ODELL SECTION MAY GIVE WATER TO VALLEYS IN NEED

CHRISTMAS AND SILVER LAKE SECTIONS WANT IRRIGATION IN PLACES, AND MAY USE KLAMATH COUNTY SUPPLY

LAKEVIEW, Oct. 19.—A surveying party, including some of the men interested in large holdings around Lakeview have been making a preliminary survey of the Lake Odell section of Klamath county, with the end in view of bringing water from that place to irrigate the lands in Christmas Lake and Silver Lake valleys.

The men interested state that the lands mentioned will be the garden spot of Oregon when they have secured the water, though there are many settlers in the valleys mentioned that will not want irrigation for the ordinary products, and would refuse to purchase any water from the company.

It is said that the Hunter Land company has a right for a short period to the waters of Lake Odell, and it is presumed that either this company or a successor will take over these rights and bring them through. While there is no doubt that it would be a costly proposition to bring water from Odell to the Christmas Lake country, there seems to be no doubt about its being done, and if the 250,000 acres could be signed up by the people that are holding down claims there, it would be a project that would run up into the millions of dollars. It is believed that $10,000,000 will be invested in the project which will be the greatest in Oregon.

IMPERIALISTS RECORD A VICTORY AT LAST

For the First Time the Royal Forces of China Have Outdone the Rebels in Recent Uprising—The Latter Suffer Great Losses

HANKOW, Oct. 19.—The imperialists won their first battle north of here, inflicting enormous losses on rebels who were forced to retreat to Wu Chang.

The rebels several times swept across the open country and tried to take the imperial position at the point of the bayonet.

Train loads of imperial wounded are arriving here.

Since dawn firing has been continuous on the north, where the rebels and imperialists are engaged.

The imperialists are strongly entrenched. Rebels at sunrise simultaneously attacked the imperialists and the gunboats on the river.

The warships replied ineffectively, and finally were forced to retire behind a foreign flotilla.

A rumor that the rebels have captured Nanking and Kivkiang is unconfirmed.

Mrs. A. A. Thomas came in from her ranch on the Merrill road today, and expects to return home tomorrow.

INDICTED MAN GETS FAVOR OF A SPECIAL CUSTODIAN

LAKEVIEW, Oct. 19.—D. Biggarstaff of Paisley, against whom there are many indictments for violation of the local option laws, is in custody of a bailiff pending trial. This seems an unnecessary expense, and many are objecting to paying favorites. If a man is charged with a crime, they argue, why give him preference over some one else charged with the same crime. "If he cannot put up the bail," they say, "lock him up as is done elsewhere."

NOISE MAKER IS FOUND AT LAST

TALK OF LOST BASS HORN, WHICH HAD BEEN "HOCKED" FOR LOAN, AND WHICH WAS REDEEMED BY PROPRIETORS

The big bass horn is found. No longer do the wearabouts of the bombardino puzzle the bandsmen. It has been located. The loving care of the former custodians is once more shed for the benefit of the aforesaid musical instrument.

It had been hocked. The hock was not the kind that is told of in "in hoc signo vinces."

It was the hock that is a leverage for raising the money, the "cush," the cash, the "spondulicks" or the "dough."

"In hoc signo vinces," we are told—we who never lived in a Latin country—means "by this sign we conquer." We have to take for it the word of those who tell us, because Rome is a long way off, and there is not time, before going to press, to send a reporter to Rome to investigate.

So the "in hoc signo vinces" proposition should be eliminated now, once for all in this matter.

The hock that this speaks to tell of means "by this sign we conquer." That is, two people concur in the nature and amount of a loan to be made on a chattel that is pledged for the loan.

The hock in this case was undertaken without the knowledge or consent of the owners of the chattel. The chattel aforesaid is a rather noisy one, when properly approached, as indicated by its being a horn.

It belonged to the Klamath Falls Military band.

It had been played upon a number of times by Ray Brown, bass horn manipulator, before he was arrested on a charge of giving liquor to an Indian, which is penalized by a federal law. When he was taken into custody for the alleged presentation to Mike Weeks, an Indian from the reservation who was being sued here for divorce by his wife, it was necessary for him to be taken to Portland for trial, and he went with United States Marshal Leslie M. Scott of the Rose City, and Fire Chief Edward Wakefield, when the two officers went up with Dr. John Grant Lyman.

But that has nothing in particular to do with the bombardino, and is merely inserted herein as a matter of news for those who like to know what is going on.

Incidentally might be dovetailed the fact that Judge Henry L. Benson, in the divorce case of Mrs. Weeks, which made necessary in Klamath Falls the presence of the husband, Mike Weeks at the time he is alleged to have been given the liquor, handed down a decree declining to give Mrs. Weeks the legal separation from her husband that she asked for.

Returning to the bombardino, let it be related that the great and little therein vested in the Klamath Falls military band, as aforesaid, was not available at one of band rehearsals.

As its sound product is of a wholesale order and calculated to fill many a void that aches for sound, it was imperative that it be found.

Marion Barnes, treasurer of the organization, went on a still hunt for the noisy bombardino. It was found in the custody of a second-hand man, who had made a loan on it, according to the story, to Brown.

It was necessary, in order to redeem the horn, to pay $3.50 to the second-hand man. This was done.

The horn is once more in the tender hands of the band.

Requiescat in pace.

A. G. Winnard expects to return his Langell Valley home tomorrow.

STATE AID NEEDS FOR OREGON GOOD ROADS

LAKEVIEW, Oct. 19.—Senator Andrew C. Smith is here on a visit, relating to the good roads movement. The Lakeview Commercial Club will entertain him at an informal smoker on Friday evening in the court house, when addresses will be made by a number of the leading citizens. The good roads movement will receive a hearty reception here because there is a feeling that with state aid the counties of Eastern Oregon with their scattered population, will be able to get what they need most—communication by rail and otherwise, with the larger shipping and commercial centers of the state.

Deputy Sheriff John Schallock at noon today arrested on suspicion of being a holdup man, a young man about 23 years of age, known as "Shorty," who claims to have been working on the new White Pelican hotel, but who refused to tell his name or anything about himself.

The accused was pointed out to Schallock on Main street in the Hot Springs addition shortly after the noon whistle blew, and was on his way to dinner. The man, who would not give his name, is claimed to answer the description of one of the people who held up J. W. Banta on Monday night on Sixth street, just east of the railroad tracks.

LAKEVIEW PASTOR SCORES VIOLATORS OF THE LAW

Methodist Minister Takes Up the Subject of Infractions of Local Option Regulations in a Most Vigorous Manner

Special to The Herald

LAKEVIEW, Oct. 19.—In one of the best sermons delivered since his pastorate here, Rev. Melville T. Wire of the M. E. Church, hitting straight from the shoulder, handled the violation of the local option laws for which indictments have been found and the dance hall nuisance that has made inroads against the morality of the community. The public here is stirred to the dangers of allowing these things to go on, as few places have been stirred, and there is a strong moral wave that will tend to abolish these detriments to a clean town. The Klamath Falls Evening Herald is receiving much praise for bringing this matter to the attention of the fathers and mothers of the community.

Mrs. H. E. Richardson leaves this evening for San Diego, Calif., to join her husband, who has entered business in the southern city. Mr. Richardson was formerly in the paint and wall paper business here, associated with F. R. Olds.

Sanitation Lacking in Lakeview And Disease Breeding Spots Plenty

LAKEVIEW, Oct. 19.—The health department here is being blamed for allowing so many unsanitary garbage cans, filthy alleys, fly-breeding manure piles and disease breeding out-houses. If it were not for the fact that Lakeview is located in the healthiest of climates there might be a pestilence that would wipe out lives. The ordinance regarding these things is passed up entirely in most cases, and some of the places are a disgrace to any community. It will be necessary for the authorities to institute an ordinance requiring cess-pools upon every inhabited lot in town before this matter is handled satisfactorily, unless a sewerage system with septic tanks is installed next year. The rows of barns and the town cow are other features of medieval life that are bound to go as soon as realists have gutsenough enough to file complaints against these nuisances.

City To Take Mills City Hall Site And Give City Warrants For Same

On recommendation of the finance committee of the council, consisting of Councilmen G. W. White, chairman, M. G. Wilkins and F. L. Fielder, the city has decided to take advantage of a peculiar method of obtaining from Attorney Fred H. Mills the title to his two lots at Walnut and Fifth streets, which the city wants to get for a site for a new city hall.

The price was agreed on at $4,500 some time ago, but the delay in getting the bond house which bid successfully for the city hall bonds to accept and pay for the same has kept the city out of funds for new city hall purposes.

Mr. Mills has arranged with some men to furnish the cash to the city and take city warrants for the $4,500, the people accepting the warrants to take bonds instead when the bonds are issued, and if there is no bond issue, to keep the warrants.
