LOWER LAKE RECLAMATION TO BE TALKED

ADVISABILITY OF PRIVATE PROJECT CONSIDERED

As Work of Reclaiming Marsh Land in Lower Lake Country Cannot Be Carried on by the Government at This Time, Chamber of Commerce and Land Owners Will Get Together on Proposition

After discussing the matter of government aid in the reclamation of the Lower Lake marsh lands, and learning that at this time the reclamation service cannot go ahead with the work, members of the Klamath Chamber of Commerce have decided to take up the matter of a private project to drain a portion of the land. This will be talked Tuesday afternoon at a meeting of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce and the Lower Lake land owners who seek to have their marshes reclaimed.

The reclamation of the marsh land around Lower Klamath Lake was one of the first matters considered by the board of army engineers when the Klamath reclamation project was first considered. After a long investigation it was considered inadvisable for the work to be done for some time, so all the private lands subscribed for the marsh land project was released.

The report of the board of army engineers follows:

"It was proposed originally to irrigate the reclaimed marsh lands by means of the main canal, which was given sufficient capacity for the purpose as far as constructed. The drainage was to be effected mainly by the construction of the Keno cut and tunnel, involving excavation in the Klamath River to lower its level, the improved channel to lead to a tunnel cutting through the bend below. Power was to be developed at the lower end of the tunnel.

Bullmoosers Meet to Organize Congressmen

Third Party Prepares to Carry on Distinct Opposition to Old Parties and Smoke Out Halfhearted

By BURTON K. STANDISH (Written for the United Press) WASHINGTON, D. C., April 4.—Trumpet calls of the bull moose were sounded today to the political herd—the progressives of the next house of representatives. The organization in the house of a distinctive opposition to both the democratic and republican formations was the principal object of the conference. Nomination of a candidate for speaker of the house and other officers, and a demand for representation—as progressives, and not as minority members—on the various house committees, was also planned.

Today's conference had the "O. K." of Colonel Roosevelt, who has insisted that the party born at Chicago should retain its identity, regardless of the outcome of the November election. "Conference"—not "caucus"—was the term applied by the progressives today to their meeting, which was a closed-door affair. They expressed distaste for the word "caucus" because of alleged political iniquities committed in past political caucuses.

Arbor and Bird Day to be Observed Soon

Appropriate Program Will be Rendered in Local Schools. Several Districts are to Plant Trees

Arbor and Bird Day is to be observed by all the schools of the county, according to County School Superintendent Fred Peterson. The day, as designated by the legislature, is next Friday afternoon, and many school yards will be cleaned, trees planted and appropriate exercises rendered.

There are several districts where shade trees will be planted, following the program, and in nearly every country district the observance will be taken as an occasion to beautify the school grounds in every possible way.

In the local schools, programs pertaining to Arbor Day, also to the proper treatment of birds will be rendered. Each grade room will hold its own program.

In order to assist the teachers, the department of education for the state has sent out an Arbor and Bird Day manual, which contains a number of selected Arbor Day exercises. In addition, there are articles on tree culture, a contribution on bird life by State Game Warden William J. Finley, who is, perhaps, the foremost ornithologist in the West, and data regarding forest fire protection and dangers by State Forester Elliott.

SUFFRAGETTES USE BOMB TO GET REVENGE

STATION AND PASSENGER TRAIN WRECKED BY DYNAMITE

Clockwork Machines Are Used, and Placards Are Posted, Telling of the Work of Suffragettes and Mentioning Mrs. Pankhurst—San Francisco Women Send a Telegram to the Convicted Worker.

United Press Service LONDON, April 4.—In making a demonstration against the conviction and imprisonment of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, suffragettes today dynamited the railway station at Oxford, Surrey. A clock contrivance, similar to that described by Orle McManigal, the American dynamiter, was the type of bomb used. Placards posted around the scene of the explosion announced that the suffragettes were responsible.

"Beware how you treat Mrs. Pankhurst," was the inscription on some of the posters. The railroads have issued warnings to the public, and have placed strong guards at the stations. Two young women were arrested this morning, carrying suitcases containing explosives and combustibles. The suitcases also contained placards similar to those used at the wrecked station.

Truant Boys to Saw Wood; Girls to Stay After School

Faculty of the High School Has Its Inning in the "April Fool" Episode, and Wood Bill at Institution Will be Lessened by the "Student Activities."

Students of the high school who figured in the wholesale half holiday epidemic Tuesday afternoon have come to a stern realization of the fact that "every pleasure has its pain." This follows the pronouncement of sentence on the truants.

The fact is brought home very forcibly to the ten or more boys who "cut" school on the beautiful afternoon of April 1. Before they can consider that they have fully atoned for their misconduct, each laddybuck in the party must convert a cord of four-foot wood into sixteen-inch length by the use of a bucksaw.

The girls who figured in the truancy are also serving a sentence, as they were informed that for the next two weeks, they will be kept after school. In addition to the punishment meted out to them, the truants were given severe lectures at school—and it is rumored that several board of the affair at home.

The high school is proceeding merrily, blistered hands and aching backs notwithstanding. It is figured that the money saved by the school in having the students subdivide the cordwood into desirable lengths will amount to several dollars, possibly enough to purchase a flag, should one be needed.

Although they are getting a "kick" in every way, the truants who are "in bed" are bearing up well under their sentence. One of the (Continued on Page 4)

Western Night Stag to be Given by Elks

Thursday's Event Will be Greatest Event Ever. Chaparajos, Boots and Sombreros Right Attire

There is a great hurrying and scurrying around on the part of Elks and their friends for boots, chaps, sombreros, flannel shirts, and the like, following the announcement that "Western Night," the big stag party to be given by the Elks Thursday night is to be "western" in every sense of the word, and the costumes will be strictly of the period when a "billed" shirt and a stiff hat were looked on with more suspicion than disdain in these parts.

The younger generation are not the only ones who are agog over the announcement, as sedate old business men of the city, long since pillars of the churches, have caught the fever, and they are digging around the old woodshed in an effort to exhume the shooting iron and holster they discarded when they quit punching cattle on the Klamath range to settle down here. It is reported that there are threats of serious breaches in several families over the disputed ownership of sundry articles of wearing apparel generally affected by cow gentlemen, miners, lumberjacks and others in the days when this section was in its infancy.

In charge of the arrangements for the affair are E. H. Hall, Harry M. Ackley, Charles J. Ferguson, J. E. Dodge, Perry O. De Lap and John Houston. They have been working on the proposition for some time, and from whisperings that go out, the occasion will be the greatest ever attempted in Southern Oregon.

A set program has been arranged, jammed clear full of unusual stunts, and this will be enlivened by the "something-doing-every-minute" style of affair that the Bills will give.

Novel invitations are being prepared. They will be sent out within a few days.
