DAKOTA REPUBLICANS ENDORSE TAFT

Arraign Cannon and Praise President for His Loyalty to Roosevelt Policies

United Press Service.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., July 6.—

The republican convention in session here today adopted a platform strongly endorsing President Taft and arraigning Cannonism and Aldrichism. It commends Taft for his repeated declarations of loyalty to Roosevelt and his policies and for the substantial reform measures that have been written into the statutes of the United States during his administration.

SIMPLE CEREMONIES

FOR LATE JURIST

United Press Service.

SORENTO, Me., July 6.—The funeral services this afternoon at the funeral of the late Chief Justice Brewer were as simple as the life of the eminent man whose interment they were marking. The attendants included Justice Holmes, Governor Hughes of New York, President Taft and ex-President Roosevelt. A score of men prominent in the world's activities were also present to witness the services and show their respect for the great jurist.

M'CARTHY REFUSES TO PERMIT PICTURES TO BE SHOWN

United Press Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 6.—Mayor McCarthy announced this afternoon that he would not permit the fight pictures to be shown here. He said the Reno contest had proved to be a prize fight, and therefore the pictures would be as unlawful as the fight itself.

The watch of modern times. Ever good; better now. I have it; the new 21-jewel, 16 size. The price is $75. I'd be pleased to show it's merits. McHatton.

WILLAMETTE LAND IS RICH

HAS MORE THAN DOUBLED IN VALUE IN THE PAST YEAR

SHOULD BENEFIT KLAMATH COUNTY

The Demand Has Never Been So Great as at the Present Time Homeseekers Flocking In

"I was never so greatly surprised in my life as during my recent visit to the Willamette valley," stated C. C. Hogue, fiscal agent of the reclamation service. "I used to own some land near Albany, and I became discouraged and sold. That is where I made a mistake. If I had held that property until this summer it would have yielded far greater returns than I received. From one end of the valley to the other land has more than doubled in value. Surrounding Albany land is selling for four and five hundred an acre, and it is hard to get even at that price. Farming land that last year went begging for $30 and $40 an acre is now in big demand for $80 and $90. The cause of this is the great influx of homeseekers. The number of new people is far in excess of anything of the kind in the history of the state, and it shows no indication of abating. Until this year Oregon had the cheapest land on the coast. In Washington and California the price of land has been high for several years, and the people who are coming out West this season cannot afford to pay the high prices asked in those states. Consequently they came to Oregon and lost no time in buying up the cheap lands of the Willamette valley.

"Now that the lands in that section are reaching the high water mark the homeseeker will doubtless seek the interior, but even the hundreds of thousands of acres in that section will not suffice to satisfy the demand for land, and it is but a matter of a short time before that will be settled up."

Klamath county should benefit from this great demand for farming land. One of the great difficulties heretofore is the fact that the homeseeker located before he reached this county. When one did arrive here he was importuned to invest in city property until he got so sick of the town that he generally left. Whenever one was taken into the country a sale was generally made, or at least more than the average percentage of them bought farms and made their home here. It is being recognized that the irrigated lands of Klamath county are not high when compared with other sections of the coast. It is true that many farmers unacquainted with land values elsewhere think that the price asked here is unreasonable, but when they go away and investigate they soon learn that Klamath county offers the best opportunities.

The sale recently made of the Will Humphrey ranch for $135 an acre is indicative of the high price lands close to this city are beginning to command. Last year farming land that could be bought for $35 an acre cannot be had this year for $75. The man who one year ago balked at paying $35 an acre would certainly be filled with regret if he were here today. The man who today refuses to buy up $15 land located within a few miles of the city will one year hence suffer from the same regret as the man who refused to pay $35 twelve months ago.

The farming lands of the Pacific coast are going up, and they will continue to do so for some time to come. A man who owns a farm should keep it and improve it, and in five years it will yield him a return far beyond his highest expectations. But he must remember that it is only the good farms that command the fancy prices.

When Colonel Wilkins came into the council chamber last night he was given a greeting that showed the esteem in which he was held. Every one had a cheery "glad to see you, Colonel. By George, I am glad that you are able to get out." And the Colonel assured them that he, too, was glad to be on deck again.

Dearest they are here with the advent of summer. Pretty new line of collars and belt pins. At McHatton's.

Say, "heavenly breath," just what you look for has arrived. A safety hat pin clutch. If you have a nice hat pin and don't wish to lose it, get one, four bits. At McHatton's.

DAIRY DEVELOPMENTS

Chas. McCumber has invested in a new harvester.

Report has it that Miss Theresa Steral, who is now living in Portland, is soon to be married.

Mrs. W. P. Budge, her daughter Zelma and Miss Ella Anderson accompanied A. L. Michael and wife to the Falls to celebrate.

Wm. Uehmann has bought a new spring wagon and took his family to the Falls for the celebration. Mrs. Beck accompanied them.

Chas. H. Flackus and his nephew, Eddie Flackus, celebrated the national anniversary fishing for trout in Sprague river, near Peter McCarty's. A short downpour of rain succeeding a violent windstorm Sunday afternoon gave the growing crops a refreshing appearance and revived the farmers' spirits.

The Slack sawmill has contracted to deliver 200,000 feet of lumber to the Big Basin Lumber company this summer, and several men are engaged in hauling the lumber.

Among those who went to the Falls from Yonah Valley to celebrate were the families of Hans Stoeckler, C. C. Pearson, Wm. L. Welch and Mike Rueck. While Henry Stoeckler and Adam Wiedeman represented the bachelors.

If I correctly gauge republican sentiment in this precinct by what men tell me, the "assembly" idea does not meet with favor generally. Men want to vote to nominate their candidates in their individual capacity, instead of delegating the right to a few party bosses and their creatures.

Several families in the valley, including those of Chas. McCumber and R. M. Harlan, and W. E. Hinz, Will Shook and children of several other families, formed a picnic party which sojourned to the Rattlesnake Spring for an outing on the Fourth. Of course they had a glorious time.

Well, here it is, the Fourth of July, and still little talk is heard about politics. While in other states the public mind is "all torn up" over state and local politics. Surely Oregon is a favored community, and its condition of quietude is all attributable to her splendid primary law, which gives the people the say-so about who is to be nominated and elected to fill the offices. And yet there are a few ambitious souls who ache to get back to the old convention system.
