CHIEF NAMES FIRE POLICE

TRIO OF FIRE LADDIES WILL KEEP THE CURIOUS PUBLIC FROM CROSSING THE FIRE LINES HEREAFTER

In order to prevent any well intentioned, but often hindering persons from interfering with the work of the fire department at any conflagration, Chief Ed Wakefield, George Tugnot and Oscar Brenneeman were last night designated as fire police by the members of the fire department. They will have the powers of a regular police officer at fires.

In addition Mr. Brenneeman was elected assistant chief of the department. He has long been an efficient member of the volunteer organization, and will be a valuable assistant to Chief Wakefield.

A report of the finance committee last night showed that the eighth annual ball of the fire laddies, given St. Patrick's Day, netted the department $175. Resolutions, thanking the public for the patronage given the dance, were adopted.

OVER 800 ARE ON REGISTER

REGISTRATION FOR COMING MUNICIPAL ELECTION CLOSING ON APRIL 15TH—ALL MUST REGISTER THIS YEAR

Just $16 voters of the city have registered so far for the city election to be held next month, according to the registration books at the city hall. By wards the registration follows:

First Ward	110
Second Ward	245
Third Ward	387
Fourth Ward	146
Fifth Ward	31

Total 819
The registration books close April 15. All men and women who are not registered by that time will not be allowed to vote at the city polling places.

The impression prevails that the registration of last year, which was valid at the charter election last month, will entitle the elector to vote at the coming election. This is a mistake. All must register again this year.

Suffragette is Again the Attraction of Old Bailey

Tribulations and Predicaments of Mrs. Pankhurst, Caused by Her Militant Efforts for the Enfranchisement of Women, May End in Prison

LONDON, April 1.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, dauntless leader of the militant suffragettes, and perhaps the best known woman in England, today again faced the stern visaged, somber-gowned magistrates in Old Bailey. This time the often-prosecuted and much-jailed chieftess of the hush-bazoukesses, as she has been ribaldly dubbed by the crowd, faces fourteen years' imprisonment.

She is charged with inciting to malicious destruction of property, and it is generally accepted that King George himself is behind the prosecution. Mrs. Pankhurst was arrested for alleged instigation of the bomb plot that partly wrecked the new country home of Chancellor of the Exchequer David Lloyd George, at Walton Heath, and her arrest came immediately after Home Secretary Reginald McKenna left a private audience with the king.

The trial that began today marks a crucial point in the battle for the ballot waged by British women. On its outcome depends their right of militancy. In deciding the fate of Mrs. Pankhurst, the magistrates of Old Bailey indirectly will decide whether the women who blew up Lloyd George's house, burned down the county seat of Lady White, demolished Kew Gardens and smashed innumerable windows, were merely malicious miscreants in the eyes of the law, or were honorable revolutionists fighting for their rights.

Old Bailey, perhaps, never saw a more intense crowd than that which thronged the historic old court room today to see Mrs. Pankhurst tried.

If the suffragette is convicted it will be out of her own mouth. The crown's main evidence against her is her own utterances at Cardiff, Wales, the day after the Walton Heath explosion. In her speech Mrs. Pankhurst declared that she would gladly assume all responsibility for the bomb, and the police of Cardiff, at the behest of Home Secretary McKenna, made a stenographic copy of Mrs. Pankhurst's remarks.

Mrs. Pankhurst was for several days in France with her daughter, Miss Christobel Pankhurst, an exile from London. Since the leader was released from prison in Surrey on promising good behavior, it was announced by "General" Mrs. Flora Drummond that Mrs. Pankhurst was completely broken in health by "persecution," and required absolute rest.

Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst

But the government professed to believe that Mrs. Pankhurst desired to consult her daughter regarding Miss Christobel's assumption of the militant leadership if Mrs. Pankhurst should go to prison.

The militant suffragettes of England now are "on the map" officially. Fearing a suffragette demonstration, Premier Asquith abandoned the time-honored reception to parliament members at the recent opening of the new parliament, and when that body convened a few days ago the houses of parliament were subjected to a more rigid search and vigilant guard than they had seen in generations. Fear of suffragettes caused this surveillance. Cabinet ministers are guarded in their offices, at home and on the streets. "Something awful" that would "stagger humanity" was the promise of the militants for the new parliament unless the government put through another franchise reform bill providing votes for women.

Not since the great gunpowder plot of 1605 have the parliament houses been under such vigilant surveillance as since the new parliament met. From nethermost sub-cellar to top-most chamber, the guards overlook no room nor cubbyhole. The police and parliament authorities professed to believe that the suffragettes intended to "stagger humanity" with an attempt to blow up the houses of parliament. They said they were apprehensive that some female Guy Fawkes would try a bomb outrage when the new parliament was convened. And the new precautions did not strike the public as overdraws.

Apparently the London public has undergone a revulsion of feeling on the suffrage question. From the amusement with which the people at first received the suffrage activities because of their novelty, the feeling gradually changed to mere tolerance. But with the bomb incidents, tolerance has become actual hostility. At Hyde Park and Wimbledon recently the women had their clothes torn from them, their hats torn off and trampled, and some of the anti-suffragists even spit in their faces.

Home Secretary McKenna has caused the counsellors to prepare several new bills relating to the suffragists to be introduced in this parliament. The home office proposes to give the courts power to punish the militants more drastically than is possible under present laws, which contemplated no such outbreaks as have shattered the peace of the island. The home secretary has conferred much with King George, and it is supposed the king and queen are suggesting many of the steps the government is taking to combat the spirit of violence that has been making England uneasy if not fearful.

LOOK YEARS YOUNGER! GRAY HAIR DARKENED BEAUTIFULLY WITH SAGE

Says Sage and Sulphur Will Stop Falling Hair and Cure Dandruff

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added, then left to age and carefully filtered will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant; remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair.

Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, gray or dry, scraggly and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," thus avoiding a lot of fuss. Some druggists make their own, but it isn't nearly so nice as "Wyeth's." While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur no one can tell, because it does it so naturally; so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush, taking one small strand at a time. Do this tonight, and by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, after another application or two it will be restored to its natural color and be even more glossy, soft and luxuriant than ever.

Local druggists say they are selling lots of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur"; it surely helps folks appear years younger.
