CONGRESS GETS BUSY

THE accuracy with which congress reflects the general mind has seldom if ever been more clearly demonstrated than in the series of legislative measures proposed after the Titanic disaster to prevent a recurrence of such catastrophes.

Senator William Alden Smith's resolution providing for a complete investigation of the sinking of the Titanic was the first legislation offered. Its results have already been apparent in the mass of evidence gathered from the witnesses who appeared before the senatorial investigating committee.

The members of the house proposed no investigation of the disaster, leaving that work exclusively to the senate, but the congressmen on the south side of the Capitol were not idle.

An elaborate bill by Representative Sabath of Illinois provided for the equipment of vessels with lifeboats, rafts and preservers and with searchlights, and requiring that the crews of vessels be trained by drills at proper intervals.

The alleged delays in communication by wireless from the Titanic and the Carpathia resulted in proposed legislation for the control of wireless telegraphy.

Other measures introduced would require vessels of more than a certain tonnage clearing from United States ports to be equipped with wireless apparatus, and a bill by Representative Carey of Wisconsin provides that all United States life saving stations be similarly equipped.

The senate has already passed the Hitchcock bill, requiring that all vessels which carry more than 100 crew or passengers, shall be equipped with wireless which carries at least 100 miles, and shall have wireless operators, one of whom shall constantly be on duty.

Social Events of the Week

SOCIETY FOLK TAKE ADVANTAGE OF LOVELY WEATHER TO REPAY CALLS AND EXTENSIVE AFFAIRS ARE FEW AS A CONSEQUENCE.

After the social whirl of last week the ladies of our four hundred have been resting on their laurels, and with many deep breaths, no doubt, are preparing for a continuance of bridge, "500" and social tea cups.

Mrs. Carl Cofer started the week with a "500" party at her charming home on Sixth street Heights, on Tuesday evening. The game was enthusiastically enjoyed till a late hour, when delightful refreshments were served.

The same evening Mrs. G. W. White entertained a large party in honor of her daughter's guest, Mrs. Roy G. Walker of Ashland. Mrs. Walker is well known and pleasantly remembered by many old friends here, and the personnel of the party was of these former acquaintances.

Miss Josephine Donagan, who has made so many friends during the year, will leave for her old home in Medford upon the close of the school term here.

Mr. and Mrs. K. D. North entertained a few of their friends at dinner Monday evening in honor of the thirty-seventh wedding anniversary of Mrs. North's parents, Hon. and Mrs. R. A. Emmitt.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Powell and baby daughter are expected here tonight from Portland. Mrs. Powell is a sister of Mrs. Francis R. Olds, with whom they will visit for the summer.

Mrs. W. S. Worden and son, Donald returned on Thursday from a short visit to their summer home near Fort Klamath. The weather, the air, the roads and the trip proved most enjoyable.

Mrs. Eccles, mother of Mrs. I. J. Knapp, who was injured by a fall the early part of last week, is resting much more comfortably and on the way to improvement.

Miss Amy Wing is still visiting with her mother on a delightfully romantic timber claim. She is missed by friends and admirers, whose name is legion.

Mrs. W. Paul Johnson is enjoying a visit from her mother, Mrs. C. W. Doe, of San Francisco.
