

GET RESERVATION OPENED--EBERLEIN

URGES SETTLEMENT

POINTS OUT THAT INFLEX OF LANDS... MAKE RAILROAD COME

Among the recent excursionists from this city to Bend to help the "henders" open the new railroad line was Charles W. Eberlein...

"While Mr. Hill did not commit himself as to just what he would do, he did say that the railroad would not stop there—at Bend," said Mr. Eberlein.

"The fact of the matter is that there is not enough at Bend nor in its immediate surroundings to justify the Hill people in stopping there."

"But there is no payroll at Bend, and all its assets now, you might say, are prospective."

"La Pine, another town which showed plenty of activity in the Bend celebration and had a good exhibit, is actually at work already on an irrigation plant that will water 30,000 acres."

"You hear a great deal of Tillamook and Coos counties and their dairy products. The fact is that the conditions for dairy production as well as for cattle raising are far superior in the country around Fort Klamath."

"Notwithstanding the colder climate of Fort Klamath, the feeding season is not over three months in average years, and it produces hay and feed of all kinds for all present needs. What we should do is to call attention to Fort Klamath as a dairy country. The Wood River Valley has a superior for beauty in this whole country...

"Mr. Hill, in his address at Bend, laid great stress upon the necessity of getting settlers, and getting them promptly, even going so far as to say that the future development of the country by railroad extension would rest entirely upon the efforts and success of the people in getting settlers into all this Central Oregon area."

"The thing that strikes a traveler most in making the trip from Klamath Falls to Bend is the vast amount of agricultural land all ready for the plow, extending from the east border of the lake just above the city through the entire length of the Indian reservation, a distance of more than forty miles."

"Klamath marsh alone is a vast area of 70,000 acres, 30,000 of which is now reclaimed and covered with beautiful fields and meadows, haystacks and farm buildings."

"The key to Klamath Falls development at the present time is the opening of Klamath Indian reservation, which for several years we have been told would be thrown open by presidential proclamation. So far as we know here allotments have about been completed. There seems to be a lack of information, however, as to just where the matter stands and why action is not taken."

"There is no German law," says Skinner, "which either expressly authorizes or forbids the creation of the so-called trusts so numerous in this country. The law merely guarantees to the individual the right to engage in trade, but does not withhold from him the right to combine with any or all of his competitors."

"The theory seems to be that the general interests of the public at large are protected by the resulting prosperity of such interests, even though the immediate effect may be to enhance the cost of the commodity controlled."

In a recent discussion of the subject, Albert Ballin, the general director of the Hamburg-American line, said:

"The majority of German business men and economists are not opposed to such syndicates and the creation of monopolies, in which the state itself sometimes participates in combination with private producers, is lawful if the creators commit no injurious act."

"The German courts have repeatedly ruled, according to Richard Calver, the socialist writer, that the syndicates do not violate the principles of trade liberty as they tend to protect the interests of the whole nation against the selfishness of individuals from the many disadvantages which arise from price cutting."

Unlike the American trust, Skinner sets forth, the object in the German combinations is not to concentrate price control and production in a few hands. The German plan is to allow each member to conduct his own business, but also requires him to accept combine dictation as to prices and the extent of his production."

WASHINGTON, D. C. Oct. 7.—There are in Germany 285 combinations of manufacturers and mercantile houses that are given benign treatment both by law and public sentiment, according to an interesting report made by Consul General Skinner at Hamburg.

"There is no German law," says Skinner, "which either expressly authorizes or forbids the creation of the so-called trusts so numerous in this country. The law merely guarantees to the individual the right to engage in trade, but does not withhold from him the right to combine with any or all of his competitors."

"The theory seems to be that the general interests of the public at large are protected by the resulting prosperity of such interests, even though the immediate effect may be to enhance the cost of the commodity controlled."

COURT SMOKING DONE AWAY WITH

CIRCUIT COURT PRIVILEGES DENIED BY JUSTICE OF THE PEACE GRAVES, TO SURPRISE OF AUDITORS

Smoking is a privilege usually indulged in in circuit court by those who favor it.

Judge Henry L. Benson is fond of a cigar, while United States Commissioner is occasionally found allied with a cigarette, both conspiring to accomplish a smoke, which is not contrary to the peace and dignity of the state of Oregon, nor governed by any statute in such cases made and provided.

The court hall, Clarence O. Morgan, is not absolutely averse to the vice, so that, taken by and wide the court is plainly willing that smoking should be indulged in, and his honor and the court staff, as well as attorneys and spectators are often found solacing themselves with the gentle fumes of smokable articles.

So, with everybody expecting to have indulgence which is permitted in the regular circuit court sessions, a surprise came when Justice of the Peace Charles Graves presided over the preliminary hearings of S. A. McMahon and James Hughes, charged with attempting to bribe.

The case was in progress when the Justice called proceedings to a halt, and Deputy Sheriff John Schollock to the bar. He quietly instructed the deputy, who went to the rear of the room and carried out the court's order, which was to suppress the pursuit of the habit in the court room.

Later, when some one offended, the court ordered the smoker to desist or leave the room. As the smokers preferred to leave rather than have the smoking stopped, which shows that some cases in court are more interesting to the auditor than the use of the word.

JUSTICE BAYLEY GONE TO REWARD

PIONEER RESIDENT OF LAKE COUNTY, PEACE OFFICER AND PATRIOT, PASSES TO THE GREAT BEYOND

Special to The Herald

LAKEVIEW, Oct. 7.—The death here Tuesday of Winslow Bayley, justice of the peace and pioneer resident of Lake county, takes from its midst one of the men that has played an important part in the developing of this section of the county from its early condition, when the hills and valleys were given over to the antelope and deer that roamed about, to an agricultural and stock country, with thousands of acres of fine fruit lands.

Justice Bayley had been re-elected from time to time during the past twelve years, generally without opposition, and dispensing justice as he saw fit, without fear or favor.

He came to the county many years ago, and has a family, of whom Harry Bayley, of the firm of Bayley & Massingill, and Loren Bayley of Lakeview are the best known. The aged pioneer was a veteran of the Civil War, and took an active interest up to the time of his death in matters that concerned his comrades, and at all times was to be found doing his share of the work of inculcating patriotism on national holidays, oftentimes when his health was such that it was a severe effort. The funeral was held Thursday, and was attended by a large gathering of people from hereabouts.

The banks, business houses and the public schools of Lakeview closed their doors and suspended business during the funeral of Winslow Bayley.

The funeral services at the Methodist church were conducted by Rev. Melville T. Wire, and were very impressive. Interment took place in the Odd Fellows' cemetery.

COURT SESSION WILL BE ACTIVE

LAKEVIEW TERM BEGINS MONDAY UNDER JUDGE BENSON, AND SOME IMPORTANT CASES, ONE OF MURDER, ARE ON

Special to The Herald

LAKEVIEW, Oct. 7.—Circuit Judge Henry L. Benson will convene court here on October 9th.

There are many important cases to be disposed of, including the "boone" cases, arising from the whisky and other goods seized at Paisley; the A. E. Follet manslaughter case, Big Arche, the Indian accused of murdering his squaw, and some more or less heavy divorce cases.

The grand jury will meet Monday, and will be kept busy.

REV. OWEN JONES IN SORRY STATE

PORTLAND OREGONIAN REPORTS HIS ARREST FOR DRUNKENNESS ON THE STREETS OF THE ROSE CITY THE OTHER DAY

The Oregonian reports the arrest in Portland for drunkenness of Rev. Owen F. Jones, the missionary of the Episcopal church, who was here for three weeks, and held services last Sunday before departing to report, as he said, to his bishop.

The report of his misfortune says that he was found with but $1.95 in his pocket among passengers at Fifth and Morrison streets, and taken to jail, from which, when sober, he was released. While in jail, with his arms around a drunken lumberjack's shoulders, Rev. Jones gave an impromptu sermon to those in jail.

Jones once ministered in Grand Forks, N. D., and later in Baker, Ore.

TYPHOID NEARLY DRIVEN FROM CITY

OTHER PRISONER, RAY BROWN, CHARGED WITH GIVING LIQUOR TO AN INDIAN, MIKE WEEKS, AND PATROLMAN ED WAKEFIELD OF THIS CITY, WHO WENT AS A GUARD TO ASSIST THE MARSHAL IN TAKING CARE OF THE PRISONERS.

Deputy Marshal Frank Beatty, who is breathing more freely now that Lyman is out of his charge, remained here to hunt for Thorne, hoping to get trail of him in the neighborhood of Swan Lake.

With the strenuous efforts that have been made the past month in fighting the typhoid fever, the malady has been almost driven out of the city. While Dr. L. W. Chilton, assistant city physician, reports two more cases of the disease having developed in the past twenty-four hours, he says their location is not such as to give rise to any doubt that the situation is practically under control.

Of the twenty or so cases which have been keeping the medicine of the city busy for some time past all of the number are either convalescent or at least out of danger.

The Klamath Falls Light & Water company believes that the water of the system will shortly be fit for every body to use indiscriminately, if, indeed, it is not so already, as it has already been explained in the Herald how the undesirable matter in the ground was stirred up by the rains which started since measures were taken to clean the supply.

THEY WANT HOMESTEADS UP IN COUNTY OF LAKE

Special to The Herald

LAKEVIEW, Oct. 7.—Charles D. Flat, secretary of the new commercial club recently organized, is getting more restless than the governors of some states, the letters asking about the many opportunities that Lake county has to offer to the settler, especially in the matter of free government homesteads, of which the county is so well supplied. Mr. Flat is standing the strains very nicely, and says he likes the idea of doubling the population of the county during the next year or two.

Chief of Police Edward Townsend, who was very ill yesterday and last evening, took a turn for the better during the night, and Dr. L. W. Chilton this morning spoke encouragingly for the recovery of his patient from his attack of typhoid fever.

His improvement from the crisis which seemed inevitable yesterday has been very marked within the past twenty-four hours. His respiration has declined to twenty per minute. It has been as high as forty-four, while the rate existing now is within two of normal, which is eighteen. His temperature, which has run around 104, is now 100, and his pulse, which got up from 110 to 120, has worked back to 92.

JUDGE BENSON STARTS TO OPEN LAKEVIEW COURT

Judge Henry L. Benson of the circuit court and R. M. Richardson, court stenographer, left today for Lakeview, where court will open on Monday. The grand jury is to meet at that time, and it is expected that several indictments may be returned.

Sheriff Barnes Purchases A Hot Springs Bungalow

Sheriff W. B. Barnes has purchased one of the fine new bungalows, recently built by W. N. Woods in the Hot Springs addition. The house is located on El Dorado avenue, just off the Esplanade. It contains six rooms and basement, and the interior is finished in elegant style, and has all of the accessories of a modern home. The consideration was $2,700.

Mr. Barnes will move his family to their new home the first of the week.

Somebody twisted the plug off the water standpipe of the Klamath Falls Light and Water company at Fifth and High streets about 11:30 p. m. today, and a fine little stream of water ran down into the inviting street. Ankey basal until the water was stopped the flow.

HUBB FOR BARTER STEPS UP AND DOWN MAIN STREET

A healthy looking burro was paraded up and down Main street this afternoon bearing a sign that indicated that the steed was subject to barter and sale. There was nothing in the demeanor of the burro to indicate any embarrassment he might feel at his situation, and he looked like a forgotten part of a circus equipment.

The three public schools of the city are now supplied with pure drinking water. Principal Dunbar and the schoolboard have installed tanks at the schools, and water is hauled from the hot springs. This is placed in the large tanks at night and allowed to cool over night. The tanks are connected with the sanitary drinking fountains, which were installed at the commencement of school this year, so that hereafter there will be no necessity for the children bringing their own drinking cups.

SPRING WATER AT SCHOOLS, SPECIAL CUPS NOT NEEDED

MAIL LAST NIGHT HELD BACK BY DELATED TRAIN

Owing to the mail train due here at 4:10 o'clock yesterday afternoon, being late, the mail last night was only distributed, the general window not being opened by Postmaster Clyde K. Brandenburg.

Those who, owing to this fact, failed to get their mail last night, may console themselves with the fact that whatever wait they might have had to get it was saved them. They will probably be able to get their mail today, and kill two birds with one stone.

THE WAIT AT THE GENERAL DELIVERY WINDOW COULD PROBABLY BE ABATED SOME BY THE USE OF A PIGEONHOLE BOX WHICH HAS MORE OPENINGS, THUS REQUIRING MAIL TO BE MORE MINUTELY SORTED, BUT HANDLED LESS AT THE WINDOW. IN OTHER WORDS, IT WOULD BE DIVIDED INTO SMALLER PLIES TO BE LOOKED THROUGH WHEN CALLERS ASK FOR THEIR MAIL.

NEW TEMPLE NECESSARY TO ELIMINATE OF FUNCTIONS OF THE BLIND GODDESS—MAY GET THE CITY HALL

With the passing of the headquarters of the city government from city hall to the Page-Stratton building, official business at the old stand may not necessarily stop. Justice of the Peace Charles Graves, who will leave the Withrow-Melrose building owing to the leasing of that building to the Livermore Hotel company, has his eagle eye on the old city hall for a justice temple, and may make an arrangement to make it his office.

One thing he would like to have is a roomier place in which to permit the blind goddess to exercise her sway and balance the scales of right and fairness, as his present court room hardly affords space to be fair, much less liberal, as it were. In the district of Link River, which is the official denomination of Justice Graves' territory, the justice has to pay for the rent of his own quarters, while in some of the other districts the law provides that justice quarters be furnished the official by the taxpayers.

THE VANSLICKES HAVE A DAUGHTER

Dr. White reports the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Vanslickle of Swan Lake, Friday evening. Mrs. Vanslickle is at the home of her mother, Mrs. Bro. Jamison on High and Teath streets.

Young Ladies Musical Club Made Up Of Enthusiastic City Talent

The latest social organization to be formed in the city is a musical club composed of its youngest musicians among the fair sex. Its very enthusiastic members have for their manager and instructor Mrs. Birdson Fraker Gambell, who is exceptionally well qualified to interest and draw out the best efforts of even the youngest musical pupils.

The first meeting of the club took place this afternoon, and Miss Beatrice Clonouning, who was the guest of the club, also entertained them with several numbers on the piano. The program consisted of piano solos, duets and vocal numbers.
