Budget Approved, White Opposing For Failure To Apply To 1912

At a meeting of the city council Monday afternoon, at which all members were present save Councilmen Charles McGowan and Clarence Underwood, the budget for 1912 was voted on and the resolution for the same was successful.

With White opposing this left but seven members voting for, although some were of the opinion that it would take eight members, the same as an emergency ordinance. This point led Mayor Fred T. Sanderson to telephone to Shippington to Councilman McGowan in hope of getting that member to come in for a night session, at which eight votes might be had for the measure.

After the mayor had telephoned to Mr. McGowan the charter was inspected and was found, so Colonel M. G. Wilkins said today, that only two-thirds of the council is necessary to pass the budget resolution. Therefore the seven votes which were for it carried it through.

Mr. White opposed the measure without making it to apply on 1912 expenses exclusively on the ground that people's contribution to the taxes should not be used to pay old debts.

PACKERS' TRIAL BEGINS IN CARPENTER'S COURT

Judge Carpenter said the court would rule when the government had completed introduction of its evidence. The first witness was Arthur Veeder, in whose office meetings of the old packers' pool were held.

Veeder traced the transformation of the Swift partnership into the Swift corporation, and described the organization of the National Packers' company, of which he was once general counsel and treasurer.

DUTCH ROOM WILL BE PUT IN ROOM

NEW FEATURE OF WHITE PELICAN TAVERN NOW BEING FITTED UP WITH ATTRACTIVE AND APPROPRIATE THINGS

A real Dutch room will soon be on tap at the White Pelican Inn, and the decorations are being put in. The room is next to the bar room, and will have an entrance from Esplanade street. The mural ornamentation will include beer kegs in bas relief, little Dutchmen in the same variety of relief, tapping kegs and looking joyful just like the little whiskered men in Rip Van Winkle.

There will be a lot of things to attract the eye, besides the frieze that portrays the diminutive men at their convivial pursuit, among them electric light globes which will resemble beer kegs and furniture designed with a view to harmonize with the rest of the place.

No word of mine could adequately suggest the demonstration of loyalty such an occasion would call forth from the great mass of the Irish people."

FINE JUGGLING ON AT THE HOUSTON

LITTLEJOHNS, MAN AND WOMAN, DO SOME FINE STUNTS IN THE WAY OF WORK IN HANDLING VARIOUS OBJECTS

Fine Juggling is the offering given at the Houston opera house this week by the Littlejohns, famous Scotch jugglers. They opened a week's engagement last night, which will keep them here through next Sunday night exclusive of tomorrow night, which will be given by the opera house to the Lyceum bureau.

The Littlejohns, a man and a woman, do expert ground juggling, as well as duet juggling while on revolving balls. They juggle knives, axes, pans, Indian clubs, fans, balls and a lot of other things, and the act is a rapid fire starter from start to end. One of the most remarkable things ever seen on a Klamath Falls stage is when the man—there are two people, a man and a woman—juggles and throws knives which stick into a target which the woman holds. This is a daring and dangerous accomplishment, and brought down the house last night.

United Press Service LONDON, Dec. 26.—While his majesty George V. is shooting elephants and tigers in the jungles of India as relaxation after the strenuous days of the Durbar, a deputation from India is in London to lay a grievance before the government. They don't mind King George shooting their tigers and elephants, but they do mind the killing of their cows by British troops hungry for fresh beef. They protest that the cows are being slaughtered too freely, and that not only beef, but milk, is running short. The deputation is urging the government to import Argentine beef to India for the British soldiers.

GREAT DOINGS AT WHITE PELICAN

DINNER DANCE WELL ATTENDED WITH MUSIC, DECORATIONS AND GASTRONOMIC TICKLERS BY CHEF CRAVETTI

It was a gala night at the White Pelican last night, for the Christmas dinner dance was on tap, and there were approximately 100 people there to enjoy the gigantic gastronomic outlay prepared by the royal Italian chef, Signor Pietro Cravetti; the strains offered by the White Pelican orchestra and the fine Christmas decorations which transformed the lobby into a veritable Yuletide grotto.

Some of Cravetti's chefs d'oeuvre were on display in the entrance for the entering guests to see, before dinner, such as dressed roast pig and fowl. In the lobby was a gorgeous Christmas tree, revolving in a pan of iced fish. It was designed and ornamented by William Gitt, electrician, and Steward Charles Hoffman. All around and above were greens and holly, with an occasional bunch of mistletoe where it was likely to perform its most osculatory office.

The music for the dances was so highly appreciated that several of the dancers donated various sums of the medium of exchange to the players. Added to the orchestra music furnished during the dinner was some vocal music furnished by Mrs. Wm. Gitt, Miss Bertha Ellis and R. C. Gass. George E. Bradnack accompanied on the piano.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Adams returned last night from a three weeks' trip to San Francisco and bay cities. They will leave in the morning for their Merrill home.

Somebody Is Gently Touching Those Who Leave Little Articles Loose

There is a thief who has been working his "art" in one of the local hotels, and his efforts are liable to be stopped very suddenly. Fact is, somebody is after him, and it's only a question of time until he is taken red-handed, to use a term that is not exactly literal. He has been working only on a small scale thus far, not taking anything of considerable value. Most of his annexations have been of rather small articles, insignificant in size as well as worth, but when he managed to deplete one lodger of cigars up went a howl that could be heard well over the building from cellar to garret. If some lowly member of the laboring staff of the hostelry is found smoking a rattling good cigar it may lead him to be a suspect. The hotel people say it is not a chambermaid, as this branch of help is usually reliable. Anyway, what chambermaid is addicted to the noxious weed? In fact, very few people have ever seen a chambermaid smoke a cigar.

worked on the section stands him in good stead. While in Newberg inspecting a part of the Dallas branch and looking over the proposed right of way in the Quaker town, he suddenly recalled that his niece, Miss Hazel Fields, was to be married in the evening. He wanted to attend, but the local passenger train would land him in Portland too late to "dress up." But Lou Fields does not stand and ponder over what's to be done. He called the boss of the section gang, told him to get a handcar ready and take him to where the next section boss would pick him up. Not wishing to take all the men off work, Fields had just two of the crew accompany him through each section's territory, the official helping the men work the car on the up grades. It was a great ride, the superintendent using five handcars at different stages of the trip from Newberg to Cowgaw, where he took the interurban running between the Town-by-Sucker-Lake and Portland. Fields was the second man to arrive at the home of his niece, the first being the groom. LOST—Black Jersey cow, from the Hank ranch at Shippington.
