Those Who Have Worked for the Interests of the Jacksonian Principles Believe They are Entitled to Recognition by Way of Appointments

United Press Service
WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 26.—While the new administration is expected strongly to support the merit system in appointive offices, the fact that three or four hundred good salaries in the federal service will be open in the states of Washington, Oregon and California this year has not been overlooked by any of the democratic leaders along the coast. A new scheme for dividing up the fruits of victory is invented every day. All plans have the proviso, of course, that Woodrow Wilson shall follow the custom of politics in this matter.
Congressmen Baker, Church and Keister, the only democratic Pacific coast men in the house, have agreed to cut California into three parts, the northern of which shall fall to Baker, the central to Church and the southern to Keister. Having no democratic senators from California to dispute their title, and the national committee being notably anti-Wilson, they feel safe in assuming the county committees that the commission shall name the postmasters, and that they will do the rest.
Federal Judge Wallberg and Ross will follow Judge Morrow into retirement under the age limitation during the coming four years. A collector of the port of San Francisco at $7,000 one for San Diego at $5,500 and San, another at Los Angeles at the same price and one at Eureka at $4,500 net, are to be named. So is the assistant treasurer at San Francisco, at $4,500, survivor of customs at $3,000, naval officer at $3,000, two district attorneys and two federal marshals at $4,000 each, and six land office registers at $3,000 each.
Oregon has a corresponding list of soft berths, candidates for many of which were recently nominated by President Taft at the joint celebration of Senator Boorne and Ralph Williams, republican national committeemen. Senators Chamberlain and Lane will consult with R. King, national committeeman, who is now in the capital, on the awards.
With neither considers nor congressmen of democratic faith, the state of Washington will see its hundred federal appointments made after consultation between the president-elect and the leaders of his party from the nation whom he considers progressive.
