NO MORE GAS IN STOMACH AND BOWELS

Not Only Relief, but Cure for All Time.

If you wish to be permanently relieved of Gas in the Stomach and Bowels, take two BAALMANN'S GAS-TABLETS for a few days.

BAALMANN'S GAS-TABLETS are prepared distinctly and especially for Stomach Gas and particularly for all the bad effects coming from Gas Fermentation.

That empty, gassy and growing feeling at the pit of your stomach will forever disappear in a few days; flatulencies and nervous feeling, with heavy palpitation, will vanish and you will have more to take a deep breath, as often prevented by gas pressing against your heart and lungs.

Your limbs, arms and fingers won't feel cold and go to sleep, because BAALMANN'S GAS-TABLETS prevent gas interfering with the circulation; that intense drowsiness and sleepy feeling after dinner will also be replaced by a desire for some form of entertainment.

Your distended stomach will return to its normal size, because gas directly cannot form after a few days' use of BAALMANN'S GAS-TABLETS.

These peculiar tablets are sold for 20c. by every druggist, or sent direct to Balmann Pharmacy, 250 Sutter St., San Francisco.

A THIRD PARTY

IT IS being freely predicted by some of the wise ones, particularly Roosevelt supporters, that the present fight in Chicago will terminate in the formation of a new party, with Roosevelt at the head. If Taft should be nominated there seems to be very little question but that a separate convention will be held and the Colonel nominated; but we do not believe this will create a new party.

There has been strong-arm politics and the "steam roller" used by both the Taft and the Roosevelt followers, and the people would have no more freedom under a party controlled by Roosevelt than under any party which is managed under the present system of politics. There is one thing that can be foreseen as a result of the disgraceful system followed by the political parties of today, and particularly as seen in the operations of the republican convention in Chicago.

This will probably be the last national convention held under a system which permits politicians to control and dictate the candidates for president. We believe that four years from now an affair such as is now in progress in Chicago will be unnecessary, as by that time every state in the Union will have a law, similar to that of Oregon, providing for the direct vote of the people on the presidential candidates.

The present affair in Chicago is probably no worse than it has been for years, but the trouble is that the people are becoming educated in modern popular government, and the old system is on its last legs. Under the present conditions neither Taft nor Roosevelt should be given the nomination.

WHAT THE RESULT MIGHT BE

ALREADY the question is being considered what would be the result in case two conventions were held in Chicago, and both Taft and Roosevelt nominated. With two republicans and one democrat in the race for president, a three-cornered fight would be the result. It would take a majority of the electoral votes to elect one of the three, and it is just possible that neither of the three would receive this majority. In that case congress would have to elect the president. The present house of representatives is democratic, but every congressman would not have a vote. Only one vote is allowed for each state.

There are twenty-three states that have a republican majority of representatives and twenty-two with a democratic majority, while in the three remaining states the representation is equally divided among the republican and democrats. There would seem to be a very good chance for a deadlock if congress should ever have to choose the president of the United States.

RAILWAY WAGES AND THE COST OF LIVING

Bureau of Railway Economics Makes Comparison of Railway Conditions Existing in the United States and European Countries

The bureau of railway economics has completed the second of its comparative studies of railway conditions in the United States and the principal countries of Europe. This relates to the wages paid railway employes and the cost of living, and is based on the latest years for which comparative data are available.

The average daily compensation of railway employes of all classes for the year 1910 was, in the United States, $2.23; in the United Kingdom $1.05; excluding supplementary allowances negligibly affecting the average, it was in Prussia-Hesse 81 cents, and in Austria 89 cents. The lowest paid railway employe in the United States, the ordinary trackman, receives a greater compensation than many of the railway employes of France, even those of higher grades and with responsible duties. The compensation of railway employes is from two to three times as high in the United States as in Italy.

A recent report of the English board of trade on railway wages shows that the average weekly pay of employes in the United Kingdom in 1907 was $11.17; of firemen, $6.67. In the same year employes on the American railways received an average weekly compensation of $25.80, counting six days to the week, and firemen $15.24. Recent returns make it clear that in 1912 employes and firemen in the United States are compensated at rates of pay for specific runs that are two, three and four times as high as the corresponding rates on representative English railways. The annual compensation of employes in the United States, as reported by two representative railway companies, now ranges from $1,100 in switching service, to over $2,800 in passenger service, and of firemen from $700 in switching service to over $1,700 in passenger service.

For Continental Europe official returns in requisite detail are not available for a later year than 1908. The salaries and allowances of the typical engineman in Germany amounted for that year to $646.88, in Austria to $870.80; of a fireman in Germany to $424.59, in Austria to $532.93. The annual compensation of employes on two of the principal railways of France ranged in 1908 from $505.66 to $966.91, and of firemen from $524.24 to $595.98. In Italy employes received in 1908, salary and allowance included, from $581.10 to $812.70 a year; firemen from $30.30 to $475.05 a year. In these continental countries the maximum compensation is received only after many years of service.

The average annual compensation of employes in the United States in 1908 on an estimated basis of 300 days' service, was $1,335; of firemen $792. In this country the rate of compensation to these employes does not depend on length of service.

In Belgium employes received in 1907 from $23.16 to $38.60 a month; firemen from $17.37 to $23.16 a month; conductors and station employes from 46 cents to 96 cents a day. In the United States, in the same year, 1907, employes averaged on the basis of 25 days' service, $107.50 a month; firemen $63.50 a month; conductors $3.69 a day; station employes from $1.78 to $2.05 a day.

The rental of a three or four room house or flat is almost as high in Berlin, Paris or London as throughout the United States, but in England and on the continent it generally runs from $20 to $30 a year less. The quantity of food and fuel estimated by the board of trade of England as the standard consumption of a typical workman's family costs in the United States 17.8 per cent more than in France or in Germany; 35.3 per cent more than in Belgium, and 38 per cent more than in the United Kingdom.

It is well within the truth to estimate in a broad and general way that while the cost of living of a railway employe in the United States is less than 50 per cent higher than that of a corresponding employe in the United Kingdom or on the continent, his compensation averages over twice as great.
