tax law of England. The president declared it would be possible to amend the corporation tax as to include within its scope every desired feature of an income tax except the levy upon incomes derived from actual salary and professional services.

The president said he opposed direct income tax except in cases of emergency, and he believed it to be a prime fault in the Federal constitution that no provision is made for a direct levy to meet wartime or other extraordinary expenses.

Bond Tax Unconstitutional.

Mr. Taft declared it was the Supreme court decision declaring unconstitutional the income tax law passed by a Democratic congress years ago that prevented the leaders in congress during the session recently closed from including in the corporation tax measure a provision for a levy upon bonds and bond holders. To tax bonds would result in the reduction of the rate of interest, and hence would be a direct tax upon the individual holders of the bonds.

The president based his argument in favor of the corporation tax as compared with the direct income tax, almost entirely upon the results of the income tax in England. He pointed out the tax there is not a direct levy, such as was recently defeated in the senate only through a compromise, but that it laid the tax upon the income before it came into the hands of the individual.

Lessons of English Tax.

The English tax is levied, first on the declared dividends of corporations; second on rents before leaving the hands of the tenants, and third on the individual directly. It was found in England that a direct income tax at 10 per cent did not produce as much revenue as the present method of taxation. This, Mr. Taft declared, illustrated the premium the direct tax places upon perjury and concealment. It is a question, the president declared, whether incomes earned in salaries and from professional work should be taxed as heavily as incomes derived from investments or not taxed at all. The latter, he said, was the effect of the corporation tax.

The president received a most enthusiastic welcome to Denver. Signs were hung all over the city reading: "Welcome to Denver, the Summer Capital."

He Never Bragged.

"The Average American millionaire," said Upton Sinclair, in a recent address, "brags too much about his wealth."

"I stated this fact one day in the smoker of a Pullman. My companion agreed with me, but a fat man across the aisle, who must have been listening, leaned across and said sternly: 'Young man, you're all wrong. The American millionaire rarely if ever brags about money. I, for example, never bragged about money in my life, and yet I'm worth close on to four millions!'"—Washington Star.

The Wrong Receipt
"What's the matter, dear?" asked Mr. Justwed, as he came into the house and found his wife crying as if her heart would break.
"I'm so discouraged," she sobbed.
"What has bothered my little wife?"

"I worked all the forenoon making custards, because I knew you were so fond of them, and—and—"
here she began weeping hysterically again.

"And what, darling?"
"And they turned out to be sponge cake."—Tit-Bits.

A Checkered Answer

"Hullo, mate; 'ow is it you ain't workin'?"

"Well, it's like this; I works at a domino factory and I puts on the spots, and they are making double blanks today."—London Opinion.

Helping the Town . . .

By banking your money in a bank in your own community you increase the community's power to do business. If substantial farmers want to borrow money there is more to loan them. If you bank your money away from home it is loaned to other farmers, merchants and manufacturers. Help your home people. Money hidden at home helps no one. Placed in a bank it is put to work in ways that help all.
