A man becomes more or less familiar with his own facial characteristics in the course of time, and inevitably he can identify his reflection in a mirror. But Vice President-elect Marshall has almost come to doubt that he has a chin. At least so he told a photographer recently.

"Have I a chin?" asked the Indiana executive.

"Sure," replied the camera man.

"Well," replied the vice president-elect, "I have never seen a picture of myself printed in a newspaper that showed a shadow of a jaw. If you will make a picture giving me a chin go ahead."

Bang! went the flashlight, with the above result.

GERM LADEN DUST CAUSES CATARRH

ELY'S CREAM BALM KILLS THE DEADLY CATARRH GERMS—NO STOMACH DOING

Catarrh, which is bad enough in itself, often results in loss of taste, smell and hearing, and leads to serious throat and lung troubles if not promptly checked. The seat of catarrh is usually in the back of the nose, and its natural course is downward, into the throat, and thence to the lungs.

Don't take any chances. If you have any symptoms of catarrh—stuffed up feeling in the head, nasty discharge from the nose, sore throat or dry, hacking cough, get a fifty cent bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist, and begin treatment at once.

This remedy is not a "burning out" or "drying up" process. It is simply a cleansing, healing, antiseptic Balm, taken through the nostrils into the head and throat, where it instantly reaches the seat of the trouble. That's the only way to effectually and permanently cure catarrh.

Catarrh makes you offensive to yourself and friends. Start using Ely's Cream Balm today, and in a short time you will be permanently cured of the nasty, disgusting disease.—Adv.

When William Thaw III fell in love with the beautiful Miss Gladys Virginia Bradley of Bridgeport, Conn., and asked her to marry him, she told him that if he would come to her after six months and show that he had forsaken the primrose path, and had become a good boy instead of a gilded youth she would accept him. Thaw, who always had indulged his delicate tastes with the cream at the top of the bottle of things, vowed that he would lead the simple life and make good. He did, and claimed his bride in December, 1916. Thaw has continued to be good, and now his mother, Mrs. William Thaw, Sr., is to present him with a fine country estate as a reward. She has purchased sixty acres of the best land in the fashionable Berkeley Heights, near Pittsburg, and will build a house that will be a splendid monument to her son's victory.

Fortune Smiles on Former Musical Comedy Actress

Another chapter was added recently to the romantic story of Mrs. Mary Ruth Astley, at one time known on the stage as May Kinder, when it was announced that she was to inherit an estate of nearly $400,000 under the will of her late husband, Henry J. D. Astley.

A few years ago May Kinder, at that time a telephone operator in Philadelphia, decided to go on the stage. She went to New York to seek a position in her chosen field, but as her endeavors proved fruitless, she sailed for London, where shortly she appeared as one of the twins in "Peter Pan." Later she joined the Gayety Theater company. Her success was rapid, and she became the photographic rage of London. While enjoying a wide popularity she met Mr. Jacob Deval Astley, a member of one of the oldest families in England. The two were married a few months later, but because of expected opposition from the young man's mother, the marriage was kept secret. But the mother learned of the wedding, and cut her son off without a penny. For nearly a year, young Astley and his bride eked out a fugitive existence in London, at times actually in hunger. Finally, Astley's mother relented, and on coming of age in 1908, he succeeded to The Chequers, a fine estate in Buckinghamshire. Astley became an enthusiastic airman, and participated in many aviation meets in Great Britain. He was killed in a fight at Belfast last September. And now that May Kinder is an heiress, her friends are wondering just what destiny has in store for her.
