ANDERSON NEARLY OUT OF RUNNING

YANCOOVER LAD IS SAVED FROM KNOCKOUT BY THE GONG. KNOCKOUT BROWN SURPRISES FIGHT FANS

Local fight fans, all enthusiastic boosters for Bud Anderson, are not now so confident that the Vancouver lad will soon be lightweight champion, especially as Wolgast, Rivers, Britton, McFarland and Mandot are still in the running.

Bud's showing against Knockout Brown was a disappointment. The story of the battle by rounds shows that Brown had much the best of the going in the first ten rounds, when the Vancouver lad commenced to show good.

It looked as if Brown was all but out, but Bud, probably weakened by the punishment he had received early in the fight, was not able to put over the sleep producer.

Anderson was by far the more clever boxer, and, moreover, he fought cautiously. A more experienced ring general could have won easily, as he had beaten his man into semi-consciousness.

After having rushed his man through the ropes in the final round the New Yorker floored his adversary with a left swing, peppered his face with rights and lefts after the Vancouver boy had risen groggily, and would have scored a knockout but for the gong which ended the round and the fight.

In the twentieth round Anderson took more punishment than he had received in all the other rounds.

Brown is 21 years of age. Anderson is 24.

SPELLING BOOKS BADLY NEEDED

PRESENT DAY SPELLER DOES NOT CONVEY THE PROPER IDEA, SAYS WELL KNOWN EDUCATOR

United Press Service

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 17.—Dr. P. P. Claxton, United States commissioner of education, is alarmed at the fact that the spelling books of the present day and time do not convey to the people the proper command of a strong vocabulary, as the old "blue-back spelling book" of by-gone days.

Dr. Leonard P. Ayres, of the Russell Sage Foundation, has furnished the bureau of education some valuable information along this line. He has examined 2,000 business and personal letters, and tabulated words actually used in them. He compared the words found in those in the usual spelling books with surprising results.

Of 414 words in common use on the national education associations' spelling lists, 289 never once appeared in any of the 2,000 letters, showing that the average spelling book of the day does not convey to the pupil a proper and general command of a good vocabulary. In the 2,000 letters, but 2,001 separate words were used, out of 24,000 words tabulated. Forty-three words appeared so frequently as to make up half the total number of the 24,000 words used.

Both Dr. Clayton and Dr. Ayres recommend a book that will teach pupils words in common use. Hundreds of words are taught in the schools that seldom are used, and those in common use neglected.

HAMILTON ONCE MORE IN "COOLER"

NEGRO IS CHARGED WITH SELLING LIQUOR TO INDIAN—TRIAL IS IN PROGRESS BEFORE JUSTICE GOWEN

J. W. ("Ham") Hamilton was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Brewbaker Saturday night on a charge of selling liquor to an Indian. The complaint was made under a state law.

The arrest of Hamilton, who is a negro, followed the investigation here by two United States secret service officers. The testimony against the negro was brought to the attention of the local officers by the federal officers.

Hamilton has twice been convicted under a city ordinance on charges of selling liquor without a license. The first time he paid a fine, but the second case was appealed to the circuit court. It has not yet been disposed of.

Hamilton was arraigned before Justice Gowen this morning. He was represented by H. M. Manning. District Attorney Irwin appeared for the state. A plea of not guilty was entered and a jury trial was demanded.

The complaint charges that the defendant on March 13th sold a bottle of whiskey to Robin Hood, an Indian. It appears that the redskin received an allotment in Oklahoma, and it was for this reason that it was impossible to bring the charge under the federal laws.

At a late hour this afternoon the case had not been concluded.

FARMERS UNITING TO FIGHT FRAUDS

ORGANIZE AND ENGAGE ATTORNEYS TO CONTEST PAYMENT OF NOTES TO CO-OPERATIVE SUPPLY PEOPLE

Klamath county farmers, who gave notes for payment of stock subscriptions in the Co-operative Supply House, met at the Chamber of Commerce today, and an organization was formed to contest any action taken to collect the notes. The members will share equally the cost of the first action, which will be in the nature of a test suit.

The plan of the co-operative company, as outlined by representatives of the company, was to establish a central warehouse in the county, which would form part of a string throughout the state. All the products of the farms would be marketed through this medium, and all supplies for the farmer would be purchased in large quantities, and sold to him at reduced prices.

This plan, as outlined, appealed to Klamath county farmers, who realize the need for such an enterprise here, and approximately $20,000 in cash and notes was subscribed for stock. Since that time the concern has gone into the hands of a receiver, with no action being taken toward the erection of the warehouse.

Although the company is no more, the farmers who gave their notes have learned that these pieces of paper are in existence, as they have been sent here from Portland for collection. Feeling that the cash they gave was enough to waste on the defunct concern, the farmers will fight any attempt to enforce collection of the notes, on the ground that the supply house concern has not lived up to any of its agreements.

The dances are given each year to provide a fund for attending to emergencies arising, such as the replacing of clothing damaged at fires by the firemen, sudden illnesses, etc. The members receive no compensation for their work in behalf of the city, and their fund is derived entirely from the sale of tickets to the dance.
