PHONE ALARM SYSTEM VETOED

FIRE INSURANCE UNDERWRITERS ADVISE AGAINST PLAN PROPOSED BY THE CITY COUNCIL FOR KLAMATH FALLS

If the city council heeds the advice of the insurance companies, the plan of installing a telephone alarm system in Klamath Falls will be abandoned. At the meeting of the city council last night a letter was read from James N. McCune, secretary of the Underwriters Equitable Rating Bureau, in which warning was given against the telephone plan. The letter follows:

"We have been shown a newspaper clipping from the Klamath Republican of December 19th last, in which it is stated that the question of a fire alarm for the city is being considered, and we note that if arrangements can be made with the telephone company for the operation of a telephone fire alarm that such system might be possibly installed.

"We desire to take this means of advising you that in order to secure a credit in rate for a municipal fire alarm system that the rules of the underwriters call for a telegraph fire alarm system, such as the Gamewell or Star. There is no experience obtainable with reference to telephone fire alarms for municipal use, and we would not advise the installation of same in your city."

The reading of the letter followed the decision of the city council to buy a 1,500 pound bell to be put in the tower in the fire hall. The new bell will cost in the neighborhood of $600 when installed.

DRIFTING

Most men drift. Only a few, a very few, navigate. Most men are what some other man makes them. They do little thinking for themselves. Would it not be wise to man your own little bark and sail it confidently toward a definite end? Think it over, and it may be that you will decide to become a builder, a constructive worker, and a booster for the Klamath Basin. If you are wide awake, you will find opportunities right here at home, and you should make the most of them. If you want a home, a lot, a farm, or business property, come in and talk it over.

Judge Worden Answers Grand Jury Charges

Explanation is Given of the Charge that Klamath County Paid More for Culverts Than Did Lake

In his second of a series of proposed answers to the criticisms of the Klamath county grand jury, Judge William S. Worden of the county court last night produced letters and figures to show that the charge that Klamath county has paid an exorbitant price for culverts is without foundation.

The assertion in the grand jury report that Lake county has bought the same quality of culverts at a price of from 25 to 50 per cent less than Klamath county is shown by Judge Worden to be an error. Judge Worden has the following to say regarding this feature:

In the above table of prices at which Lake and Klamath counties bought their culverts, the grand jury gives the prices of "18 nestable culverts." It is in that word "nestable," I believe, that the simple secret of the error lies. The grand jury has evidently taken it for granted that this was all one kind of culvert material. Now, "nestable" means nothing more or less than "knocked down," a term so simple as to need no further explanation to any man. "Nestable" culvert does not say that Lake county bought "nestable steel" culverts, or "knocked down steel" culverts, and that Klamath county bought "knocked down American Ingot Iron" culverts. Yet that is the true explanation of the above table of prices.

Judge Worden declares that it was after a comprehensive study of the different materials offered and the needs of the county that the decision was made to buy ingot iron pipe.

After reading the said report the court wrote to Beall & Co., of Portland, Oregon, for an explanation as to whether it had been fooled or been misrepresented to be true that firm, and as to whether it were that Lake county has been getting better prices than Klamath county for the same kind of goods. Under date of December 31st, the county court received the following letter from Beall & Co., addressed to the county judge, and reading as follows:

"Dear Sir—Replying to your inquiry for explanation relative to the difference in price of culvert purchased by your county and of that purchased by Lake county, we are enclosing herewith our regular printed price sheet, showing the price at which we furnish American Ingot Iron and Steel culvert.

"You will notice that in all cases we have charged you the regular price on American Ingot Iron culvert, the same price we charge in all cases on this culvert, and furthermore, all the culverts purchased by your county was of heavy standard gauge and carries our absolute guarantee as the best culvert on the market today at any price.

"If you will compare the prices charged Lake county with our printed price list, you will find that we charged them our regular price for the Doped Steel culvert, less the regular discount on same, for Lake county did not buy American Ingot Iron culvert till recently, and only then because on the larger sizes of culvert ordered by them we were afraid, to make it out of doped steel, as we were fearful of the usual result in steel culvert of that size, namely, rust, which would affect the steel in a year or so, causing it to crush in, resulting in much dissatisfaction and possibly actions for damage that might arise, and on this small lot of large size culvert made out of American Ingot Iron we made Lake county a concession of ten per cent from our regular price, and believe it was wise for our firm to do so under the circumstances; in addition Lake county paid us spot cash for this culvert, not even waiting for the audit of the regular board, and issued us check for same.

"The culvert purchased by Lake county in 1911 was even lower in price than that printed in our list, for in that year there was a great deal of competition, which sprung up from the use of a cheap grade of steel and we, thinking that we might have to furnish that grade of culverts, purchased a stock of steel to meet it. This stock laid dead on our hands, as up to the time we sold this order to Lake county we had never before sold a dollar's worth of it, and our firm issued orders to the salesmen to clean that stock up and get it off our hands at any price.

"These steel metals mentioned here do not conflict with our prices in any way, and we never recognized them as competitive features against American Ingot Iron. At best they are only good for from five to eight years in ordinary soil, while we absolutely stand back of American Ingot Iron as non-rusting, and your county has made no mistake either as to price or the quality of your culvert, as it will last a lifetime.

"More than 90 per cent of the counties in Oregon, Washington and Idaho are using American Ingot Iron culverts and are buying it at the very same price that your county has paid. I may also add that in the more than 75 per cent of the new railroad construction in the Northwest American Ingot Iron has been specified as against any other metal.

"Your county court has used good judgment in the purchase of this culvert, for wherever they are put in it means absolute permanency, and the end of culvert trouble for all time.

"Trusting this letter gives you the information you desire, we beg to remain. Yours very truly,
"BEALL & CO."

Judge Worden then quotes letters received from county judges of Lane county, Umatilla county, Clatsop county and Baker county. In each communication the fact is set forth that the prices paid for culverts were the same as those paid by Klamath county.

In conclusion, in our decision to purchase American Ingot Iron as against steel culverts, we had this one problem to solve: Should we pay $1.29 per foot for a culvert material that would last a lifetime, or say fifty years, which not this generation, but the grandchildren of our children would have to replace, or should we pay 86 cents, or a third less, for a culvert material that its sellers admit will begin rusting within a year or two, and that will have to be replaced, not by the grandchildren of our children, but by ourselves, within five to eight years.

That being our problem, we solved it as we have done, by paying the higher price. If we were wrong we must accept and do accept the criticism that has been directed against us. Whether that criticism was justified or not, we as members of the county court cannot escape the belief that we have acted for the best interests of the taxpayers of Klamath county, present and future.

Respectfully submitted,
WM. S. WORDEN,
County Judge.
