

STILL THRESHING GRAIN ON FARMS

SEASON OF EXTRACTING CEREALS PROLONGED IN THIS COUNTY BECAUSE LACK OF FACILITIES FOR EXTRACTING

If there is one thing that makes it harder than another for the Klamath county farmer to get along it is the lack of facilities for gathering his crops. This is November 1st, and by no means has all the grain yet been threshed. As a rule it is believed every grain would have its harvest by October 15th if there were enough threshers to do the work. The possibility is that next year, if there is the same amount of increase in grain acreage and yield that has been noted this year, there will have to be help called from outside to keep the crop from being out too long.

STOPPED CLOCK AS MEANS OF SAVING WEAR AND TEAR

For This Reason Testimony Given at Pleading to Demonstrate at What Time a Man Left His Place of Business

United Press Service
LONDON, Nov. 1.—At a Hackney coroner's inquest the question arose as to the time the deceased had left his office. The office clock had stopped at 5 p. m., and the witness on the stand testified that his late employer had always stopped the clock before leaving the office in order to save wear and tear on the works.

TAFT'S ARE AROUSED, HE FIGHTS BACK

Issue From Capitalistic Stage Talk, the President Makes Clear That He is Bitterly Opposed to Municipal Control

United Press Service
MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 1.—Taftites are rejoicing at the president's refusal to be butchered to make Pittsburg a holiday, when members of the Chamber of Commerce there "baited" him at the banquet last night. Congressman Littleton denounced the Sherman law, and demanded its repeal. He was wildly cheered by hundreds of "millionaires," and 150 minor officials of the steel trust. President Taft, mad clear through, his face suffused, pounded the table, the table rattling, and almost screaming. "The law must be enforced, and stifling competition, establishing of monopolies, and thus controlling prices, must cease, or we must allow these gentlemen to run the entire business of the country or take the final step to have a socialist republic." The president is here today to participate in the inauguration of Thomas Hodges as president of the University of West Virginia.

CREEKLET CHIRPS OF TURK VICTORY

United Press Service
CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 1.—War Minister Chekret Paşa has officially announced that General Canava, commanding the Italian army in Tripoli, has been captured by Turks.

Foreign diplomats here doubt the report that he has captured the outskirts of Tripoli. Chekret announced that the Turks are steadily pushing the Italians back to the coast, and declares that the Turks have captured five more forts in Tripoli after three hours fighting, despite fire from Italian torpedo boats off shore.

AFTER TOURISTS SNECKELS PLAN CAPITAL SIDE SHOW

Optimists Would Make Presidential Week One Round of Special Attractions to Lure Cash From the Visitors

United Press Service
WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 1.—Ever alert to the garnering of the tourists' gold, Washington has evolved a new idea to swell its revenues. A movement has been started to make a week's holiday of the presidential inauguration, with proper side attractions before and after the great event.

Optimists leading the movement figure that half a million eight-ocers would be lured to the national capital. On this basis it can be readily seen that an expenditure of over $2 a day by this mass of visitors would fatten the coffers of the hotels, restaurants, boarding houses, street railroads and possibly the saloons, with candy and candy of money.

The matter has been brought to the attention of the Board of Trade, the Chamber of Commerce and the Federation of Citizens' Associations. An effort will be made to interest President Taft and procure his aid in the enterprise.

It is proposed to call the annex to the inauguration a patriotic celebration, but there are also to be Mardi Gras features that will coax the dimes and the quarters from the rural guard. Fireworks, military parades and patriotic processions made up of allegorical and historical floats are among the allurement in contemplation.

FINE FLOWING WELLS FOUND IN SUMMER LAKE

Drillers Find Evidence That Lake County Was Formerly Bed of Some Great Inland Lake—Good Supplies of Water

Special to The Herald
LAKEVIEW, Nov. 1.—Among the Summer Lake visitors in town of late was Jonas Small, the well known stockman. He has one of the flowing artesian wells of that section on his home ranch, and it is among the best in the county.

It is also the deepest well in Summer Lake Valley, being about 700 feet in depth, with an eight-inch casing that gives forth a fine flow of water sufficient to either irrigate a large portion of his holdings or supply water for many head of livestock.

That Lake County is an inland lake bed is claimed to be demonstrated by the various stratas that the drillers went through in making this well. At nearly 700 feet they found a log that had in some previous age become imbedded in the mud of that period. The log was in a good state of preservation, from the appearance of portions of it that were brought to the surface, but they later disintegrated and were lost.

Besides Mr. Small's well there are eight other artesian wells that are flowing in that section of the county, all having been drilled by one firm since last fall, when the first well drilling outfit came into the valley. A number of settlers had filed upon "desert" lands which needed water before the applicant could make final proof, and headed by L. P. Kilpel, another stock man, they made arrangements to have a well drilled, in the hope that they would get a flow of water.

The first flow was struck at 165 feet, though there are places in the valley where even this easy depth has been shortened, one well having flowed at only ninety feet.

One man, independent of the well drilling outfit, put down a two-inch hole with a hand auger to a distance of 125 feet, and secured a fine flow of water without any casing, though the lack of same allowed the well to cave in in a short time, and resulted in stopping it.

There are a number of the wells mentioned that are flowing at from 185 to 260 feet, with a pure supply of water, which is more than can be said of many wells in other states.

The importance of the artesian flows in their relative value to the taking of lands was demonstrated when over 2,000 acres of adjoining lands were filed on the day following the first strike by men that had worked on the drilling machine.

Where the water is placed on the land there is absolutely no doubt as to its productiveness, and while no one has tried dry farming in that valley, as it is generally understood among agriculturalists, still there are many here that believe that the lands are even good enough to take without irrigation, and some have taken homesteads thereon.

Summer Lake Valley, or that portion of it north and northeast of the body of water bearing that name, is the "earliest" portion of the county, and the development of that area through the artificial means of securing a water supply will result in thousands of acres being planted to various crops that will be used by the stockman of that section of the county for feeding purposes, and will help the "high cost of living" to be reduced.
