Money Invested in Home Brings You Real Rewards

that cannot be measured alone in dollars and cents. There's satisfaction in knowing you have a home when possibly all other investments fail—it gives you a feeling of security and demands the recognition of your fellow townsmen, because by building you show your faith in the future of the community. And every community is known by its deeds. You can help and at the same time help yourself. A home investment is always the most meritorious, and loss is less likely because you are dealing in values you understand and with people you know. We have supplied the lumber for the homes of many of your friends who are now on the road to success, and want to talk with you whenever you are ready.

KLAMATH FALLS, OREGON
SATURDAY, APRIL 6, 1912

REGISTER
ONLY about half of the qualified voters of Klamath Falls have registered with the police judge to date. The registration books will close on April 15, just a week from Monday, and if the 500 or more remaining voters succeed in registering there will be some busy times in the police judge's office next week. In addition to the regular city election on May 6, the people will vote on a charter at a special election on April 23, and unless you are registered before the closing of the books a week from Monday, you cannot vote at the special or regular elections. Every citizen should have the interest of his city government enough at heart to induce him to take the trouble of registering and also of expressing his wishes at both elections. The books are open during the day and evenings at the office of the police judge in the council rooms above the First Trust and Savings bank. It will only take a few minutes, so register today.

GIVING OUT

The Struggle Discourages Many a Citizen of Klamath Falls
 Around all day with an aching back;
 Can't rest at night;
 Enough to make any one "give out."
 Doan's Kidney Pills have given renewed life to thousands.
 They are for kidney backache.
 For other kidney ills.
 Here is convincing proof of their worth:

M. Powell, 263 Oak street, Ashland, Oregon, says: "I suffered a great deal from kidney trouble and backache and sometimes I could hardly get around. On arising in the morning I was stiff and lame, and the kidney secretions annoyed me by their irregularity in passage. As soon as I commenced taking Doan's Kidney Pills I improved, and I am now in good health. I still use Doan's Kidney Pills occasionally, however, but more as a preventive than anything else. I always insist upon Doan's Kidney Pills, for no substitute could be as effective as they."

THE CONTOUR TOPOGRAPHIC MAP HAS GREAT MARKET

More Than Half a Million Sold Last Year by the United States Geological Survey—Some of the Leading Features

On the topographic maps made by the United States geological survey the mountains, hills, valleys and canyons—all the features that make up the varied surface of the areas mapped—are portrayed by means of contour lines. Each contour line represents a certain height above sea level—that is, it indicates a course of contour along which all points are at exactly the same altitude. As contours are continuous horizontal lines, they wind smoothly about smooth surfaces, recede into all re-entrant angles or ravines, and project in passing around spurs or prominences. Thus a person following the path indicated by a contour line, say the 1,000-foot contour, would go irregularly around hills and ravines, but would always walk on the same level, namely, at an altitude of 1,000 feet.

The contour lines of the maps are spaced to represent equal vertical intervals or differences in altitude. The vertical intervals between any two contours as represented on one map is the same, whether they be along a cliff or on a gentle slope; but to attain a given height it is, of course, necessary to go further on a gentle slope, and therefore contours are far apart on gentle slopes and near together on steep ones. The spacing of the contour lines thus indicates the approximate grade of any slope. A small contour interval is necessary to express the relief of a flat or gently undulating country; a steep or mountainous country can, as a rule, be adequately represented on the same scale by the use of a larger interval. The smallest interval used on the atlas sheets of the geological survey is five feet, for regions like the Mississippi delta, the Sacramento Valley and the Dismal Swamp. For great mountain masses, like those in Colorado and the high Sierra of California, the interval may be 100 or 200 feet, and for less rugged country contour intervals of 10, 20, 25 and 50 feet are used.

With a little practice in reading the contour lines the traveler finds the topographic maps of the geological survey a most exact picture of the country, enabling him to see at a glance the character of any particular area. That the maps are of popular utility is shown, for instance, by the fact that the survey sells thousands of them to automobilists every month. Last year's sales of these maps amounted to more than half a million.
