SHIPPING THE BLAME

RVANCE HUTCHINS, a reporter employed by the Northwesters, was the loser in a fist encounter on the streets last night. His opponent was William Hall, a member of the Klamath Falls police force. The fight was the culmination of a series of articles which have been appearing in the morning paper, and which charged that the police were direct in their duty and intimated that they were acting in collusion with thieves. This would have been pretty hard on the members of the police force but for the fact that the majority of Klamath Falls people have long since become convinced that the Northwesters is not to be credited. That paper has printed so many news stories which have turned out to be fakes of the most pronounced character that readers now refused to be convinced by anything the Northwesters may say.

However, members of the police force have felt somewhat "sore" because of the efforts of the morning paper to discredit them, in spite of the assurance of citizens that no attention should be paid to the articles. And, as one lie followed another, this feeling was intensified.

It seems unfortunate that Mr. Hutchins should have been forced to suffer for the acts of his employer. He is an employe of Sam Evans, drawing weekly a stated sum for his work. His duty is to secure the news and prepare it for submission to his employer. A supervision is, or should be, maintained over his contributions by the man who is responsible, Sam Evans.

But here is what happened yesterday:

Chief of Police Smith called on Sam Evans and complained of the treatment which had been accorded him by the Northwesters.

"I didn't write the articles," said Mr. Evans, or words to that effect. "Hutchins, my reporter, is to blame."

Think of a man who swears that he is the editor, managing editor, business manager and sole owner of a paper shifting the blame for libel on the shoulders of a reporter, a man who is dependent on his weekly salary for his living!

TRIS SPEAKER NOW SHOWING OLD FORM

Tris Speaker is starting out in the world series as if he intended to beat his record of three years ago. If he finishes at the same pace he has started he will have the Boston fans insane with delight.

The Red Sox outfielder ran up a batting average of .571 against Mathewson, Marquard & Co. in the five-game series staged between the Speed Boys and the Giants in 1909—a series, by the way, that took just $1,001.38 out of the national commission treasury, the receipts not equaling the expense.

Speaker made 12 hits in 21 times at bat in the last Boston-New York series, three of his drives being for extra bases. He touched Mathewson and Ames for home runs and jarred Crandall for a triple, his total base average being .952.

He was not the only player to hit 500 in that series, for Harry Hooper had the half century mark. Manager, then Captain, Jake Stahl, batted 300. Charley Hall turned in an average of 300 and Bill Carrigan's figure were 283. Pape, Wood and Collins all of whom are playing for Boston in the present series, failed to get a hit three years back.

Twelve of the New York players who were in the 1909 series still remain with the team, these being (with the averages they then made) Meyers and Merkle, 375; McCormick and Mathewson, 333; Crandall, 250; Murray, 190; Doyle, 183; and Snodgrass, Hersog, Marquard, Ames and Wittse, nothing.

The Giants have this year, unless the figures lie, benefited more by errors of their opponents than have the Red Sox. At least, one would deduce that from the number of runs each team has scored and the number of runs each team has batted in. McGraw's men crossed the plate 773 times, 457 of these tallies being batted home on safe hits, 58 on sacrifice flies and 38 on infield outs. That leaves a balance of 220 markers obtained through errors, batting and fielding, through wild pitching and through steals.

The Stahlwerts, up to the same time had reached the registering bureau 714 times, batting in 595 runs—504 on safeties, 45 on aerial sacrifices and 46 on infield outs.

Duffy Lewis has been Boston's most dependable man in the pinches this season, he having been responsible for 94 runs, of which 12 were recorded through the medium of sacrifice flies. Tris Speaker has batted in 90 tallies, 83 of them coming over on safeties. Larry Gardner has pounded some 85 runs and Jake Stahl and Charley Wagner with 55 and 55 tallies batted home to their credit, also are above the half century mark.

The Giants have the same number of men as the Red Sox with records of having batted in 50 or more runs. Larry Doyle excels with 96, and Jack Murray comes next with 83. Chief Meyers, Fred Snodgrass and Beale Hocker are the other half-century plants, their records being 56, 56 and 51 respectively.

Below will be found tables showing what the two contenders in the world's series of 1912 have accomplished in the timely hitting line this season:

INDIANS RICHEST RACE IN COUNTRY

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 10.—

The interest of the 265,683 Indians in the United States is aroused by the coming conference of all Indians of the country.

Indians from all over America will congregate in the Ohio capital city, make their headquarters at the Ohio state university, and there discuss the rights and destiny of the race as Americans in America.

The leaders of the conference deny that the Indian is vanishing, and assert to the contrary.

Representative Charles D. Carter says that it must not be supposed that because the Indian has sold his buckskin shirt to a museum or stowed it away as an heirloom, that he vanished when he put on a tailor-made suit.

He reminded his interrogator that the Indians were the most wealthy people in America per capita, they having an average of $3,500 each; and that the Indian still had enough land in his own right to equal the acreage of several large states. This, he said, was why land and dollar hungry white human sharks were willing to make all kinds of representations to prejudice the public as to the Indian and his fate.

Among the leaders of this movement, which is held under the auspices of the Society of American Indians, are many well known men and women in public and private life. These include senators, representatives, teachers, farmers, lawyers, doctors, artists, scientists and politicians of all parties, and a host of thinking men and women, all Indians.

Among the vice presidents of the society is Representative Carter of Oklahoma, the former chief of Choctaw council. Dr. Sherman Coolidge, a well known Episcopal clergyman, and a graduate of one or two Eastern colleges, is the president. He also is a full blood Arapahoe, and was born in a buffalo hide tepee in the Rocky mountain foothills. His life is a romance from his earliest days. Dr. Charles A. Eastman, the well known Sioux writer and lecturer, and Dr. Carlos Montezuma, the Apache physician of Chicago, are two members of the medical profession who are among the leaders.

Among the scientific men of Indian blood are Professor J. N. B. Hewett of the Smithsonian institution, and Arthur C. Parker of Albany, N. Y., the state archaeologist of New York. Mr. Parker is the secretary of the society.

Largely through the efforts of Professor McKenzie a large associate membership of the keen thinkers along civic and economic lines has been enlisted in the society, until every friend of the red man now wants to be an associate member.

This year the society will be welcomed to Columbus by Governor Harmon, the mayor of the city, and the officials of churches, of fraternal bodies and prominent citizens. The reception will be held in the chamber of commerce hall.

Once Columbus was the seat of the federal prison, where Sioux warriors who wanted to fight for their country were incarcerated.
