SCHOOL FAIR TO BE BIG FEATURE OF PRESENT TERM

PREMIUM LIST IS BEING DISTRIBUTED

Much interest is being taken by the school children in coming domestic science and agricultural competitions—Attractive prizes will be awarded to winners in the different classes.

Encouraged by the success attending the school fair held in connection with the county fair last fall, County School Superintendent Fred Peterson and other Klamath county educators have commenced work for the second annual school fair, which will be held this coming fall.

A preliminary premium list has been prepared, and is being distributed throughout the county for the guidance of pupils and teachers. The list shows the various entries for which provision will be made.

Where Pres. Wilson Reviewed Parade

The official stand from which President Wilson reviewed the various organizations taking part in the inaugural parade. In this stand also were the invited guests of the president, members of the diplomatic corps and the congressional set. The president and his aids were in the small enclosure shown between the center columns of the stand. This enclosure was fitted with glass windows, in anticipation of bad weather.

Mrs. George Whitney of Woodburn is here to visit friends.

J. M. Holman, in charge of the Yal-nax sub-agency, is here on matters of interest to the Indian service. He is accompanied by Mrs. Holman, and the two are stopping at the Hotel Hall.

To Complete Ditches the Latter Part of June

Contract for Second Unit Laterals is More Than 30 Per Cent Completed, Says Local Official

Work of excavating the North and South Poe Valley, Griffiths and Nuss Lake laterals and the other sub-laterals and ditches of the second unit of the Klamath project provided for in their contract, will be completed by the 1st of July, according to L. A. Keshner, local representative of Maney Brothers, who have the contract.

"The contract with the government called for the completion of 10 per cent of the work last fall," said Mr. Keshner, "but at the time work was suspended, owing to snow, the contract was at least 30 per cent finished."

The work is being done by local contractors, sub-contracting different schedules under Maney Brothers. The members of this concern are supervising the work.

Fire Limit Ordinance is to be Adhered to

Council Took Decided Action in Two Cases Last Night. Mason is Refused Permission Fix Building

W. H. Mason was last night refused a permit to repair the wooden structure at the corner of Seventh and Main streets, which was burned some weeks ago, the council adopting a report as to the building tendered by Councilmen Underwood, Doty and Hamilton. This committee was appointed to ascertain the damage to the building, for which a repair permit was asked. The members reported that the building was damaged more than 50 per cent. They also added that in their opinions, even if the building was damaged to a less extent, they would not recommend the granting of a permit, stating that they "deemed it wiser to establish a precedent in reference to repairs to frame buildings within the fire limits, believing it would have been contrary to public policy to recommend a repair permit." Mr. Mason stated that he believed the damage was over-estimated, and said it could be repaired with $115 worth of lumber. The council, however, adopted the report of the special committee. An application was made by Thos. Hampton to erect a corrugated iron garage. This was denied, as the application did not specify that wood studding would not be used.

MEXICANS FIRE ON FOURTEENTH CAVALRY; 2 HURT

TROOPERS REPLY WITH THEIR MACHINE GUN

Marching to the Boundary Line Near Arizona Town, Mexican Federals Deliberately Fire Across at a Detachment of Cavalrymen—Aggressors Retreat Under Fire From the Americans

United Press Service DOUGLAS, Ariz., March 4.—Fifteen Mexican Federal soldiers from the Agua Prieta garrison marched to the boundary line near this city this afternoon and deliberately fired on a detachment of the Fourteenth Cavalry, on border patrol. The American troopers replied with machine guns, and the Mexicans fled. It is believed that two of the Mexicans were wounded.

Administered Wilson and Marshall Oath

(Copyright by J. Knowles Bishop)

Senator Jacob H. Gallinger, acting president pro tempore of the United States senate, administered the oath of office to the new vice president. The ceremony took place in the chamber of the United States senate in the presence of the members of the senate, members of the house of representatives, the retiring president, the president elect and the justices of the supreme court. Senator Gallinger represents the State of New Hampshire, and was elected March 4, 1891.

Chief Justice Edward D. White, Chief Justice Edward Douglas White of the United States Supreme court, administered the oath of office to the new president today. The chief justice was born in Louisiana, and is 68 years old. He has served in several judicial capacities in both federal and state courts, besides being a member of his state legislature and a United States senator. He was appointed an associate justice of the United States supreme court in 1894, and on December 12, 1910 he was appointed to his present position.

Mrs. D. Ellis Young, who has been visiting friends in the Willamette Valley, returned home Monday. She and Mr. Young left today for their ranch.

Henry Bagby, who has been here for several days attending to business matters, has returned to his Spring Lake ranch.

Thomas Barrows of Merrill is a Klamath Falls visitor.

NEW DEPARTMENT TO BE CREATED

PRESIDENT TAFT SIGNS MEASURE AND CONGRESSMAN WILSON ANNOUNCES HIS ACCEPTANCE OF POST

United Press Service WASHINGTON, D. C., March 4.—President Taft today signed a bill creating the department of labor. Congressman Wilson of Pennsylvania announced that he had accepted this post in the Wilson cabinet. Secretary Tumulty announced that the cabinet nominations would not go to the senate until tomorrow. The personnel will not be announced until then.

W. B. Brown of Bonanza is here attending to business matters.

DEMOCRACY NOW REIGNS IN THE WHITE HOUSE

GORGEOUS PARADE SURPASSES ALL SIMILAR EVENTS

Fifty Thousand Soldiers, Sailors, Marines, Delegations, Marching Clubs, Join in Grand Pageant—Following Lunch at His New Home, Wilson Views the Procession From Special Grand Stand

Vice President Marshall was sworn in at 12:38, and called the new senate to order a minute later. Marshall then read Taft's proclamation calling the senate in extra session to swear in Wilson. The new senators then took their oaths of office.

Seated in the rear of the senate chamber in the space Wilson has reserved for members of his cabinet were Bryan, Lane, Davis, Egan, Redfield, McAdoo, Garrison and Daniels. Congressmen Wilson, McKeen, and Burleson were absent.

At 1:07 the members of the senate went to the front of the Capitol, where Wilson was sworn in. At 1:37 the inaugural address was started. At 2:05 Wilson left the Capitol for the White House.

United Press Service WASHINGTON, D. C., March 4.—The entire inaugural program was delayed half an hour by the pressure of business in the senate. At 12:37 the senate adjourned sine die.

En route to the Capitol Wilson and Marshall were cheered. There was an occasional shout for Taft. Wilson went at once to the president's room and Marshall went to the vice president's office.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 4.—As President Wilson left the White House Princeton students formed in lines.

Taft and Wilson occupied the first carriage. Marshall and Senator Overman occupied the second carriage.

On the driveway a nervous cavalry horse reared and struck the president's carriage. Soldiers quickly quieted the animal.

As the procession passed down Pennsylvania avenue Wilson waved to the throngs.

Administering of Oaths to New Officers is Impressive

Solemn Silence that Prevails While Chief Justice White Swears in New President is Followed by Wildest Cheers After Inaugural Address is Made

United Press Service WASHINGTON, D. C., March 4.—The carriages bearing President Taft, President-elect Wilson and Vice President-elect Marshall, reached the foot of the steps before the main entrance to the Capitol at 10:45, and amid roars of applause from the great crowd the outgoing chief executive and his successor passed through the bronze doors and along the corridor to the president's room at the north of the senate chamber. Governor Marshall was led to the vice president's room near by, waiting the completion of the business of the dying session of congress. President Taft, while Governor Wilson looked on, plunged into the work of signing bills as they were brought to him from the senate. A heap of documents accumulated before the signal was given that the senate awaited its own dissolution. The president and president-elect were seated in the chamber of the senate, facing the assembled members of both houses, the diplomatic corps and high judicial officers, and the vice president-elect was ushered in to take the oath, recited to him by Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire, president of the senate pro tempore. The senate then adjourned to immediately resume its session as part of the Sixty-third congress.

Prayer by the chaplain opened the democratic regime in the chamber. Vice President Marshall then rose and delivered his inaugural address. When he had concluded he called upon the senators-elect to come forward, and administered the oath to them.

The grand procession to the Capitol steps then followed, where the formal transfer of authority from William Howard Taft to Woodrow Wilson—from the old republican party to the democratic party—was to take place. A preliminary outburst of applause at the opening of the panels to admit the members of the press had meanwhile grown to a roar of welcome from the thousands massed upon the stage outside, as the procession appeared. The tens of thousands who stood beyond the edge of the amphitheater caught up the sound, and as the portly figure of the outgoing president was distinguished in the doorway, and the audience caught sight of the pale, serious, scholarly figure at his side the pent-up enthusiasm of all the democratic visitors broke loose in a demonstration, growing louder and louder as Taft and Wilson took up the stations assigned them upon the speakers' stand.

Slowly the procession of distinguished visitors from the senate galleries filed in upon the stage. The president and his successor were seated with Chief Justice White upon their right and the official committee upon their left.

City Will Purchase by Requisitions Hereafter

Finance Committee Will Consider New Methods at a Special Meeting Tomorrow Afternoon

Instead of having supplies, etc., for the city purchased by the heads of different departments, or by city employees as they feel they need them, without, many times, the knowledge of the mayor or police judge, it is planned now to have all purchases made on requisitions, furnished by the mayor, police judge or finance committee.

Quite a number of the bills submitted last night were contracted without the knowledge of the mayor of the finance committee, although the purchases were for the city. In order to make the purchase of the city's business more economical, a special meeting of the finance committee, the mayor and police judge will be held tomorrow afternoon at the city hall. At this time the bills will be derived for use in the
