MOLDY HOPS

Report From the Capitol City Indicates Larger Percentage Than Expected.

In regard to the Oregon hop crop the Salem Statesman quotes a local hop dealer as follows:

"Before the baling of the present crop is finished it will probably be discovered that there are more moldy hops this year than was thought possible a month ago. The majority of the reports now coming in show that the crop is coming down much lighter than was expected before picking began, and at the same time mold has developed in many of the yards where it was believed that spraying had effectually eliminated the possibility of damage to the crop by vermin. In the yards where the vines had the best attention the damage has, of course, been lightest, but I have seen many yards the past few days, and I have not seen many where there were no traces of mold. In the yards where the lice were permitted to work their havoc unmolested the crop is decidedly in bad shape.

Woman's Logic

"My opponent's argument," said Senator Dolliver in a recent campaign "has about as much logic—Did you ever hear about the young woman in Fort Dodge? One spring morning she sat on the piazza of her pretty little home sewing a button on her husband's coat. The husband himself appeared and she said fretfully, 'It's a perfect shame the way the tailor sewed this button on. This is the fifth time I've had to sew it on again for you.'—Everybody's.

QUEER FREAKS OF LIGHTNING

London Lancet Gives Account of the Mysterious Element

Perhaps the most surprising result of a lightning stroke is to be seen in those cases where no real harm is produced, though the injury to the clothing may make it certain that the lightning did hit the person and even a watch chain has been fused without injury to its owner. It is, however, more common for temporary unconsciousness to be present, even if perfect health is regained. A very curious effect is sometimes produced. The person struck is killed and yet he remains in the very attitude in which he was at the moment of death. Eight farm laborers were resting at dinner time under an oak tree when they were all struck and killed by the same flash of lightning. When found they appeared to be still eating. One held a glass, another was carrying a piece of bread to his mouth and a third had his hand on a plate. In another case a woman was struck while picking a poppy. The body was found standing with the bower still in her hand. The most probable explanation of these occurrences is the instantaneous onset of rigor mortis, and it has been shown experimentally that in animals killed by electricity the onset of rigor mortis can be hastened by increasing the strength of the current.

Perhaps the most curious accompaniment of a lightning shock is the stripping off of the clothes. This appears to be very common. Dr. G. Wilks of Ashford, Kent, describes a case in which a man was struck by lightning while standing by a willow tree. Immediately afterward his boots were found at the foot of the tree and the man was lying on his back two yards off, absolutely naked except for part of the left arm of his flannel vest. He was conscious, but much burned, and his left leg was broken. The field around was strewn with fragments of the clothes, which were torn from top to bottom. The boots were partly torn. Flammation mentions a case in 1898 in which three women were standing round a reaping machine when one of them was struck by lightning and killed; the others were uninjured, but they were stripped absolutely naked, even their boots being removed.

The Proper Equipment

A Methodist bishop was recently a guest at the home of a friend who had two charming daughters. One morning the bishop, accompanied by the two young ladies, went out in the hope of catching some trout. An old fisherman out for the same purpose, wishing to appear friendly, called out:

"Ketchin' many, pard?" The bishop, straightening himself to his full height, replied: "Brother, I am a fisher of men." "You've got the right kind of bait all right," was the fisherman's rejoinder.—Success.

HARDWARE MERCHANTS

Helping the Town . . .

By banking your money in a bank in your own community you increase the community's power to do business. If substantial farmers want to borrow money there is more to loan them. If you bank your money away from home it is loaned to other farmers, merchants and manufacturers. Help your home people. Money hidden at home helps no one. Placed in a bank it is put to work in ways that help all.

The First National Bank of Klamath Falls

Is a good bank to put your money in—safe and reliable.

A Savings Account . . .

In a rainy day fund, a life insurance policy, a sick benefit, a funeral benefit, and an old age pension. There is no forfeiture clause in the passbook, and it is under the owner's control at all times. It will tide him over sickness; it will care for his family when he must go; it will see him through old age, and bury him when he dies. It is a simple business proposition. Begin early, and keep it up, and, like manna in the desert, it will supply him as he journeys.

Now is the time to open an account with the
