EFFEKTIVE GARRAGE DISPOSAL

UNTIL lately American practice in the matter of garbage disposal decomposing refuse have been—in some places still are—allowed to accumulate in the vicinity of dwellings, or cheap, ineffectual "disposal plants" installed and operated by greedy or dishonest private contractors have been run for a few years and then allowed to lapse into well-earned oblivion. Neither procedure is creditable to a civilized state. There is really no need for a continuance of the offensive and wasteful methods that have been commonly employed in this country, says the Journal of the American Medical Association.
At least two methods of garbage disposal have proved effective in typical American cities: Incineration and reduction. In the incinerating type all kinds of refuse, ashes, paper, rags, scraps of food, kitchen waste, etc., are fed together into crematories and burned. In European works of this type the heat generated by the combustion with a forced draft is a source of considerable revenue. One of the best examples of an incinerator plant in this country is the Milwaukee incinerator, which has been in operation since May, 1910. At the old Milwaukee plant the cost of disposal reached as high as $1.37 per ton of garbage, while the cost at the new plant is less than 60 cents per ton. If the excess supply of steam generated at the plant is economically utilized the actual cost will be further greatly reduced.
In garbage reduction works the sorted garbage is passed through various digestors, tanks and roller processes with a view to extracting the valuable portions, especially the fats and the nitrogenous matters. The Columbus (Ohio) plant, put in operation in July, 1910, is the first reduction plant in this country designed and constructed by a municipality. Successful financial operation of this plant appears in the fact that it netted $2,000 a month for the first six months.

The reasonable and business like way of approaching the garbage disposal question is the employment of a reputable and competent engineer to examine local conditions and report on such topics as the most economical routes for collection and transportation, the establishment and location of one or more centers for disposal and the final method of treatment—incineration or reduction—best suited to the amount and nature of the refuse gathered. Small towns should beware of the man with patented machinery. In all cases the expert adviser is better than the quack.

LAND MADE GOOD BY RECLAMATION
HUNTLY IRRIGATION PROJECT IN MONTANA BEING FAST SETTLED BY NEWCOMERS AND SPLENDID CROPS PRODUCED

United Press Service
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 4.—The reclamation service announces its latest homestead undertaking, the Huntly irrigation project in Montana, is fast being settled up by newcomers to the West, and that splendid crops of all sorts are being produced. One of the principal crops being raised with success in the new country is sugar beets. A report received today said:
"Thirty-six hundred acres were planted to sugar beets this year. The heavy lands on the project, which at first were avoided by the settlers, are proving the most desirable for sugar beet culture. Seven best dumps on the project make short haul for the farmers."

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 4.—Funds for the securing of evidence here against John J. McNamara, accused of complicity in the dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times building, are being furnished by the National Erectors' Association, and the Indianapolis Manufacturers' Association, according to Attorney Baker here today.
