United Press Service
ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 5.—Just as Colonel Roosevelt began speaking at the state fair grounds here today a runaway horse plunged into the crowd about the stand.

Seven persons were injured and rushed to the hospital. Thirty others were knocked down, but were not badly hurt.

Men, women and children were trampled under foot by the horse within a few feet of where Roosevelt was speaking.

Colonel Roosevelt was unmoved. He raised his voice and continued his speech in an effort to reassure the throng.

Twenty thousand people heard the speech. There was a tremendous reaction. Not one of the injured is expected to die.

Bromer was chosen alternate, both for two years. Albert E. Elder as delegate, and Charles C. Low as alternate, were elected last year to serve for two years, which provides for the delegates and two alternates for the coming convention.

No action was taken last night on the anticipated duck hunt and banquet, as no word had yet been received from the lodge at Bissou, which has been invited to come to Klamath Falls and enjoy the diversions with the local brethren.

The boys had an excellent time, and report the sport this season very good. The ducks were mostly of this year's hatching, and consequently were young and tender. It was one of the prettiest bunch of ducks ever brought back from the lake to this side of the mountain.

GAME WARDENS ARE KEPT BUSY

REPORTS REACH OFFICERS THAT GAME LAWS HAVE BEEN VIOLATED BY WEALTHY CALIFORNIA DUCK HUNTERS

Information recently reached Deputy Game Warden Jack Furber to the effect that a very wealthy woman who had been having an outing in this vicinity had shipped out of the state with her 25 Mallard ducks, which is contrary to law. The warden's informant, when pressed to give further information about the case, shut up like a clam, it is said. The warden, from reports he has heard, is led to believe that the practice this fall has not been confined to any one case.

Shooting out of season, or, rather, before the season commenced, is known to have been practiced. A wealthy man named Tousey, visiting John Ellis at Fort Klamath, was fined $27.50 for this offense. The story is told of Tousey, who is deaf, that one season when he was visiting there he shot some grouse, and a man who saw them said to Tousey, "You have some fine grouse." "How much?" asked Tousey reaching for his money, thinking he was fined.

Warden Furber was up Short Creek recently on the trail of some violators, but failed to land them. He found a box full of duck feathers, however.

Aside from a heated argument between Deputy Sheriff John Schallock and Mayor Nicholas, there were no developments in the anti-vice crusade started yesterday.

The encounter between the mayor and the pioneer deputy sheriff occurred on Main street near Fifth, and was the result of a faked interview which appeared in the Northwestern this morning. This interview has been positively denied by Mr. Schallock, to whom it had been credited.

Reports to the sheriff's office and the police today indicate that the women of the restricted district have taken good counsel, and either left the city this morning or are preparing to leave tonight.

Considerable interest has been manifested in the announcement of the authorities that the street walkers living in private homes will be kept under close watch, and that any indications of an infraction of the law will be followed up carefully.

"The sheriff's office has been advised that there are a number of young girls in the city who are no better than many of the professional women living in the restricted district," said Deputy Sheriff Wheeler this afternoon. "We know some of these girls, and will keep a close watch of their actions."

The city police have been active, and, assured of the co-operation of the sheriff's office in the closing of places outside of the city limits, are positive in their declarations of making
