KLAMATH FALLS, WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 23, 1909.

THE POULTRY YARD

(From October Farm Journal)
Market the surplus stock.

October neglects may cause November disasters.

This is a good month to paint the outside of the buildings.

Put heavy hens that spend too much time in the corner, eating with the hens, are in danger of dying suddenly with asphyxiation.

Clean the coops thoroughly before you put them away. Get them under cover, too, if you can. They will last so much longer.

Two parts lard and one part turpentine, will often cure "limber neck" if the afflicted bird is discovered in time and the remedy given promptly.

The April-hatched pullets should now be laying. It is a mistake to overcrowd them—not more than 25 should be allowed in a flock.

Ducks intended for breeding should be separated from those intended for market. It will be an advantage if they can have plenty of range and swimming water.

We cut hay into about one-inch lengths, and pour over enough hot water on it nearly to cover. Allow it to stand over night, and feed in the morning. Feed about three times a week during winter.

Now is the time to fix up the hen-houses. If you don't want to buy tarred paper take some of the rolls of wall paper lying around the house and paste over the cracks. It will make the place very much warmer.

"If the shoe fits, wear it," is a time-worn saying; but with a woman if the shoe fits she takes it back because it is too big.

Two Sides to Everything

A little boy was given too much underdone pie for his supper, and was soon roaring lustily. His mother's visitor was visibly disturbed.

"If he was my child," she said, "he'd get a good sound spanking."

"He deserves it," the mother admitted, "but I don't believe in spanking him on a full stomach."

"Neither do I," said the visitor, "but I'd turn him over."—Success.

Why He Hesitated

Mr. Brown, looking for his wife, asked the cook:

"Bridget, can you tell me of my wife's whereabouts?"

Bridget, evidently embarrassed, hesitated before replying. "I think they are in the wash, sor."—Success.

Try It

If you don't believe it, just suggest to the first man you meet that he would have made a fine comedian if he had gone on the stage and see him swell up with pride and tell you about the first amateur performance he ever appeared in.—St. Louis Star.

Knew One Who Did

Cynicism—Is it possible for a woman to keep a secret?

Henpeck—I don't know about that; my wife and I were engaged for several weeks before she said anything about it to me.—Philadelphia Record.

When a big cannon was raised from the bottom of the sea off the English coast, where it had lain for a century and a half, it was found that the action of sand and pebbles had worn one side to almost immeasurable thinness.

ENGLISH MONARCHS.

Death Often Unkind in the Manner of Their Taking Off.

Of the monarchs who have reigned over England since the days of the Norman conquest nearly one-quarter of the number have met violent deaths. William I. was killed by a fall from his horse. William II. was shot while hunting, whether by accident or design is still one of the unsolved problems of history. Richard I. was killed by a shaft from a crossbow while besieging the city of Chalus, in France. Richard II. was murdered in Pontefract castle. Edward II. was murdered in Berkeley castle and Edward V. in the Tower of London. Richard III. was killed on the battlefield of Bosworth, and Charles I. had his head cut off in London.

Elizabeth's death was hastened by remorse that she had ordered the execution of Essex, and her sister Mary sickened and died soon after the loss of Calais, declaring that the name of that city would be found after death written on her heart. The death of Edward III's son, the Black Prince, caused the aged monarch to die of grief. So, after the loss of his son in the White Ship, Henry I. was never seen to smile again and lived only a short time. Henry VI. and George III. were insane during the latter years of their reigns and finally died from what in those days would be called paresis. Charles II., Henry VIII., Edward IV. and George IV. hastened their deaths by the lives they lived. Only two monarchs died of that great national scourge, consumption. They were Edward VI. and Henry VII. Queen Anne's death was due as much as anything else to overfeeding. Only two monarchs, Henry VI. and George III., died after long illnesses.—London Tatler.

Beyond Criticism

Jack—Those young widows have an advantage over you single girls, because they know all about men.

Madge—Yes, and because the only men who knew all about them are dead.—Boston Transcript.

To the Minute

Father—Do you find Rob prompt at the office?
His Employer—Yes, indeed; I never saw in all my life a young man who could get out of the office at 5 o'clock with less delay.—Exchange.

According to experts of the Rockefeller Institute, the ice-ice fly does not cause the dreaded African sleeping sickness, which has been attributed to it, but only incidentally spreads the malady by carrying the germ from an infected person to a new subject.

Helping the Town . . .

By banking your money in a bank in your own community you increase the community's power to do business. If substantial farmers want to borrow money there is more to loan them. If you bank your money away from home it is loaned to other farmers, merchants and manufacturers. Help your home people. Money hidden at home helps no one. Placed in a bank it is put to work in ways that help all.

The First National Bank of Klamath Falls

Is a good bank to put your money in—safe and reliable.

A Savings Account . . .

In a rainy day fund, a life insurance policy, a sick benefit, a funeral benefit, and an old age pension. There is no forfeiture clause in the passbook, and it is under the owner's control at all times. It will tide him over sickness; it will care for his family when he must go; it will see him through old age, and bury him when he dies. It is a simple business proposition. Begin early, and keep it up, and, like manna in the desert, it will supply him as he journeys.

Now is the time to open an account with the
