Daughters of the Secretary of the Navy

(Copyright by G. V. Beck)
The Misses Alys and Julia Meyer, daughters of the secretary of the navy and Mrs. Meyer, are often thought to be twins, as they closely resemble each other and they dress alike. There is a difference of several years in their ages. The girls are American in every respect except they believe in the European idea that sisters should dress alike. And there is a "von" in the family name, and they do not like to have it left off.

Speaking of Freakish Headgear

The Juniors at the University of Chicago have sounded what they consider the last echo in head gear.
When they were trying to decide on a unique class hat recently one of their number was smitten with a brilliant idea. Why not adopt caps patterned after those worn by the soldiers in the Balkans? Fine. And now Chicago's college town is swarming with young men of savage appearance who talk excitedly of exams and proms and basketball and mandolins.

ASHLAND QUINCY
HERE FOR GAME

KLAMATH COUNTY NEWS AND
JACKSON COUNTY ABSTRACT-TION WILL BE BANNED
OPPOSERS THIS EVENING

Headed by Manager Len Mowatt, the basketball quintet of the Ashland high school arrived last night for its games with the Klamath county high school tonight and tomorrow night at the Pavilion. The visiting team is composed of Moody and Mills forwards, Poor center, Ashcroft and Playmate guards, and Hudson utility.

The invading quintet is composed of a bunch of fine looking youngsters, and they look capable of doing everything that is claimed for them when it comes to the basket game.
They have taken on some of the best tens in the state with good success, and it is their firm intention to smash both games they play here.

Members of the local team are entertaining the visitors at their home, but the question of the intention of the Ashland contingent is one on which the two teams cannot agree.
The local players realize that they are playing against one of the strongest organizations to be found, but nevertheless, neither they or Coach Morrison can figure Klamath county high as running second in the two games.

The local lineup will be as follows:
Forwards, Carter and Mowatt; center, McClure; guards, Beller and Hall.
Manager Mowatt of the Ashland team will referee and Coach Morrison will act as umpire.

Following the game this evening a reception will be tendered the visiting athletes at the high school.

A Prime Reason
Who Loves Things

When Miss Julia Culp landed on our shores recently she was bemoan-ing the loss of many things. To begin with, her jewels had disappeared.
Jewels that were valued not so much for their intrinsic value, as esteem, but for the splendid memories they represented. For, she said, her handbag has roamed away into this city, and said handbag contained gems gems without price, gems that had been presented to her by politicians and their ilk, and, obviously, gems that could not be duplicated. Also while a mighty hurricane, in the mountain of a huge egg-bender, was stirring up the North Atlantic, and the German was well might presented to a pulp, Miss Culp, and, to be sure, the other passengers lost—but that, nonetheless is a terrible misadventure, and should not be scoffed. And even of all the beautiful things lost her value in the excitement, and feared that she would never be able to see her engagements. But luckily she has succeeded in locating her lost jewels, and will not disappoint the many patrons who have been anticipating her visit with so much pleasure.
