A cast of eleven prominent people is rehearsing for this play, and it promises to be a grand success. Mrs. J. C. In the receiving line are Mrs. H. R. Elliott, Mrs. Robert Savidge, Mrs. Fred Schallack, Mrs. Mahlon T. Dolman, Mrs. George Capron, Mrs. Will Hurn, Mrs. Mary A. Jackson and Mrs. A. M. Worden. The Brockenbrough residence is prettily decorated for the occasion, the house being darkened to permit the use of tasteful electrical effects, while a profusion of flowers have added much to the beauty of the scene. An excellent musical program is being rendered by the White Pelican orchestra, which will be in attendance the entire afternoon. A buffet supper, with Misses Margaret Worden and Helen Forrest assisting the hostess in the serving, is to be a feature of the afternoon. Invitations are being issued by the management and guests of the White Pelican Hotel for a dancing party to be given Wednesday evening in the dining room of the hostelry. It was first planned to give the hop Tuesday night, but on account of the production of "The Mikado" by the Elks on the same evening, the dance was postponed one evening. The White Pelican Orchestra will furnish music for the entertainment of the dancers. Mrs. H. R. Elliott was hostess at bridge in the reception room of the White Pelican hotel Thursday afternoon, her guests being Mrs. J. C. Brockenbrough, Mrs. Robert A. Johnson, Mrs. Geo. Noland, Mrs. E. V.
