The right kind of stationery; the kind you have been looking for, in this week

Italy every year uses 1860 tons of orange blossoms and 1,000 tons of roses in the manufacture of perfume.

More than 1,000,000 acres of land have been reclaimed from the sea by Holland since the sixteenth century. As a general rule, roots extend on each side of a tree to a distance equal to the height of the tree itself.

The tungsten incandescent lamp is the first artificial light by which all colors can be distinguished.

The theory of gravitation was advanced by Kepler in 1617, seventy years before Newton announced his discovery.

Abrasion tests of the new aluminum coins with which France is experimenting show that they wear better than gold or bronze.

Pennsylvania's anthracite coal output of approximately 35,250,000 tons for the first six months of this year eclipsed all records.

An Italian engineer has completed a small hydroplane capable of skimming the water at a rate of 125 miles an hour.

When you get ready to pick out your Thanksgiving turkey, call or phone to the Monarch Mercantile company. They have about 150 fine young turkeys fattening for the festive occasion.

Jack Cunningham, while out duck hunting near the Hannan place the other day, emptied both barrels of his shotgun into a bunch of ducks, killing four with the first shot and five with the next.

One of those delightful pastoral scenes which it is a pleasure to view can be seen in the vacant yard next to Baldwin's livery stable, where a number of ducks are wallowing in a pool caused by the recent rains.

Portland, Medford, Salem and several other cities are making plans for setting out trees and beautifying the residence district and city generally. Why wouldn't it be a good plan to start such a campaign here? This does not necessarily mean that we should pave the streets immediately.

Clean the leaves off the lawns and sidewalks; set out trees around the house; keep things neat and clean. Then you are really aiding the cause of the "city beautiful."

Every Man and Woman

That appreciates a complete-at-every-point jewelry store can find much to admire here.

Lately we've been adding to our stock here and there.

Strengthening it—filling it out in spots that seemed to need it.

Put in a lot of new watches and quite a few rings of various kinds.

Increased the showing of the smaller goods all along the line—which rounds out our stock—newer than ever.

In what are YOU interested? Be sure you'll find it here. Be sure it will reflect the signs of the highest quality. Be sure it will be priced fairly.

HIS LEGAL AUTHORITY.

It Seemed to Fit the Case, and Joey Was Discharged.

There was consternation among the young folk. The "music" for the dancing at the picnic in the glen had got into trouble. No one ever considered any other "music" but Joey the fiddler. He was indispensable, but he was also erratic. In the old country Joey had been a schoolteacher and a man of considerable learning, but here he had fallen into evil ways. He was overfond of two things—a bottle and an argument. Having become engaged in the latter on this day of the picnic, he broke the former over the head of his opponent and was haled away to the lockup. The young people called a hastily meeting and appointed a committee to wait upon Squire Nugent to secure the release of the "music" if possible. The squire was hearing Joey's case when the committee arrived. The spokesman respectfully explained the absolute necessity of Joey's presence at the picnic that day.

"That's a good soul, squire, I've me go," put in Joey.

The squire took down a ponderous lawbook and began thoughtfully to turn the pages.

"If you're lookin' for the legal authority coverin' my case, squire, ye'll find it in Byron," the prisoner suggested.

"Can you quote it?" asked the magistrate, with a twinkle in his eye.

"Aye, so I can," Joey promptly retorted. "It reads, 'On with the dance; let Joey be unconfin'd.'"

The squire adjudged Byron a competent authority, and Joey was unconfin'd.—Catholic Standard and Times.

Enjoying Himself.

A fond mother sent her small boy into the country and after a week of anxiety received the following letter:

"I got here all right, and I forgot to write before. It is a very nice place to have fun. A fellow and I went out in a boat, the boat tipped over, and a man got me out, and I was so full of water that I didn't know nothin' for a long while.

"The other boy has to be buried when they find him. His mother came from her home, and she cried all the time. A horse kicked me over, and I have got to have some money to pay the doctor for mendin' my head. It was broken a bit.

"We are goin' to set an old barn on fire tonight, and I am not your son if I don't have some real fun. I lost my watch, and I am very sorry. I shall bring home some snakes and a toad, and I shall bring home a tame crow if I can get 'em in my trunk."—London Globe.

The First Firearms. The early history of firearms in the sense of tubes from which missiles are thrown by the action of a detonating compound of the nature of gunpowder is wrapped in obscurity, though it may be inferred from the few early records that such weapons were first employed in warfare soon after the beginning of the fourteenth century, if not some time before. The country of their origin remains uncertain, but it was most probably Italy.
