SENATE PASSES BUDGET BILL

MEASURE WILL NOW GO TO THE PRESIDENT

Resolution to Probe the Soldiers' Home at Santa Monica is Adopted. Senate Argues on the One Battleship Program—It Will Not Be a Super-Dreadnought—Fur Sealing Will Be Stopped

United Press Service WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 19.—The senate late today adopted the conference report on the naval bill. The house is expected to pass the measure before adjournment tonight, and the measure will probably go to the president tomorrow. Thornton Lodge vainly attempted to have the senate insist on two battleships.

United Press Service WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 19.—The senate today passed the new budget bill containing provisions for the abolition of the commerce court. Senator Overman objected to the amendment eliminating the appropriation for the commerce court, but it was adopted by a vote of 35 to 23.

The resolution of Senator Works providing for an investigation of the National Soldiers' Home at Santa Monica was adopted by the senate. The senate and house conferees have agreed on a compromise of one $15,000,000 battleship in the naval bill, and this is expected to end the dispute on this measure. The vessel provided for will not be super-dreadnought, as originally planned. The conferees also agreed on a bill making the sealing treaty effective. It was agreed to stop the hunting for seals in Alaska for five years. The senate has accepted the conference report.

TOURING IN AUTO TO CRATER LAKE

ASHLAND MAN AND TWO NEPHEWS REPORT HAD ROADS FROM SPENCER CREEK, BUT THEIR CAR STANDS UP WELL

E. R. Smith of Ashland and his two nephews, Bert and Chester, arrived in a Ford car this morning from Spencer Creek, where they spent the night, after having started from Ashland yesterday morning. They are well equipped for camping, and are on their way to Crater Lake to view the glories of nature there, expecting to stop tonight at Fort Klamath.

"We've had no trouble with the car whatever," said Mr. Smith, "but some other folks along the route were not so fortunate, we noticed, and were laid up for repairs. On leaving Spencer Creek we possibly took the worst road of the two, for we turned to the left. Maybe we should have picked out the route to the right. We found the roads seemed to be very poor, even for mountain roads, and they were washed out in a good many places."

The Smith auto has one of the healthiest sounding horns that has been heard in this region for some time, and it works by mere pressure of a button.

Oliver P. Morton Jr., attorney for the United States reclamation service, who has been ill since coming here to assist the government in its water rights case against the Buntions before United States Commissioner Charles J. Ferguson, is able to be again at his task.

B. C. Tousey of New York arrived in the city yesterday, en route to Joe Ellis' ranch, near Fort Klamath, where he will spend a month fishing and hunting.

He is an actor who has appeared in the coast cities for years, and has been a frequent visitor to Klamath Falls. Last year he was here with the Margaret Iles company, which was here Saturday night, and only his present illness prevented him from being here with the same organization on that visit.

ONEILL FIGHTING TO SAVE A LIFE

AN APPEAL WILL BE MADE IN THE CASE OF NOBEL FAULDER SENTENCED BY JUDGE BENSON TO THE EXTREME PENALTY

Counsel for Nobel Faulder, who is Attorney C. M. O'Neill of this city, is working on the case in an endeavor to save the condemned man from the fate imposed on him on March 13 last by Judge Henry L. Benson in the circuit court in this city. On that date Faulder was sentenced to pay the death penalty at the state's prison at Salem for the murder of Louis Gebbert at the Erickson & Peterson construction camp near Chiloquin a year ago this month.

After shooting Gebbert, contending that the latter, who was the camp cook, had poisoned his dog, Faulder shot himself with a rifle and a shotgun in an endeavor to determine his own existence, but good care during weeks of attendance by physicians and nurses, prevented the accomplishment of the design.

Fred H. Mills was the attorney for Faulder for a time after his arrest, but later the care of his law case was entrusted to Mr. O'Neill, who made every effort to get his client free on the plea of insanity, the trial last spring causing unusual attention. But Faulder was found guilty of murder in the first degree, owing to the strong case presented to the jury by District Attorney Dell V. Kuykendall and his assistant, Charles J. Ferguson, and Judge Benson imposed the penalty of capital punishment.

Attorney O'Neill for the defendant thereupon gave notice to the court of his intention to appeal Faulder's case to the supreme court of Oregon, and also applied for a writ of probable cause for a bill of errors. A transcript of the alleged errors must be filed in court, and so far, as nearly as could be learned today, this has not been done.

Six months may elapse after the sentence before the attorney must perfect his appeal, which will give, approximately, until September 13th.

L. Piggas, the well known candy manufacturer, returned home Saturday night from a business trip to San Francisco.

PEACE ENVOYS ARE HELPLESS

FIGHTING LATER WANT NO OUTSIDE HELP

Overthrow of the Government is Now Considered Certain—Strength of the Revolution is Increasing Rapidly, and the Whole Country is Overrun With Sympathizers of the Movement

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 19.—Minister Weissel of Nicaragua reports the battle of Managua to have been one of the bloodiest recorded in the history of Central America.

According to official advices thousands of dead are lying unburied about the city, threatening an epidemic.

The streets during the the fighting literally flowed blood.

The revolution is spreading, and the strength of the rebels is increasing hourly. The overthrow of the government now seems certain.

Efforts of the peace commission seem to be futile, and the fighting is expected to continue.

Never before in the history of the republic have the natives shown the fierce fighting spirit which has characterized the fighting in Managua and vicinity. Blood flowed like water, and lives were freely laid down in the cause for which the soldiers were fighting.

Women assisted their husbands and brothers in either repelling the invaders or attacking the city.

The detailed story of the battle is replete with acts of heroism.

His Last Picture The Pendleton Round-Up to be shown at the Majestic tonight and tomorrow, was the last motion picture put on the market by W. H. Harback. This great photographer was returning from selling some rights on his pictures in Europe. He was on the Titanic at the time of the disaster, and when last seen he was taking flashlight motion pictures of the scene around the doomed vessel, thinking that possibly the ship might not sink. But a watery grave was his finish.

MAY BEING RAVAGED BY GRASSHOPPERS

Grass of Probably 10,000 Acres in Solomon's Flats Region Nibbled Off Clean by Hungry Insects, in Vast Numbers

Millions of grasshoppers have taken all the grass off of probably 10,000 acres of land in the Solomon Flats country, according to D. E. Burrell of Fort Rock, who was in the city today.

Garfield Jack and a number of other Indian ranchers who have places in the vicinity, have been simply cleaned out of hay this season, according to the report, by the voracious, jumping, orthopterous insects, which have gone greedily over the land, snapping up every spear and stub of grass. Where the hay was from eighteen inches to two feet high last year, this season the affected territory is as bare as a board.

Battle For Valuable Land Sought by Department

A. D. Brier of Brier & Anderson, the local wood men, is putting up a strong fight to retain his hold on a valuable homestead claim of 160 acres in township 38 south, range 6 east, which property is estimated to be worth $10,000. His attorney is Horace Manning, while the contest being waged against Mr. Brier is in the hands of W. S. Staley and Bert C. Thomas. The latter is special agent of the land office, with headquarters at Portland.

There is considerable yellow pine on the homestead, with some fir and sugar pine, and the property is well adapted to logging, being directly on the Dead Indian road, between this city and Ashland. Some estimates put the amount of timber on the claim at 8,000,000 feet, and it is said to be of rarely good quality.

Several years ago Mr. Brier squatted on the claim, pending the ultimate approval of a survey of the tract, and while the survey was sanctioned by the surveyor general for the state of Oregon, who is a federal official, it has yet to be adopted by the general land office at Washington and filed at Lakeview in the offices of Register Arthur W. Orton and Receiver Fred P. Cronsmiller.

Officials of the Crater Lake National forest reserve started a contest against Mr. Brier with a view to holding the land in the reserve, and when the matter came before the two Lakeview officials above named they sustained Brier.

Then the forest reserve people carried the case to Washington to Commissioner Fred Donnell of the general land office, from whom word comes that the holding of the Lakeview officials has been reversed. Mr. Brier will appeal the case to Secretary of the Interior Walter Fisher, whose office is the court of final resort in such cases.

It is said Mr. Brier has put about $1,500 worth of improvements on the land. The ground on which the forest reserve is contesting his squatter's right is that of abandonment.
