KLAMATH FALLS, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 24, 1909.

THREE AMERICAN THANKSGIVINGS

1630—"We found the colony in a sad and unexpected condition, above eighty of them being dead the winter before and many of those alive were weak and sick. All the corn and bread among them was hardly sufficient to feed them a fortnight." • • • "When I could have meal and water and salt boiled together it was as good who could wish for better?" • • • "The women at low tide gathered clams and mussels from the frozen beach, ate ground nuts, acorns and sweet fish." • • • "In almost every family lamentation, mourning and woe was heard and no fresh food to be had to cherish them."

1880—"For Thanksgiving dinner we had winter soup, which is made from beef with cabbage, carrots, sweet marjoram, parsley, turnips, potatoes and onions; fresh codfish fried, boiled ham, roast turkey with cranberry sauce; oyster pie; potato snow, turnips, parsnips, winter squash, cocoanut pudding, lemon pudding, mince pie, calves'-foot jelly."

1909—"For my family dinner, Thanksgiving, I have had a larger log made for my round table, as I expect twenty guests. I am using the log-tree decorations. I will have bonbons and crystallized fruits in tall silver compotes, and salted nuts in individual dishes of placed silver.

"I will use my handsomest tablecloth, ornamented with wide bands of filet lace and my monogram, and my large dinner napkins with the monogram; white china with my monogram in gilt, and glasses of rock crystal. I will add a touch of color to the group of glasses by using one Venetian, pink, with gold decorations. The name-cards bear turkeys done in water-colors and signed by the artist's name. These cards are tied with red, white and blue ribbons. During the dinner a harpist will play patriotic airs and simple folk-songs. We will have dinner at seven o'clock on account of the football game in the afternoon."—The Delineator for November.

WORKING WOMEN AND ARISTOCRATS COMBINE

While the woman's suffrage movement owes its commanding proportions to the working class, the needs and views of these women have been given their publicity and their collective weight through the organizing power of educated women. For forty years or more women of some leisure and enlightenment have been serving on school boards, as poor law guardians, on hospital and organized charity boards, on vestries. And the suffrage agitation will prove itself invincible in England because in front of the inarticulate army of the workingwomen there are these leaders who have learned leadership quietly, slowly, through the years that lie behind.—Elizabeth Robins in Everybody's Magazine.

ACQUIRING RELATIONSHIPS

Little Frank was enumerating his aunts one day. He mentioned a favorite cousin. "Well," he said, "cousin Dill isn't my aunt yet; she's just my cousin, but when she gets a little older she'll be my aunt, won't she, mama?"

TRAGEDY AT SEA WHEN STEAMER BURNS

A calm sea and coolheaded officers prevented what otherwise might have been a fearful sea tragedy when the steamer St. Croix burned off the California coast Saturday night. There were plenty of boats for the passengers and small crew on the vessel, and the excellent discipline enabled all hands to reach shore in safety. Particulars as to the cause of the fire are missing, but a Los Angeles dispatch says that "ten days ago an explosion took place in the boiler-room of the St. Croix and Chief Engineer Doe was scalded to death. The belief is that an explosion in the engine-room below the second cabin caused the fire of today." This would seem to be a subject for the most rigid investigation. Explosions and fires on steamships do not "just happen." There is some cause for them, and, if conditions responsible for the fatal explosion ten days earlier were not changed before the second explosion occurred, there is punishment due somewhere. Luck played a large part in saving the lives of the passengers and crew on the burning steamer. — Portland Oregonian.

GOV. FORBES INAUGURATED

MANILA, Nov. 24.—W. Cameron Forbes was inaugurated governor-general of the Philippines today in succession to Gen. James F. Smith. The inauguration was accompanied by civic and military display, and was more elaborate than previous inductions into office. The official home of the governor-general was thronged with thousands of citizens of all classes, while army and navy officers, consular officials and others, many of them in full uniform, added brilliancy to an impressive scene.

BASEBALL MAGNATES MEET

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—Representatives of the Three-Eye League and the Central association met in this city today for an important conference. Before the meeting is adjourned it is expected that the two organizations will agree upon a plan for redistricting their territory so as to avoid a conflict in their circuits the coming season.

A REMNANT OF THE DARK

A colored man died without medical attendance, and the coroner went to investigate.

"Did Samuel Williams live here?" he asked the weeping woman who opened the door.

"Yassuh," she replied between sobs.

"I want to see the remains."

"I is de remains," she answered proudly.

THEIR OWN DOCTORS.

Remedies That Animals When Sick Instinctively Select.

With the brute creation the simple remedies of nature generally suffice for their few ailments, and they are guided to them by instinct. We have been told how the mongoose cures himself when bitten by a cobra by eating a certain plant, and many country residents have seen a sick dog bury himself in the dirt.

Animals instinctively choose such food as is best suited to them. A large number of animals wash themselves and bathe, as elephants, stags, birds and ants. In fact, man may take a lesson in hygiene from the lower animals. Animals get rid of their parasites by using dust, mud, clay, etc. Those suffering from fever restrict their diet, keep quiet, seek darkness and airy places, drink water and sometimes even plunge into it.

When a dog has lost his appetite he eats that species of grass known as dog's grass (chiendent). Cats also eat grass, catnip, etc. Sheep and cows when ill seek out certain herbs. An animal suffering from chronic rheumatism always keeps as much as possible in the sun. The warrior ants have regularly organized ambulances.

Latreille cut the antennae of an ant, and other ants came and covered the wounded part with a transparent fluid they secrete in their mouths. If a chimpanzee be wounded it stops the bleeding by placing its hand on the wound or dressing it with leaves and grass. When an animal has a wounded leg or arm hanging on it completes the amputation by means of its teeth. —Philadelphia North American.

HER CHOICE OF BOAS.

The Question That Is Now Puzzling the Man in the Case.

Crosby had always been inclined to conservatism in household expenses, especially in the matter of his wife's dress bills. His wife went so far as to say that he was penurious.

She had been in need of a new boa for a long time, and after she hinted that her happiness would never be quite complete till she had one he at last consented to make the purchase. He went into a store and picked out two, one of which was a cheap imitation affair and the other a fine, expensive one.

Taking them to his office before going home, he changed the price marks, the expensive tag on the cheap boa, and vice versa.

His wife examined them for a long time very seriously indeed and then said: "Now, dear, this expensive boa is a beauty, and it is really very good of you to allow me my choice. Some women would take it without a word, but really I don't think we can afford the more costly one, and besides, dear, I think the cheap one the more stylish too. Why, Cros, dear, what's the matter? Are you ill?"

But dear old Cros had made his getaway into the night where he could kick himself as hard as he felt he deserved. But what he would like to know is this: Did his wife happen on the more expensive boa by pure accident or—

Girls and Outdoor Games.

Women in their ambition to be athletic contend against innumerable difficulties. One of these difficulties is skirts, a second is waists and a third—almost insuperable—is hair, including hairpins. Watch a girl playing tennis or cricket, and after a more than usually brilliant effort she invariably puts her hands to her head, as if she expected something to fall off if she did not. Energetic play is usually attended by dishevelment of the unruly locks and a shedding of hairpins that cause the pretty athlete distress. Her pleasure in the game is marred by a sense of insecurity and a constant fear of consequences. No woman can wield a racket or essay a run with an undivided mind. Half her brain is occupied by the fearful surmise that her hair is coming down—a surmise, by the way, which is probably too painfully justified by the fact.—London Black and White.

The Check System.

John Palmer, who died some years ago in rather straitened circumstances in a little town in Michigan, was the inventor of the check system. Palmer was a fiddler and assumed responsibility for the hats, coats and wraps of those who came to his dancing parties. In keeping things straight he gave numbered checks for the articles committed to his care. Some railroad men who attended one of the dances noticed how perfectly the idea worked and appropriated it, and in a short time the system was adopted all over the country. As is so often the case, the inventor got nothing out of it.—New York American.

"Yes," said the Rillville story teller, "the cyclone carried his house into the next county and set it down there as comfortable as you please, and as he stepped out of the door to survey the country the man who owned the land entered him of suit for trespass and the tax collector handed him a bill for taxes."—Atlanta Constitution.
