

SURVEY MAPS ARE FILED BY THE OREGON TRUNK

Permanent Survey Now to the Northern Boundary Klamath Reservation

THIS CITY TO BE TERMINUS

It is Now Certain That Hill Is After the Immense Timber Tonnage of This County

The application for the right of way for the Oregon Trunk railroad so far as surveyed was filed in the Lakeview land office on Monday of this week. The maps show only that part of the proposed right of way in this district on the lower part of The Dalles district lying in Crook county, the other part having been filed in The Dalles office.

As shown by the maps the survey follows the Deschutes river up to a point some twelve or fifteen miles east of Crescent lake, where it goes up the east fork of the river. It passes near Rosland, entering Klamath county near the northeast corner of section 2 in township 23 south of range 9 east, being about five miles southwest of Rosland. It runs in a southerly direction, passing to the west of the Walker range of mountains, and ends at a point on the south line of section 28, township 27 south of range east. This point is practically 66 miles due north of Klamath Falls and eight miles from the north line of the Klamath Indian reservation. The survey practically parallels that of the Oregon Eastern, being but a quarter of a mile east of the latter at the end of the former's survey, in 27-8.

There is no longer any doubt that the objective point of the Hill railroad through the Deschutes country is the great soft pine region of Klamath county, and that Klamath Falls is to be the terminus until the road is to be pushed on to San Francisco.

Beginning nearly four years ago with the acquisition of the Klamath Lake railroad, extending from Thrall to Pokoama, and some 20,000 acres of timber land that has been brought into the holdings of that company by Hervey Lindley, the Weyerhaeuser Timber company has bought other holdings of the Jenny creek plateau and throughout the choicest belt of the great Klamath forest until the holdings of the big syndicate now approximate 150,000 acres. This represents the investment of several millions of capital by this company.

Shevlin & Carpenter, heavy operators, have recently made extensive purchases. The Deschutes Lumber company, which is formed by Alpena, Mich., men; the rocky Lumber company of Minneapolis; the Hixon Lumber company, S. O. Johnson and G. H. Gilchrist have secured holdings aggregating about 200,000 acres.

The coming of these timber men to this section of Oregon is recognized by those in touch with the facts as the first advance of Hill interests in this territory. Confident of the speedy revival of business following the disturbance in the Autumn of 1907, these associated timber men, all in close touch with the Hill railroad interests, sought to take advantage of the existing depressed condition of the lumber market and demand for timber, thereby driving many good bargains in taking over holdings of the best yellow pine timber. It soon was done with an understanding that the Hill roads would build a branch as soon as necessary to bring the traffic to its natural outlet in markets of Middle West and Mississippi valley states. The market demand is rapidly being stimulated to the country east of the Rocky mountains by lumber crops of wheat and corn, and the roads will make an effort to meet the necessities of the occasion with rates that will place lumber in that territory.

It is noted by a man well informed on the railroad situation that the first advent of Hill enterprises to prepare the way for building the North Bank road into Portland was the selection of the site for a great saw mill on the peninsula near St. John by the Weyerhaeuser Timber company, which it afterwards developed as done in the interests of the railroad. Therefore, it is pointed out, the entrance of the greatest timber combination in the country into the lumber industry of this section means that it is the forerunner of the Hill railroad, which will claim a large share of the traffic that will be developed by the plants of the timber men.

FORT KLAMATH, Dec. 18. There will be a program rendered at the school house Friday afternoon and an all-night dance Christmas eve at Melbae hall.

The blacksmiths are busy making and repairing sleighs, although we scarcely have good sleighing as far south as the Agency. But the weather prophet, offers to bet there will be no more stormy weather until January 1st. If this is true we will have to press our wagons into service again.

Adams' dredger is patching up the levy made last Spring from the mouth of Adams' river to W. J. bridge. As soon as they finish his job they intend to run two ditches on the lower north of the Wood ranch.

The ice harvest has commenced, and C. D. Wilson and others began today hauling ice from the Upper lake. It is reported that the ice is from six to eight inches thick.

Subscribe for The Herald and Vote for Your Favorite.

The Contest Closes Friday, December 24, at 9 P. M.

Tonight the extra vote offer for new subscribers will close, all subscriptions to apply on this offer must be received not later than 6 o'clock. This is positively the last special offer that will be made during this contest. If there are any of your friends that are not taking the paper see them now, and ask them to subscribe.

The candidates have only five working days left. Every minute of your spare time should be devoted to the work henceforth, the contest is going to be close, and one subscriber may turn the tide. Start closing your promises up Monday; if you delay you will find it impossible to close them all before the end. Some people will ask you even at this late date to call again; explain to them how utterly impossible it would be for you to make three and four calls for one subscription at this time. They gain nothing by waiting, and it costs you a great deal of time, and time now means votes.

Don't allow yourself to become overconfident if you have a large number of votes pledged, don't quit working just because you think you have enough to win. Remember that your competitors have been working just as hard, probably have as many friends, and consequently would have as many pledged as yourself, and were you to quit for even a day you would lose support that would be extremely hard to regain at this late stage. Your competitors are in to win, and don't intend to lose without the hardest kind of a fight. It is better for you to realize this and meet the issue squarely before it is too late. Go right in with the intention of either winning or giving the winner the hardest contest of her life.

Don't hold back subscriptions. Complaints are made in the office every day by people who have ordered the paper from one of the candidates, and after waiting several days for it have failed to get it. In ordering the paper people always expect the next issue, and candidates should make it a point to report them as soon as received.

If you have any prospects see them at once; some other girl may get them if you don't. Don't forget any of your promises. Impress upon all of your friends that the contest closes Friday night at 9 o'clock.

Each succeeding day the vote grows heavier. Today each of the leading candidates polled over 10,000 votes. Miss Masten leads again today, with Miss Harris a close second. Following is the standing:

Flora Masten	$4,900
Helen Harris	$1,800
Golda Barnes	$2,000
