WOODROW WILSON

It was as a lawyer that Woodrow Wilson made his first bow to the world, and as president of Princeton he became more widely known, but it was as a reformer that he achieved the limelight, and it was reform that landed him in the New Jersey governor's chair.

Born in Staunton, Virginia, December 28, 1856, he was christened Thomas Woodrow Wilson, but in his youth he cut off the "Thomas," because, as he said, he wanted to use only one name, and Thomas W. Wilson would have been too commonplace. Graduating from Princeton in 1879, he practiced law for two years in Atlanta, Ga., before he became an educator. He taught history and political economy for three years in Bryn Mawr College, and was instructor in the same branches for two years in Wesleyan University, before he was engaged as a teacher of jurisprudence and politics in Princeton, his alma mater. He became president of Princeton August 1, 1902, and held that position until October, 1910, when he resigned to become governor. In 1885 he married Miss Helen Louise Axson of Atlanta, Ga.

Governor Wilson holds A. B., LL. D., Ph. D. and other degrees from Princeton, University of Virginia, Johns Hopkins, Brown, Harvard, Williams, Dartmouth and Yale universities.

It was as a writer that Woodrow Wilson first got before the people as a politician. He wrote columnously of the evils of bossism, the corruption of politics and the like, and quite naturally glided from the pen to the platform and banquet table, being asked to speak for various meetings and dinners in all the large cities.

"A prophet is not without honor save in his own country," and through his writings and after-dinner speeches Woodrow Wilson was being talked about as a reformer long before the people of New Jersey considered him seriously.

As far back as 1904 people in the West were "talking about" Wilson as a presidential possibility, but New Jersey knew nothing of him or about it, and again at Denver, in 1908, he was "spoken of." But it was not until 1910 that the people of the doctor's adopted state "discovered" him. Then the democratic bosses of the corporation-ridden state decided it was time to elect a governor. They had not had one since the days of Cleveland, and it was decided that reform was a good platform. Considering reformers, they picked on Wilson as a "man of the hour," and ran him. Wilson was elected, but the bosses soon were led to believe that they had "picked a lemon," for no sooner did "Prexy" have his long legs fairly entwined about the governor's chair rungs than he began loudly to defy. He defied the bosses, he defied the corporations, he defied everybody vile, and the defying was good, and he made a noise that was heard throughout the country.

"The time when you can play politics and fool the people has gone by," was one of Governor Wilson's platitudes on the night he accepted the New Jersey "call," and there are those who now paraphrase his remarks thusly: "The time when you can play the people and fool the politicians has not come."

One of the most amazing incidents of Woodrow Wilson's campaign for the democratic presidential nomination was his embroglio with Colonel George Harvey, editor of Harper's Weekly, and Colonel Henry Watterson, editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, over the support accorded Wilson's boom by Harper's Weekly. For months the publication boosted Wilson in every issue, and then came the story in a Charlotte, N. C., newspaper that Governor Wilson had broken with Colonel Harvey, and requested him to discontinue his support of Wilson. Harper's Weekly came out with an explanation that it dropped Wilson at his request. Then Colonel Watterson got into the game by telling of the meeting in New York of Colonel Harvey, Governor Wilson and himself, at which Wilson quarreled with Colonel Harvey and Colonel Watterson because they had enlisted in his behalf Thomas Fortune Ryan, millionaire traction and tobacco magnate. Colonel Watterson maintained that at first Wilson took kindly to the Ryan proposition. The thing ended with Colonel Watterson's proposal that the controversy be referred to an old-fashioned court of honor. An incident of the affair was the publication of a letter that Governor Wilson was said to have written to Adrian H. Joline, attacking William Jennings Bryan, and hoping that he could be "knocked into a cocked hat." Colonel Bryan evidently did not resent the letter, for he apparently was an admirer of the New Jersey governor at the Jackson Day dinner held shortly thereafter in Washington.

Come Up--The Fishing is Great

"Bill, the fishing is simply great. You ought to see the string of beauties we landed today—never did see trout take hold like these. Shut up your shop and come up. What do you say? You ought to try one of those meals at Spink's Camp—they certainly do know how to throw up the camp 'chuck.' And, say, those Rainbow trout, cooked to a turn! Oh, my!

Did you say you'll come? Just phone Spink's Camp, and they will meet you at Chilquin or Agency Landing, or, better still, go in and see Spink at his jewelry store, and he will make the arrangements for you. You never did see such feeds as they give you here for two 'bucks' a day, and throw in a good bed with it, and if you stay a week it's only $12.50. Go in and see SPINK today, 323 Main street, and he'll fix you up to stay over the Fourth, and it will be the best you ever spent."

A Clean Scalp And Healthy Hair

Many of your friends have found that a luxuriant growth of hair—soft and glossy—and a scalp free from dandruff, will result from the use of

NYAL'S HIRAUTONE

This is the procedure—Wash the hair with warm water and a pure soap—rinse thoroughly—rub the scalp with a stiff brush—apply Hirsutone—rub it in well and dry the hair before combing.

Please understand that Hirsutone is not merely a hair wash—it is a tonic—a food.

While it thoroughly cleanses, it also prevents bacterial action—nourishes and stimulates the roots of the hair—removes all dandruff—prevents its return—and preserves the natural beauty and color of the hair. Nyal's Hirsutone should be on your dressing table. It sells at 50 cents and $1.00 the bottle.
