EXHIBIT CAR A SURPRISE

potatoes, monster onions, mammoth beets, cabbages almost as large as a common washtub, fruits, grains, seeds, building materials, educational displays, native birds and animals, and great yellow pumpkins were gazed upon with wonder by the many visitors at the car.

Fine Lumber Shown

One of the finest exhibits in the car is the lumber. Pine and fir lumber of exceedingly even grain and fine color, and shingles excited the admiration of men who understand lumber. Sandstone and limestone blocks and manufactured building materials make up another special feature of the exhibit.

Then there is one section devoted to relics of the Indians. This comprises stone implements, baskets, weapons and ornaments.

Birds and Animals

In another section there are stuffed birds and animals. Several monster eagles—the graceful bald eagle and the native Klamath golden eagle are conspicuous. Then there are quail, herons, geese, ducks, pelicans and many other game, food and birds of prey.

Deer heads, mounted, stuffed wildcats and lynx, squirrels, porcupines, stuffed, and the furs of other animals occupy another interesting display.

Educational Display

The prize educational display which took a gold medal at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition at Seattle is also in the collection and illustrates the excellence of the Klamath county public school system.

Seeds and jars of preserved fruit form another interesting part of the exhibit. And in one corner there are growing blackberry vines. Almost every available foot of space in the express car has its sample of Klamath county's productiveness and resource. The ceiling of the car is even decorated with evergreens, the sides contain bunches of grasses, leaves and sprigs from trees. Bales of hay help to take up more room, while wool and mohair are securely packed in burlap sacks.

Mounted Deer Heads

Several species of deer are represented by mounted heads and antlers. One head of a Klamath mule deer is almost as large as that of an elk.

What could not be packed in the car in bulk is represented by a large collection of photographs. Panoramic views show all kinds of agricultural scenes, and depict every phase of industrial life in Klamath county, Oregon.

What the soil of Klamath county is capable of producing is shown so forcibly that it requires little explanation on the part of Oliver to make the value of it strike home. But he has an opportunity to tell an interesting story when showing the historical chair and the Indian relics.

History of Chair

The chair is of old-fashioned make and bears the United States stamp. Here is part of its history: It was in use at the military post in Utah at the time of the Meadow massacre Brigham Young has often sat in it. In 1864 it and a companion chair were taken to Fort Klamath. When Captain Jack, the leader of the Modocs, and the three Indians who with him killed General Canby during the Modoc war, under a flag of truce, were tried at Fort Klamath in 1873-3 and subsequently hanged, the Modoc leader occupied this chair at the trial. Captain Carpenter, who served at the post under Colonel Whipple, gave the two chairs to John Schallcock, now deputy sheriff, in 1878. Mr. Schallcock presented the Captain Jack chair to Antone Castell when he became postmaster of Klamath Falls, and Mr. Castell used it during his term of office.

Trappers and hunters are every day bringing in mink, fisher, bobcat and coyote hides, and the trapping season has begun in full force. In the earlier days this was one of the main supports of the men who during the winter found lots of spare time on their hands. There are even now but few places in the country where the trapping brings such good returns for the money and time invested. Last week one man brought in to the Gun store $125 worth of hides he had captured in less than a month.

TO MILK CONSUMERS

Owing to the increased cost of feeding and natural shrinkage in production in winter, we are forced to advance the price of milk. Beginning Dec. 1st and until further notice, the price will be 30 cents per gallon and 10 cents per quart.

The grade on the bank of Lost river at the south approach to the Wilson bridge, near the S. Kilgore ranch, is in a dangerous condition, and should have immediate attention. The road there is narrow and sliding, affording no room for teams to pass for a considerable distance, and has been the scene of several accidents within the past few weeks. The attention of the powers-that-be is earnestly called to this short piece of road. A little intelligent work there at this time would safeguard against a serious accident in the future.—Merrill Record.
